T O T H E A U T H O R.

NOW let the atheist tremble; thou alone
Can bid his conscious heart the Godhead own.
Whom shalt thou not reform? O thou hast seen,
How God descends to judge the souls of men.
Thou heard'st the sentence how the guilty mourn,
Driy'n out from God, and never to return.

Yet more, behold ten thousand thunders fall,
And sudden vengeance wrap the flaming ball:
When nature sunk, when every bolt was hurl'd,
Thou saw'st the boundless ruins of the world.

When guilty Sodom felt the burning rain,
And sulphur fell on the devoted plain;
The patriarch thus, the fiery tempest past,
With pious horror view'd the desert waste;
The restless smoke still wav'd its curls around,
For-ever rising from the glowing ground.

But tell me, oh! what heav'nly pleasure tell,
To think so greatly, and describe so well!
How wast thou pleas'd the wond'rous theme to try,
And find the thought of man could rise so high?
Beyond this world the labour to pursue,
And open all eternity to view?

But thou art best delighted to rehearse
 Heav'n's holy dictates in exalted verse:
 O thou hast power the harden'd heart to warm,
 To grieve, to raise, to terrify, to charm;
 To fix the soul on God; to teach the mind
 To know the dignity of human-kind;
 By stricter rules well-govern'd life to scan,
 And practise o'er the angel in the man.

Magd. Coll. Oxon.

T. WARTON.

To a LADY, with the LAST DAY.

MADAM,

HERE, sacred truths, in lofty numbers told,

The prospect of a future state unfold:

The realms of night to mortal view display,

And the glad regions of eternal day.

This daring author scorns, by vulgar ways

Of guilty wit, to merit worthless praise.

Full of her glorious theme, his tow'ring muse,

With gen'rous zeal, a nobler fame pursues:

Religion's cause her ravish'd heart inspires,

And with a thousand bright ideas fires;

Transports her quick, impatient, piercing eye,

O'er the strait limits of mortality,

To boundless orbs, and bids her fearless soar,
Where only MILTON gain'd renown before;
Where various scenes alternately excite
Amazement, pity, terror, and delight.

Thus did the muses sing in early times,
Ere skill'd to flatter vice, and varnish crimes:
Their lyres were tun'd to virtuous sons alone,
And the chaste poet, and the priest, were one.
But now, forgetful of their infant state,
They sooth the wanton pleasures of the great:
And from the press, and the licentious stage,
With luscious poison taint the thoughtless age;
Deceitful charms attract our wond'ring eyes,
And specious ruin unsuspected lies.
So the rich soil of India's blooming shores,
Adorn'd with lavish nature's choicest stores,
Where serpents lurk, by flow'rs conceal'd from sight,
Hides fatal danger under gay delight.

These purer thoughts from gross alloys refin'd,
With heavenly raptures elevate the mind:
Not fram'd to raise a giddy short-liv'd joy,
Whose false allurements, while they please, destroy;
But bliss resembling that of saints above,
Sprung from the vision of th' almighty love:
Firm, solid bliss, for ever great and new,
The more 'tis known, the more admir'd, like you;
Like you, fair nymph, in whom united meet
Endearing sweetness, unaffected wit,
And all the glories of your sparkling race,
While inward virtues heighten every grace.

6 TO A LADY, WITH THE LAST DAY.

By these secur'd, you will with pleasure read
• Of future judgment, and the rising dead;
• Of time's grand period, heav'n and earth o'erthrown;
• And gasping nature's last tremendous groan.
These, when the stars and Sun shall be no more,
Shall beauty to your ravag'd form restore:
Then shall you shine with an immortal ray,
Improv'd by death, and brighten'd by decay.

Pemb. Coll. Oxon.

T. TRISTRAM.

T. O. T H E A U T H O R,

ON HIS LAST DAY AND UNIVERSAL PASSION.

AND must it be as thou hast sung,
Celestial bard, seraphic YOUNG?
Will there no trace, no point be found
Of all this spacious glorious round?
Yon lamps of light, must they decay?
On nature's self, destruction prey?
Then fame, the most immortal thing,
Ev'n thou canst hope, is on the wing.
Shall NEWTON's system be admir'd,
When time and motion are expir'd?

TO THE AUTHOR.

Shall souls be curious to explore
Who rul'd an orb that is no more?
Or shall they quote the pictur'd age,
From POPE's and thy corrective page,
When vice and virtue lose their name
In deathless joy, or endless shame?
While wears away the grand machine,
The works of genius shall be seen:
Beyond, what laurels can there be,
For HOMER, HORACE, POPE, or THEE?
Thro' life we chase, with fond pursuit,
What mocks our hope, like Sodom's fruit:
And sure, thy plan was well design'd,
To cure this madness of the mind;
First, beyond time our thoughts to raise;
Then lash our love of transient praise,
In both, we own thy doctrine just;
And fame's a breath, and men are dust.

1736.

J. BANCKS.

shall I be content to explore
Who said an orb that is no more
The day they struck the pillar's top,
From Pore's and thy corrective page,
When vice and virtue told their names
In doubtful joy, or doubtful shame;
While we are away the grand machine,
The work of genius shall be seen:
Beyond, what laurels can there be,
For Homer, Horace, Tove, or Theophrastus,
Thro' life we chase, with fond pursuit,
What mocks our hope, like Sodom's fruit;
And sure, thy plan was well design'd,
To cure this madness of the mind;
First, beyond time our thoughts to raise;
Then, last our love of transient praise;
In both, we own thy doctrine just;
And fame's a breath, and men are dust.

THE LAST DAY.

BOOK I.

*Ipse pater, media nimborum in nocte, corusca
Fulmina molitur dextra. Quo maxima motu
Terra tremit: fugere ferae; et mortalia corda
Per gentes humilis stravit pavor.*— VIRG.

WHILE others sing the fortune of the great;
Empire and arms, and all the pomp of state;
With Britain's hero * set their souls on fire,
And grow immortal as his deeds inspire,
I draw a deeper scene: a scene that yields
A louder trumpet, and more dreadful fields;
The world alarm'd, both earth and heav'n o'erthrown,
And gasping nature's last tremendous groan;
Death's antient sceptre broke, the teeming tomb,
The righteous judge, and man's eternal doom.

'Twixt joy and pain I view the bold design,
And ask my anxious heart, if it be mine.
Whatever great or dreadful has been done
Within the sight of conscious stars or sun,
Is far beneath my daring: I look down
On all the splendors of the British crown.

* The Duke of MARLBOROUGH.

This globe is for my verse a narrow bound;
 Attend me, all the glorious worlds around!
 O! all ye angels, howsoe'er disjoin'd,
 Of every various order, place, and kind,
 Hear, and assist, a feeble mortal's lays;
 'Tis your eternal King I strive to praise.

But chiefly thou, great Ruler! Lord of all!
 Before whose throne archangels prostrate fall;
 If at thy nod, from discord, and from night,
 Sprang beauty, and yon sparkling worlds of light,
 Exalt e'en me; all inward tumults quell;
 The clouds and darkness of my mind dispell;
 To my great subject thou my breast inspire,
 And raise my lab'ring soul with equal fire.

Man, bear thy brow aloft, view ev'ry grace
 In God's great offspring, beauteous nature's face:
 See spring's gay bloom; see golden autumn's store;
 See how earth smiles, and hear old ocean roar.
 Leviathans but heave their cumbrous mail,
 It makes a tide, and wind-bound navies sail:
 Here, forests rise, the mountains awful pride;
 Here, rivers measure climes, and worlds divide;
 There, vallies fraught with gold's resplendent seeds,
 Hold kings, and kingdoms fortunes, in their beds:
 There, to the skies, aspiring hills ascend,
 And into distant lands their shades extend.
 View cities, armies, fleets; of fleets the pride,
 See Europe's law, in Albion's channel ride.
 View the whole earth's vast landskip unconfin'd,
 Or view in Britain all her glories join'd.

Then let the firmament thy wonder raise;
I'll raise thy wonder, but transcend thy praise.
How far, from east to west, the labouring eye
Can scarce the distant azure bonnds descry:
Wide theatre! where tempests play at large,
And God's right-hand can all its wrath discharge.
Mark how those radiant lamps inflame the pole,
Call forth the seasons, and the year controul:
They shine thro' time, with an unalter'd ray:
See this grand period rise, and that decay:
So vast, this world's a grain; yet myriads grace,
With golden pomp, the throng'd ethereal space;
So bright, with such a wealth of glory stor'd,
'Twere sin in heathens not to have ador'd.

How great, how firm, how sacred, all appears!
How worthy an immortal round of years!
Yet all must drop, as autumn's sickliest grain,
And earth and firmament be sought in vain:
The track forgot where constellations shone,
Or where the Stewarts fill'd an awful throne:
Time shall be slain, all nature be destroy'd,
Nor leave an atom in the mighty void.

Soon, or later, in some future date,
(A dreadful secret in the book of fate!)
This hour, for aught all human wisdom knows,
Or when ten thousand harvests more have rose;
When scenes are chang'd on this revolving earth,
Old empires fall, and give new empires birth;
While other Bourbons rule in other lands,
And (if man's sin forbids not) other Annes;

While the still busy world is treading o'er,
 The paths they trod five thousand years before,
 Thoughtless as those who now life's mazes run,
 Of earth dissolv'd, or an extinguish'd sun;
 (Ye sublunary worlds, awake, awake!
 Ye rulers of the nations, hear, and shake!)
 Thick clouds of darkness shall arise on day;
 In sudden night all earth's dominions lay;
 Impetuous winds the scatter'd forests rend;
 Eternal mountains, like their cedars, bend;
 The valleys yawn, the troubled ocean roar,
 And break the bondage of his wonted shore;
 A sanguine stain the silver moon o'erspread;
 Darkness the circle of the sun invade;
 From inmost heav'n incessant thunders roll,
 And the strong echo bound from pole to pole.

When, lo, a mighty trump, one half conceal'd,
 In clouds, one half to mortal eye reveal'd,
 Shall pour a dreadful note; the piercing call
 Shall rattle in the centre of the ball;
 Th' extended circuit of creation shake,
 The living die with fear, the dead awake.

Oh pow'rful blast! to which no equal sound
 Did e'er the frighted ear of nature wound,
 Tho rival clarions have been strain'd on high,
 And kindl'd wars immortal thro' the sky,
 Tho' God's whole enginery discharg'd, and all
 The rebel angels bellow'd in their fall.

Have angels sinn'd? and shall not man beware?
 How shall a son of earth decline the snare?

Not folded arms, and slackness of the mind,
Can promise for the safety of mankind:
None are supinely good: thro' care and pain,
And various arts, the steep ascent we gain.
This is the scene of combat, not of rest,
Man's is laborious happiness at best;
On this side death his dangers never cease,
His joys are joys of conquest, not of peace.

If then, obsequious to the will of fate,
And bending to the terms of human state,
When guilty joys invite us to their arms,
When beauty smiles, or grandeur spreads her charms,
The conscious soul would this great scene display,
Call down th' immortal hosts in dread array,
The trumpet sound, the Christian banner spread,
And raise from silent graves the trembling dead;
Such deep impression would the picture make,
No pow'r on earth her firm resolve could shake;
Engag'd with angels she would greatly stand,
And look regardless down on sea and land;
Not proffer'd worlds her ardour could restrain,
And death might shake his threat'ning lance in vain!
Her certain conquest would endear the fight,
And danger serve but to exalt delight.

Instructed thus to shun the fatal spring,
Whence flow the terrors of that day I sing;
More boldly we our labours may pursue,
And all the dreadful image set to view.

The sparkling eye, the sleek and painted breast,
The burnish'd scale, curl'd train, and rising crest,

All that is lovely in the noxious snake,
Provokes our fear, and bids us flee the brake:
The sling once drawn, his guiltless beauties rise
In pleasing lustre, and detain our eyes;
We view with joy, what once did horror move,
And strong aversion softens into love.

Say then, my muse, whom dismal scenes delight,
Frequent at tombs, and in the realms of night;
Say, melancholy maid, if bold to dare
The last extremes of terror and despair;
Oh say, what change on earth, what heart in man,
This blackest moment since the world began.

Ah mournful turn! the blissful earth, who late
At leisure on her axle roll'd in state;
While thousand golden planets knew no rest,
Still onward in their circling journey prest;
A grateful change of seasons some to bring,
And sweet vicissitude of fall and spring:
Some thro' vast oceans to conduct the keel,
And some those watry worlds to sink, or swell:
Around her some their splendors to display,
And gild her globe with tributary day:
This world so great, of joy the bright abode,
Heav'n's darling child, and fav'rite of her God,
Now looks an exile from her father's care,
Deliver'd o'er to darkness and despair.
No sun in radiant glory shines on high;
No light, but from the terrors of the sky:
Fall'n are her mountains, her fam'd rivers lost,
And all into a second chaos tost:

One universal ruin spreads abroad;
Nothing is safe beneath the throne of God.

Such, earth, thy fate: what then canst thou afford
To comfort and support thy guilty lord?
Man, haughty lord of all beneath the moon,
How must he bend his soul's ambition down?
Prostrate, the reptile own, and disavow
His boasted stature, and assuming brow?
Claim kindred with the clay, and curse his form,
That speaks distinction from his sister worm?
What dreadful pangs the trembling heart invade?
Lord, why dost thou forsake, whom thou hast made?
Who can sustain thy anger? who can stand
Beneath the terrors of thy lifted hand?
It flies the reach of thought; oh save me, Pow'r
Of pow'r's supreme, in that tremendous hour!
Thou who beneath the frown of fate hast stood,
And in thy dreadful agony sweat blood;
Thou, who for me, thro' every throbbing vein,
Hast felt the keenest edge of mortal pain;
Whom death led captive through the realms below,
And taught those horrid mysteries of woe;
Defend me, O my God! Oh save me, Pow'r
Of pow'r's supreme, in that tremendous hour!

From east to west they fly, from pole to line,
Imploring shelter from the wrath divine;
Beg flames to wrap, or whelming seas to sweep,
Or rocks to yawn, compassionately deep:
Seas cast the monster forth to meet his doom,
And rocks but prison up for wrath to come.

So fares a traitor to an earthly crown;
While death sits threat'ning in his prince's frown,
His heart's dismay'd; and now his fears command,
To change his native for a distant land:
Swift orders fly, the king's severe decree
Stands in the channell, and locks up the sea;
The port he seeks, obedient to her lord,
Hurls back the rebel to his lifted sword.

But why this idle toil to paint that day?
This time elaborately thrown away?
Words all in vain pant after the distress,
The height of eloquence would make it less;
Heavens! how the good man trembles?—

And is there a Last Day? and must there come
A sure, a fix'd, inexorable doom?
Ambition swell, and, thy proud sails to show,
Take all the winds that vanity can blow;
Wealth on a golden mountain blazing stand,
And reach an India forth in either hand;
Spread all thy purple clusters, tempting vine,
And thou, more dreaded foe, bright beauty, shine;
Shine all; in all your charms together rise;
That all, in all your charms, I may despise,
While I mount upward on a strong desire,
Borne, like Elijah, in a car of fire.

In hopes of glory to be quite involv'd!
To smile at death! to long to be dissolv'd!
From our decays a pleasure to receive!
And kindle into transport at a grave!

What equals this? And shall the victor now
Boast the proud laurels on his loaded brow?
Religion! Oh thou cherub, heav'nly bright!
Oh joys unmix'd, and fathomless delight!
Thou, Thou art all; nor find I in the whole
Creation aught, but God and my own soul.

For ever then, my soul, thy God adore,
Nor let the brute creation praise him more.
Shall things inanimate my conduct blame,
And flush my conscious cheek with spreading shame?
They all for him pursue, or quit, their end;
The mounting flames their burning pow'r suspend;
In solid heaps th' unfrozen billows stand,
To rest and silence aw'd by his command:
Nay, the dire monsters that infest the flood,
By nature dreadful, and athirst for blood,
His will can calm, their savage tempers bind,
And turn to mild protectors of mankind.
Did not the prophet this great truth maintain
In the deep chambers of the gloomy main;
When darkness round him all her horrors spread,
And the loud ocean bellow'd o'er his head?

When now the thunder roars, the lightning flies,
And all the warring winds tumultuous rise;
When now the foaming surges, tost on high,
Disclose the sands beneath, and touch the sky;
When death draws near, the mariners aghast,
Look back with terror on their actions past;
Their courage sickens into deep dismay,
Their hearts, thro' fear and anguish melt away;

Nor tears, nor pray'rs, the tempest can appease;
 Now they devote their treasure to the seas;
 Unload their shatter'd barque, tho' richly fraught,
 And think the hopes of life are cheaply bought
 With gems and gold; but oh, the storm so high!
 Nor gems nor gold the hopes of life can buy.

The trembling prophet then, themselves to save,
 They headlong plunge into the briny wave;
 Down he descends, and, booming o'er his head,
 The billows close; he's number'd with the dead.
 (Hear, O ye just! attend, ye virtuous few!
 And the bright paths of piety pursue)
 Lo! the great Ruler of the world, from high,
 Looks smiling down with a propitious eye,
 Covers his servant with his gracious hand,
 And bids tempestuous nature silent stand;
 Commands the peaceful waters to give place,
 Or kindly fold him in a soft embrace:
 He bridles in the monsters of the deep;
 The bridled monsters awful distance keep:
 Forget their hunger, while they view their prey;
 And guiltless gaze, and round the stranger play.

But still arise new wonders; nature's Lord
 Sends forth into the deep his powerful word,
 And calls the great leviathan: the great
 Leviathan attends in all his state;
 Exults for joy, and, with a mighty bound,
 Makes the sea shake, and heav'n and earth resound;
 Blackens the waters with the rising sand,
 And drives vast billows to the distant land.

As yawns an earthquake, when imprison'd air
Struggles for vent, and lays the centre bare,
The whale expands his jaws enormous size;
The prophet views the cavern with surprize;
Measures his monstrous teeth, afar descry'd,
And rolls his wond'ring eyes from side to side:
Then takes possession of the spacious seat,
And sails secure within the dark retreat.

Now is he pleas'd the northern blast to hear,
And hangs on liquid mountains, void of fear;
Or falls immers'd into the depths below,
Where the dead silent waters never flow;
To the foundations of the hills convey'd,
Dwells in the shelving mountain's dreadful shade:
Where plummet never reach'd, he draws his breath,
And glides serenely thro' the paths of death.

Two wond'rous days and nights thro' coral groves,
Thro' labyrinths of rocks and sands, he roves:
When the third morning with its level rays
The mountains gilds, and on the billows plays,
It sees the king of waters rise and pour
His sacred guest un-injur'd on the shore:
A type of that great blessing, which the muse
In her next labour ardently pursues.

THE LAST DAY.

BOOK II.

— Ἐκ γαίης ἐλπίζομεν εἰς φάος ἐλθεῖν.

Δείψαν ἀποικομένων ὀπίσω δὲ θεοὶ τελέθονται.

PHOCYL.

i. e

— We hope, that the departed will rise again from the dust: after which, like the gods, they will be immortal.

NOW man awakes, and from his silent bed,
Where he has slept for ages, lifts his head;
Shakes off the slumber of ten thousand years,
And on the borders of new worlds appears.
Whate'er the bold, the rash, adventure cost,
In wide eternity I dare be lost.
The muse is wont in narrow bounds to sing,
To teach the swain, or celebrate the king.
I grasp the whole, no more to parts confin'd;
I lift my voice, and sing to human kind:
I sing to men and angels; angels join,
While such the theme, their sacred songs with mine.

Again the trumpet's intermitted sound
Rolls the wide circuit of creation round;

Y.
An universal concourse to prepare
Of all that ever breath'd the vital air:
In some wide field, which active whirlwinds sweep,
Drive cities, forests, mountains, to the deep,
To smooth and lengthen out th' unbounded space,
And spread an area for all human race.

CYL.
Now monuments prove faithful to their trust,
And render back their long committed dust.
Now charnels rattle; scatter'd limbs, and all
The various bones, obsequious to the call,
Self-mov'd, advance; the neck perhaps to meet
The distant head; the distant legs the feet.
Dreadful to view, see thro' the dusky sky
Fragments of bodies in confusion fly,
To distant regions journeying there to claim
Deserted members, and compleat the frame.

When the world bow'd to Rome's almighty sword,
Rome bow'd to POMPEY, and confess'd her lord.
Yet one day lost, this deity below
Became the scorn and pity of his foe.
His blood a traitor's sacrifice was made,
And smok'd indignant on a ruffian's blade.
No trumpet's sound, no gasping army's yell,
Bid, with due horror, his great soul farewell.
Obscure his fall! all welt'ring in his gore,
His trunk was cast to perish on the shore!
While JULIUS frown'd the bloody monster dead,
Who brought the world in his great rival's head.
This sever'd head and trunk shall join once more,
Tho' realms now rise between, and oceans roar.

The trumpet's sound each vagrant mote shall hear,
 Or fix'd in earth, or if afloat in air,
 Obey the signal wafted in the wind,
 And not one sleeping atom lag behind.

So swarming bees, that on a summer's day
 In airy rings, and wild meanders play,
 Charm'd with the brazen sound, their wand'rings end,
 And, gently circling, on a bough descend.

The body thus renew'd, the conscious soul,
 Which has perhaps been flutt'ring near the pole,
 Or midst the burning planets wond'ring stray'd,
 Or hover'd o'er where her pale corpse was laid;
 Or rather coasted on her final state,
 And fear'd or wish'd for, her appointed fate:
 This soul, returning with a constant flame,
 Now weds for ever her immortal frame.
 Life, which ran down before, so high is wound,
 The springs maintain an everlasting round.

Thus a frail model of the work design'd
 First takes a copy of the builder's mind,
 Before the structure firm with lasting oak,
 And marble bowels of the solid rock,
 Turns the strong arch, and bids the columns rise,
 And bear the lofty palace to the skies;
 The wrongs of time enabled to surpass,
 With bars of adamant, and ribs of brass.

That antient, sacred, and illustrious * dome,
 Where soon or late fair Albion's heroes come,

* Westminster-Abbey.

From camps, and courts, tho' great, or wise, or just,
To feed the worm, and moulder into dust;
That solemn mansion of the royal dead,
Where passing slaves o'er sleeping monarchs tread,
Now populous o'erflows: a numerous race
Of rising kings fill all th' extended space:
A life well spent, not the victorious sword,
Awards the crown, and stiles the greater lord.

Nor monuments alone, and burial-earth,
Labours with man to this his second birth;
But where gay palaces in pomp arise,
And gilded theatres invade the skies,
Nations shall wake, whose unrespected bones
Support the pride of their luxurious sons.
The most magnificent and costly dome
Is but an upper chamber to a tomb.
No spot on earth, but has supply'd a grave,
And human skulls the spacious ocean pave.
All's full of man; and at this dreadful turn,
The swarm shall issue, and the hive shall burn.

Not all at once, nor in like manner, rise:
Some lift with pain their slow unwilling eyes:
Shrink backward from the terror of the light,
And bless the grave, and call for lasting night.
Others, whose long-attempted virtue stood
Fixt as a rock, and broke the rushing flood,
Whose firm resolve, nor beauty could melt down,
Nor raging tyrants from their posture frown;
Such, in this day of horrors, shall be seen
To face the thunders with a godlike mien;

The planets drop, their thoughts are fixt above;
 The centre shakes, their hearts disdain to move:
 An earth dissolving, and a heav'n thrown wide,
 A yawning gulph, and fiends on every side,
 Serene they view, impatient of delay,
 And bless the dawn of everlasting day. [place;

Here greatness prostrate falls; there, strength gives
 Here, lazars smile; there, beauty hides her face.
 Christians, and Jews, and Turks, and Pagans stand,
 A blended throng, one undistinguished band.
 Some who, perhaps, by mutual wounds expir'd,
 With zeal for their distinct persuasions fir'd,
 In mutual friendship their long slumber break,
 And hand in hand their Saviour's love partake.

But none are flush'd with brighter joy, or, warm
 With juster confidence, enjoy the storm,
 Than those; whose pious bounties unconfin'd,
 Have made them public fathers of mankind.
 In that illustrious rank, what shining light
 With such distinguish'd glory fills my sight?
 Bend down, my grateful muse, that homage show,
 Which to such worthies thou art proud to owe.
 Wickham! Fox! Chicheley! hail, illustrious † names,
 Who to far distant times dispense your beams;
 Beneath your shades, and near your chrystal springs,
 I first presum'd to touch the trembling strings.

† Founders of New College, Corpus-Christi, and
 All-souls, in Oxford; of all which the author was a member.

All-hail, thrice honour'd! 'Twas your great renown
To bless a people, and oblige a crown.
And now you rise, eternally to shine,
Eternally to drink the rays divine.

Indulgent God! Oh how shall mortal raise
His soul to due returns of grateful praise,
For bounty so profuse to human kind,
Thy wond'rous gift of an eternal mind?
Shall I, who, some few years ago, was less
Than worm, or mite, or shadow can express,
Was Nothing; shall I live, when ev'ry fire
And ev'ry star shall languish and expire?

When earth's no more, shall I survive above,
And thro' the radiant files of angels move?
Or, as before the throne of God I stand,
See new worlds rolling from his spacious hand,
Where our adventures shall perhaps be taught,
As we now tell how Michael sung or fought?
All that has being in full concert join,
And celebrate the depths of Love Divine!

But oh! before this blissful state, before
Th' aspiring soul this wond'rous height can soar,
The judge, descending, thunders from afar,
And all mankind is summon'd to the bar.

This mighty scene I next presume to draw;
Attend, great Anna, with religious awe.
Expect not here the known successful arts
To win attention, and command our hearts:
Fiction, be far away; let no machine
Descending here, no fabled god, be seen;

Behold the God of gods indeed descend,
And worlds unnumber'd his approach attend!

Lo! the wide theatre, whose ample space
Must entertain the whole of human race,
At heav'n's all-pow'rful edict is prepar'd,
And fenc'd around with an immortal guard.
Tribes, provinces, dominions, worlds, o'erflow
The mighty plain, and deluge all below:
And ev'ry age, and nation, pours along;
Nimrod and Bourbon mingle in the throng:
Adam salutes his youngest son; no sign
Of all those ages, which their births disjoin.

How empty learning, and how vain is art,
But as it mends the life, and guides the heart?
What volumes have been swell'd, what time been spent,
To fix a hero's birth day, or descent?
What joy must it now yield, what rapture raise,
To see the glorious race of antient days?
To greet those worthies, who perhaps have stood
Illustrious on record before the flood?
Alas! a nearer care your soul demands,
Caesar un-noted in your presence stands.

How vast the concourse! not in number more
The waves that break on the resounding shore,
The leaves that tremble in the shady grove,
The lamps that gild the spangled vaults above:
Those overwhelming armies, whose command
Said to one empire, Fall; another Stand:
Whose rear lay wrapt in night, while breaking dawn
Rouz'd the broad front, and call'd the battle on:

Great Xerxes' world in arms, proud Cannae's field,
Where Carthage taught victorious Rome to yield,
(Another blow had broke the fates decree,
And earth had wanted her fourth monarchy)
Immortal Blenheim, fam'd Ramillia's host,
They all are here, and here they all are lost:
Their millions swell to be discern'd in vain,
Lost as a billow in th' unbounded main.

This echoing voice now rends the yielding air,
For judgment, judgment, sons of men, prepare!
Earth shakes anew; I hear her groans profound;
And hell through all her trembling realms resound.

Whoe'er thou art, thou greatest pow'r of earth,
Blest with most equal planets at thy birth;
Whose valour drew the most successful sword,
Most realms united in one common lord;
Who, on the day of triumph, saidst, Be thine
The skies, Jehovah, all this world is mine:
Dare not to lift thine eye—Alas! my muse,
How art thou lost? what numbers canst thou chuse?

A sudden blush inflames the waving sky,
And now the crimson curtains open fly;
Lo! far within, and far above all height,
Where heav'n's great sovereign reigns in worlds of light,
Whence nature he informs, and with one ray
Shot from his eye, does all her works survey,
Creates, supports, confounds! where time, and place,
Matter, and form, and fortune, life, and grace,
Wait humbly at the footstool of their God,
And move obedient at his awful nod;

Whence he beholds us vagrant emmets crawl
At random on this air-suspended ball
(Speck of creation :) if he pour one breath,
The bubble breaks, and 'tis eternal death.

Thence issuing I behold (but mortal sight
Sustains not such a rushing sea of light !)
I see, on an empyreal flying throne
Sublimely rais'd, heav'n's everlasting Son ;
Crown'd with that majesty, which form'd the world,
And the grand rebel flaming downward hurl'd.
Virtue, dominion, praise, omnipotence,
Support the train of their triumphant prince.
A zone, beyond the thought of angels bright,
Around him, like the zodiac, winds its light.
Night shades the solemn arches of his brows,
And in his cheek the purple morning glows.
Where e'er serene, he turns propitious eyes,
Or we expect, or find, a paradise :
But if resentment reddens their mild beams,
The Eden kindles, and the world's in flames.
On one hand, knowledge shines in purest light ;
On one, the sword of justice, fiercely bright.
Now bend the knee in sport, present the reed ;
Now tell the scourg'd impostor he shall bleed !

Thus glorious thro' the courts of heav'n, the source
Of life and death eternal bends his course ;
Loud thunders round him roll, and lightnings play ;
Th' angelic host is rang'd in bright array :
Some touch the string, some strike the sounding shell,
And mingling voices in rich concerts swell ;

Voices seraphic; blest with such a strain,
Could Satan hear, he were a god again.

Triumphant king of glory! soul of bliss!
What a stupendous turn of fate is this?

O! whither art thou rais'd above the scorn
And indigence of him in Bethlem born;

A needless, helpless, unaccounted, guest,
And but a second to the fodder'd beast?

How chang'd from him, who meekly prostrate laid,
Vouchsaf'd to wash the feet himself had made?

From him who was betray'd, forsook, deny'd, [dy'd;
Wept, languish'd, pray'd, bled, thirsted, groan'd, and
Hung pierc'd and bare, insulted by the foe,
All heaven in tears above, earth unconcern'd below?

And was't enough to bid the sun retire?

Why did not nature at thy groan expire?

I see, I hear, I feel, the pangs divine;

The world is vanish'd, — I am wholly thine.

Mistaken Caiaphas! Ah! which blasphem'd;

Thou, or thy pris'ner? which shall be condemn'd?

Well might'st thou rend thy garments, well exclaim;

Deep are the horrors of eternal flame!

But God is good! 'tis wondrous all! ev'n he

Thou gav'st to death, shame, torture, dy'd for thee.

Now the descending triumph stops its flight

From earth full twice a planetary height.

There all the clouds condens'd, two columns raise

Distinct with orient veins, and golden blaze.

One fix'd on earth, and one in sea, and round

Its ample foot the swelling billows sound.

These an immeasurable arch support,
 The grand tribunal of this awful court.
 Sheets of bright azure, from the purest sky,
 Stream from the crystal arch, and round the columns fly.
 Death, wrapt in chains, low at the basis lies,
 And on the point of his own arrow dies.

Here high enthron'd th' eternal judge is plac'd,
 With all the grandeur of his Godhead grac'd;
 Stars on his robes in beauteous order meet,
 And the sun burns beneath his awful feet.

Now an archangel eminently bright,
 From off his silver staff of wond'rous height,
 Unfurls the Christian flag, which waving flies,
 And shuts and opens more than half the skies:
 The cross so strong a red, it sheds a stain,
 Where-e'er it floats, on earth, and air, and main;
 Flashes the hill, and sets on fire the wood,
 And turns the deep dy'd ocean into blood.

Oh formidable glory! dreadful bright!
 Refulgent torture to the guilty sight.
 Ah turn, unwary muse, nor dare reveal
 What horrid thoughts with the polluted dwell,
 Say not, (to make the sun shrink in his beam)
 Dare not affirm, they wish it all a dream;
 Wish, or their souls may with their limbs decay,
 Or God be spoil'd of his eternal sway.
 But rather, if thou know'st the means, unfold
 How they with transport might the scene behold.
 Ah how! but by repentance, by a mind
 Quick, and severe its own offence to find?

By tears, and groans, and never-ceasing care,
And all the pious violence of pray'r?
Thus then, with fervency till now unknown,
I cast my heart before th' eternal throne,
In this great temple, which the skies surround,
For homage to its lord, a narrow bound.

' O thou! whose ballance does the mountains weigh,
' Whose will the wild tumultuous seas obey,
' Whose breath can turn those watry worlds to flame,
' That flame to tempest, and that tempest tame;
' Earth's meanest son, all trembling, prostrate falls,
' And on the boundless of thy goodness calls.

' Oh! give the winds all past offence to sweep,
' To scatter wide, or bury in the deep:
' Thy pow'r, my weakness, may I ever see,
' And wholly dedicate my soul to thee:
' Reign o'er my will; my passions ebb and flow
' At thy command, nor human motive know;
' If anger boil, let anger be my praise,
' And sin the graceful indignation raise.
' My love be warm to succour the distress'd,
' And lift the burden from the soul oppress'd:
' Oh may my understanding ever read
' This glorious volume, which thy wisdom made!
' Who decks the maiden spring with flow'ry pride?
' Who calls forth summer, like a sparkling bride?
' Who joys the mother autumn's bed to crown?
' And bids old winter lay her honours down?
' Not the great Ottoman, or greater Czar,
' Not Europe's arbitress of peace and war,

- May sea and land, and earth and heaven be join'd,
- To bring th' eternal Author to my mind ?
- When oceans roar, or awful thunders roll,
- May thoughts of thy dread vengeance shake my soul !
- When earth's in bloom, or planets proudly shine,
- Adore, my heart, the Majesty divine !
- Thro' ev'ry scene of life, or peace, or war,
- Plenty, or want, thy glory be my care !
- Shine we in arms ? or sing beneath our vine ?
- Thine is the vintage, and the conquest thine :
- Thy pleasure points the shaft, and bends the bow ;
- The cluster blasts, or bids it brightly glow :
- 'Tis thou that lead'st our pow'rful armies forth,
- And giv'st great Anne thy sceptre o'er the north.
- Grant I may ever, at the morning-ray,
- Open with pray'r the consecrated day ;
- Tune thy great praise, and bid my soul arise,
- And with the mounting sun ascend the skies :
- As that advances, let my zeal improve,
- And glow with ardour of consummate love ;
- Nor cease at eve, but with the setting sun
- My endless worship shall be still begun.
- And, oh ! permit the gloom of solemn night
- To sacred thought may forcibly invite.
- When this world's shut, and awful planets rise,
- Call on our minds, and raise them to the skies ;
- Compose our souls with a less dazzling light,
- And shew all nature in a milder light ;
- How every boistrous thought in calms subsides !
- How the smooth'd spirit into goodness glides !

- O how divine! to tread the milky way,
- To the bright palace of the Lord of day;
- His court admire, or for his favour sue,
- Or leagues of friendship with his saints renew;
- Pleas'd to look down, and see the world asleep,
- While I long vigils to its founder keep!
- Can'st thou not shake the centre? Oh controul,
- Subdue by force, the rebel in my soul:
- Thou, who can'st still the raging of the flood,
- Restrain the various tumults of my blood;
- Teach me, with equal firmness, to sustain
- Alluring pleasure, and assailing pain.
- O may I pant for thee in each desire!
- And with strong faith foment the holy fire!
- Stretch out my soul in hope, and grasp the prize,
- Which in eternity's deep bosom lies!
- At the great day of recompence behold,
- Devoid of fear, the fatal book unfold!
- Then waded upward to the blissful seat,
- From age to age, my grateful song repeat;
- My light, my life, my God, my saviour see,
- And rival angels in the praise of Thee.

THE LAST DAY.

BOOK III.

*Esse quoque in fatis reminiscitur, affore tempus,
Quo mare, quo tellus, correptaque regia coeli
Ardeat; et mundi moles operosa laboret.* OVID. MET.

THE book unfolding; the resplendent seat
Of saints and angels; the tremendous fate
Of guilty souls; the gloomy realms of woe;
And all the horrors of the world below;
I next presume to sing: what yet remains
Demands my last, but most exalted strains.
And let the Muse or now affect the sky,
Or in inglorious shades for ever lie.
She kindles, she's inflam'd so near the goal;
She mounts, she gains upon the starry pole;
The world grows less as she pursues her flight,
And the sun darkens to her distant sight.
Heav'n op'ning, all its sacred pomp displays,
And overwhelms her with the rushing blaze!
The triumph rings! archangels shout around!
And echoing nature lengthens out the sound!

Ten thousand trumpets now at once advance;
Now deepest silence lulls the vast expanse:
So deep the silence, and so strong the blast,
As nature dy'd, when she had groan'd her last.

Nor man, nor angel, moves; the Judge on high
 Looks round, and with his glory fills the sky:
 Then on the fatal book his hand he lays,
 Which high to view supporting seraphs raise;
 In solemn form the rituals are prepar'd,
 The seal is broken, and a groan is heard.
 And thou, my soul, (oh fall to sudden pray'r,
 And let the thought sink deep!) shalt thou be there?

See on the left (for by the great command
 The throng divided falls on either hand;) ET.
 How weak, how pale, how haggard, how obscene,
 What more than death in ev'ry face and mien?
 With what distress, and glarings of affright,
 They shock the heart, and turn away the sight?
 In gloomy orbs their trembling eye-balls roll,
 And tell the horrid secrets of the soul.
 Each gesture mourns, each look is black with care,
 And ev'ry groan is loaden with despair.
 Reader, if guilty, spare the muse, and find
 A truer image pictur'd in thy mind.

Should'st thou behold thy brother, father, wife,
 And all the soft companions of thy life,
 Whose blended int'rests levell'd at one aim,
 Whose mix'd desires sent up one common flame,
 Divided far; thy wretched self alone
 Cast on the left, of all whom thou hast known;
 How would it wound? what millions wouldst thou give
 For one more trial, one more day to live?
 Flung back in time an hour, a moment's space,
 To grasp with eagerness the means of grace;

Contend for mercy with a pious rage,
And in that moment to redeem an age?
Drive back the tide, suspend a storm in air,
Arrest the sun; but still of this despair.

Mark, on the right, how amiable a grace!
Their maker's image fresh in ev'ry face!
What purple bloom my ravish'd soul admires,
And their eyes sparkling with immortal fires!
Triumphant beauty! charms that rise above
This world, and in blest angels kindle love!
To the great Judge with holy pride they turn,
And dare behold th' Almighty's anger burn;
Its flash sustain, against its terror rise,
And on the dread tribunal fix their eyes.
Are these the forms that moulder'd in the dust?
Oh the transcendent glory of the just!
Yet still some thin remains of fear and doubt,
Th' infected brightness of their joy pollute. [nigh,

Thus the chaste bridegroom, when the priest draws
Beholds his blessing with a trembling eye,
Feels doubtful passions throb in ev'ry vein,
And in his cheeks are mingled joy and pain,
Lest still some intervening chance should rise,
Leap forth at once, and snatch the golden prize;
Inflame his woe, by bringing it so late,
And stab him in the crisis of his fate.

Since Adam's family, from first to last,
Now into one distinct survey is cast;
Look round, vain-glorious muse, and you whoe'er
Devote yourselves to fame, and think her fair;

Look round, and seek the lights of human race,
 Whose shining acts time's brightest annals grace;
 Who founded sects; crowns conquer'd, or resign'd;
 Gave names to nations; or fam'd empires join'd;
 Who rais'd the vale, and laid the mountain low;
 And taught obedient rivers where to flow;
 Who with vast fleets, as with a mighty chain,
 Could bind the madness of the roaring main:
 All lost? all undistinguish'd? no-where found?
 How will this truth in Bourbon's palace sound?

That hour, on which th' Almighty King on high]
 From all eternity has fix'd his eye,
 Whether his right hand favour'd, or annoy'd,
 Continu'd, alter'd, threaten'd, or destroy'd;
 Southern or eastern sceptre downward hurl'd,
 Gave north or west dominion o'er the world;
 The point of time, for which the world was built,
 For which the blood of God himself was spilt,
 That dreadful moment is arriv'd.

Aloft, the seats of bliss their pomp display
 Brighter than brightness, this distinguish'd day;
 Less glorious, when of old th' eternal Son
 From realms of night return'd with trophies won:
 Thro' heav'n's high gates, when he triumphant rode,
 And shouting angels hail'd the victor God.
 Horrors, beneath, darkness in darkness, hell
 Of hell, where torments behind torments dwell;
 A furnace formidable, deep, and wide,
 O'er-boiling with a mad sulphureous tide,

Expands its jaws, most dreadful to survey,
And roars outrageous for the destin'd prey.
The sons of light scarce unappall'd look down,
And nearer press heav'n's everlasting throne.

Such is the scene; and one short moment's space
Concludes the hopes and fears of human race.
Proceed who dares! — I tremble as I write;
The whole creation swims before my sight:
I see, I see, the Judge's frowning brow;
Say not, 'tis distant; I behold it now;
I faint, my tardy blood forgets to flow,
My soul recoils at the stupendous woe;
That woe, those pangs, which from the guilty breast,
In these, or words like these, shall be express'd.

• Who burst the barriers of my peaceful grave?
• Ah! cruel death, that would no longer save,
• But gravg'd me e'en that narrow dark abode,
• And cast me out into the wrath of God;
• Where shrieks, the roaring flame, the rattling chain,
• And all the dreadful eloquence of pain,
• Our only song; black fire's malignant light,
• The sole refreshment of the blasted sight.
• Must all those pow'rs, heav'n gave me to supply,
• My soul with pleasure, and bring in my joy,
• Rise up in arms against me, join the foe,
• Sense, reason, memory, increase my woe?
• And shall my voice, ordain'd on hymns to dwell,
• Corrupt to groans, and blow the fires of hell?
• Oh! must I look with terror on my gain,
• And with existence only measure pain?

- What! no reprieve, no least indulgence giv'n,
- No beam of hope, from any point of heav'n!
- Ah mercy! mercy! art thou dead above?
- Is love extinguish'd in the source of love?
- Bold that I am, did heav'n stoop down to hell?
- Th' expiring Lord of life my ransom seal?
- Have I not been industrious to provoke?
- From his embraces obstinately broke?
- Pursu'd, and panted for his mortal hate,
- Earn'd my destruction, labour'd out my fate?
- And dare I on extinguish'd love exclaim?
- Take, take full vengeance, rouse the slack'ning flame;
- Just is my lot—but oh! must it transcend
- The reach of time, despair a distant end?
- With dreadful growth shoot forward, and arise,
- Where thought can't follow, and bold fancy dies!
- Never! where falls the soul at that dread sound?
- Down an abyss how dark, and how profound?
- Down, down, (I still am falling, horrid pain!)
- Ten thousand thousand fathoms still remain;
- My plunge but still begun—and this for sin?
- Could I offend, if I had never been,
- But still increas'd the senseless happy mass,
- Flow'd in the stream, or shiver'd in the grass? }
- Father of mercies! why from silent earth
- Did'st thou awake, and curse me into birth?
- Tear me from quiet, ravish me from night,
- And make a thankless present of thy light?
- Push into being a reverse of thee,
- And animate a clod with misery?

- The beasts are happy; they come forth, and keep
- Short watch on earth, and then lie down to sleep.
- Pain is for man; and oh! how vast a pain
- For crimes, which made the Godhead bleed in vain?
- Annul'd his groans, as far as in them lay,
- And flung his agonies, and death, away?
- As our dire punishment for ever strong,
- Our constitution too for ever young.
- Curs'd with returns of vigour, still the same,
- Pow'rful to bear, and satisfy the flame:
- Still to be caught, and still to be pursu'd!
- To perish still, and still to be renew'd!
- And this, my help! my God! at thy decree?
- Nature is chang'd, and hell should succour me.
- And can'st thou then look down from perfect bliss,
- And see me plunging in the dark abyss?
- Calling thee father, in a sea of fire?
- Or pouring blasphemies at thy desire?
- With mortals anguish wilt thou raise thy name,
- And by my pangs omnipotence proclaim?
- Thou, who can'st toss the planets to and fro,
- Contract not thy great vengeance to my woe;
- Crush worlds; in hotter flames fall'n angels lay;
- On me almighty wrath is cast away.
- Call back thy thunders, Lord, hold in thy rage,
- Nor with a speck of wretchedness engage:
- Forget me quite, nor stoop a worm to blame;
- But lose me in the greatness of thy name.
- Thou art all love, all mercy, all divine,
- And shall I make those glories cease to shine?

- Shall sinful man grow great by his offence,
- And from its course turn back omnipotence?
- Forbid it! and oh! grant, great God, at least
- This one, this slender, almost no request;
- When I have wept a thousand lives away,
- When torment is grown weary of its prey,
- When I have rav'd ten thousand years in fire,
- Ten thousand thousand, let me then expire.'

Deep anguish! but too late; the hopeless soul
Bound to the bottom of the burning pool,
Though loth, and ever loud blaspheming, owns
He's justly doom'd to pour eternal groans;
Enclos'd with horrors, and transfix'd with pain,
Rolling in vengeance, struggling with his chain:
To talk to fiery tempests; to implore
The raging flame to give its burnings o'er;
To toss, to writhe, to pant beneath his load,
And bear the weight of an offended God.

The favour'd of their judge, in triumph move
To take possession of their thrones above;
Satan's accurs'd desertion to supply,
And fill the vacant stations of the sky;
Again to kindle long extinguish'd rays,
And with new lights dilate the heav'nly blaze;
To crop the roses of immortal youth,
And drink the fountain head of sacred truth;
To swim in seas of bliss, to strike the string,
And lift the voice to their Almighty King;
To lose eternity in grateful lays,
And fill heav'n's wide circumference with praise.

But I attempt the wond'rous height in vain,
 And leave unfinish'd the too lofty strain:
 What boldly I begin, let others end;
 My strength exhausted, fainting I descend,
 And chuse a less, but no ignoble, theme,
 Dissolving elements, and worlds, in flame.

The fatal period, the great hour, is come,
 And nature shrinks at her approaching doom;
 Loud peals of thunder give the sign, and all
 Heav'n's terrors in array surround the ball;
 Sharp lightnings with the meteors blaze conspire,
 And, darted downward, set the world on fire;
 Black, rising clouds the thicken'd ether choke,
 And fiery flames dart through the rolling smoke,
 With keen vibrations cut the sullen night,
 And strike the darken'd sky with dreadful light;
 From heav'n's four regions, with immortal force,
 Angels drive on the wind's impetuous course,
 T' enrage the flame: it spreads, it soars on high,
 Swells in the storm, and billows through the sky:
 Here winding pyramids of fire ascend,
 Cities and deserts in one ruin blend;
 Here blazing volumes wafted, overwhelm
 The spacious face of a far distant realm;
 There, undermin'd, down rush eternal hills,
 The neighb'ring vales the vast destruction fills. [broke

Hear'st thou that dreadful crack? that sound which
 Like peals of thunder, and the centre shook?
 What wonders must that groan of nature tell?
 Olympus there, and mightier Atlas, fell;

Which seem'd above the reach of fate to stand;
 A tow'ring monument of God's right hand;
 Now dust and smoke, whose brow, solitely, spread
 O'er shelter'd countries its diffusive shade.

Shew me that celebrated spot, where all
 The various rulers of the fever'd ball
 Have humbly fought wealth, honour, and redress,
 That land which heav'n seem'd diligent to bless,
 Once call'd Britannia: can her glories end?
 And can't surrounding seas her realms defend?
 Alas! in flames behold surrounding seas!
 Like oil, their waters but augment the blaze.

Some angel say, Where ran proud Asia's bound?
 Or where with fruits was fair Europa crown'd?
 Where stretch'd waste Lybia? where did India's store
 Sparkle in diamonds, and her golden ore?
 Each lost in each, their mingling kingdoms glow,
 And all dissolv'd, one fiery deluge flow:
 Thus earth's contending monarchies are join'd,
 And a full period of ambition find.

And now whate'er or swims, or walks, or flies,
 Inhabitants of sea, or earth, or skies;
 All on whom Adam's wisdom fix'd a name,
 All plunge, and perish in the conqu'ring flame.

This globe alone would but defraud the fire,
 Starve its devouring rage: the flakes aspire,
 And catch the clouds, and make the heav'ns their prey;
 The sun, the moon, the stars, all melt away;
 All, all is lost; no monument, no sign,
 Where once so proudly blaz'd the gay machine.

So bubbles on the foaming stream expire,
 So sparks that scatter from the kindling fire;
 The devastations of one dreadful hour
 The great creator's six days work devour.
 A mighty, mighty ruin ! yet one soul
 Has more to boast, and far outweighs the whole ;
 Exalted in superior excellence,
 Casts down to nothing, such a vast expence.
 Have you not seen th' eternal mountains nod,
 An earth dissolving, a descending God ?
 What strange surprizes through all nature ran ?
 For whom these revolutions, but for man ?
 For him, omnipotence new measures takes,
 For him, through all eternity, awakes ;
 Pours on him gifts sufficient to supply
 Heav'n's loss, and with fresh glories fill the sky.

Think deeply then, O man, how great thou art ;
 Pay thyself homage with a trembling heart ;
 What angels guard, no longer dare neglect,
 Slighting thyself, affront not God's respect.
 Enter the sacred temple of thy breast,
 And gaze, and wander there, a ravish'd guest ;
 Gaze on those hidden treasures thou shalt find,
 Wander thro' all the glories of thy mind.
 Of perfect knowledge, see, the dawning light
 Foretels a noon most exquisitely bright !
 Here, springs of endless joy are breaking forth !
 There, buds the promise of celestial worth !
 Worth, which must ripen in a happier clime,
 And brighter sun, beyond the bounds of time.

Lumina; nam teneras arcebant vincula palmas. VIRG.

FROM lofty themes, from thoughts that soar'd on
And open'd wond'rous scenes above the sky, [high,
My muse descend: indulge my fond desire;
With softer thoughts my melting soul inspire,
And smoothe my numbers to a female's praise:
A partial world will listen to my lays,
While Anna reigns, and sets a female name
Unrivall'd in the glorious lists of fame.

Hear, ye fair daughters of this happy land,
Whose radiant eyes the vanquish'd world command,
Virtue is Beauty: but when charms of mind
With elegance of outward form are join'd;
When youth makes such bright objects still more bright,
And fortune sets them in the strongest light;
'Tis all of heav'n that we below may view,
And all, but adoration, is your due.

Fam'd female virtue did this isle adorn,
Ere Ormond, or her glorious Queen, was born:

When now Maria's pow'rful arms prevail'd,
 And haughty Dudley's bold ambition fail'd,
 The beauteous daughter of great Suffolk's race,
 In blooming youth adorn'd with ev'ry grace ;
 Who gain'd a crown by treason not her own,
 And innocently fill'd another's throne ;
 Hurl'd from the summit of imperial state,
 With equal mind sustain'd the stroke of fate.

But how will Guilford, her far dearer part,
 With manly reason fortify his heart ?

At once she longs, and is afraid, to know :
 Now swift she moves, and now advances slow,
 To find her lord ; and, finding, passes by,
 Silent with fear, nor dares she meet his eye ;
 Lest that, unask'd, in speechless grief, disclose
 The mournful secret of his inward woes.
 Thus, after sickness, doubtful of her face,
 The melancholy virgin shuns the glass.

At length, with troubled thought, but look serene,
 And sorrow soften'd by her heav'nly mien,
 She clasps her lord, brave, beautiful, and young,
 While tender accents melt upon her tongue ;
 Gentle, and sweet, as vernal Zephyr blows,
 Fanning the lily, or the blooming rose.

- Grieve not, my lord ; a crown indeed is lost ;
- What far outshines a crown, we still may boast ;
- A mind compos'd ; a mind that can disdain
- A fruitless sorrow for a loss so vain.
- Nothing is loss that virtue can improve
- To wealth eternal ; and return above ;

' Above, where no distinction shall be known
 ' 'Twixt him whom storms have shaken from a throne,
 ' And him, who, basking in the smiles of fate,
 ' Shone forth in all the splendor of the great:
 ' Nor can I find the diff'rence here below;
 ' I lately was a queen; I still am so,
 ' While Guilford's wife: thee rather I obey,
 ' Than o'er mankind extend imperial sway.
 ' When we lie down in some obscure retreat,
 ' Incens'd Maria may her rage forget;
 ' And I to death my duty will improve,
 ' And what you miss in empire, add in love—
 ' Your godlike soul is open'd in your look,
 ' And I have faintly your great meaning spoke,
 ' For this alone I'm pleas'd I wore the crown,
 ' To find with what content we lay it down.
 ' Heroes may win, but 'tis a heav'nly race
 ' Can quit a throne with a becoming grace.'

Thus spake the fairest of her sex, and cheer'd
 Her drooping lord; whose boding bosom fear'd
 A darker cloud of ills would burst, and shed
 Severer vengeance on her guiltless head:
 Too just, alas, the terrors which he felt!
 For, lo! a guard!—Forgive him, if he melt—
 How sharp her pangs, when sever'd from his side,
 The most sincerely lov'd, and loving bride,
 In space confin'd, the muse forbears to tell;
 Deep was her anguish, but she bore it well.
 His pain was equal, but his virtue less;
 He thought in grief there could be no excess.

Pensive he sat, o'ercast with gloomy care,
 And often fondly clasp'd his absent fair;
 Now, silent, wander'd through his rooms of state,
 And sicken'd at the pomp, and tax'd his fate;
 Which thus adorn'd, in all her shining store,
 A splendid wretch, magnificently poor.
 Now on the bridal-bed his eyes were cast,
 And anguish fed on his enjoyments past;
 Each recollected pleasure made him smart,
 And ev'ry transport stabb'd him to the heart.

That happy moon, which summon'd to delight,
 That moon which shone on his dear nuptial night,
 Which saw him fold her yet untasted charms
 (Deny'd to princes) in his longing arms;
 Now sees the transient blessing fleet away,
 Empire and love! the vision of a day.

Thus, in the British clime, a summer-storm
 Will oft the smiling face of heav'n deform;
 The winds with violence at once descend,
 Sweep flow'rs and fruits, and make the forest bend;
 A sudden winter, while the sun is near,
 O'ercomes the season, and inverts the year.

But whither is the captive borne away,
 The beauteous captive, from the chearful day?
 The scene is chang'd indeed; before her eyes
 Ill-boding looks and unknown horrors rise:
 For pomp and splendor, for her guard and crown,
 A gloomy dungeon, and a keeper's frown;
 Black thoughts, each morn invade the lover's breast,
 Each night, a ruffian locks the queen to rest.

Ah mournful change, if judg'd by vulgar minds!
 But Suffolk's daughter its advantage finds.
 Religion's force divine is best display'd
 In deep desertion of all human aid:
 To succour in extremes, is her delight,
 And cheer the heart, when terror strikes the sight.
 We, disbelieving our own senses, gaze,
 And wonder what a mortal's heart can raise
 To triumph o'er misfortunes, smile in grief,
 And comfort those who come to bring relief:
 We gaze; and as we gaze, wealth, fame, decay,
 And all the world's vain glories fade away.

Against her cares she rais'd a dauntless mind,
 And with an ardent heart, but most resign'd,
 Deep in the dreadful gloom, with pious hear,
 Amid the silence of her dark retreat,
 Address'd her God——' Almighty Pow'r divine!
 ' 'Tis thine to raise, and to depress, is thine;
 ' With honour to light up the name unknown,
 ' Or to put out the lustre of a throne.
 ' In my short span both fortunes I have prov'd,
 ' And though with ill frail nature will be mov'd,
 ' I'll bear it well: (O strengthen me to bear!)
 ' And if my piety may claim thy care;
 ' If I remember'd, in youth's giddy heat,
 ' And tumult of a court, a future state;
 ' O favour, when thy mercy I implore
 ' For one who never guilty sceptre bore!
 ' 'Twas I receiv'd the crown; my lord is free;
 ' If it must fall, let vengeance fall on me.

- ' Let him survive, his country's name to raise,
- ' And in a guilty land to speak thy praise!
- ' O may th' indulgence of a father's love,
- ' Pour'd forth on me, be doubled from above!
- ' If these are safe, I'll think my pray'rs succeed,
- ' And bless thy tender mercies, whilst I bleed.'

'Twas now the mournful eve before that day
 In which the queen to her full wrath gave way;
 Thro' rigid justice, rush'd into offence,
 And drank in zeal the blood of innocence:
 The sun went down in clouds, and seem'd to mourn
 The sad necessity of his return;
 The hollow wind, and melancholy rain,
 Or did, or was imagin'd to, complain:
 The tapers cast an inauspicious light;
 Stars there were none, and doubly dark the night.

Sweet innocence in chains can take her rest;
 Soft slumber gently creeping through her breast,
 She sinks; and in her sleep is re-inthron'd,
 Mock'd by a gaudy dream, and vainly crown'd.
 She views her fleets and armies, seas and land,
 And stretches wide her shadow of command:
 With royal purple is her vision hung;
 By phantom hosts are shouts of conquest rung;
 Low at her feet the suppliant rival lies;
 Our prisoner mourns her fate, and bids her rise.

Now level beams upon the waters play'd,
 Glanc'd on the hills, and westward cast the shade;
 The busy trades in city had began
 To sound, and speak the painful life of man.

In tyrants breasts the thoughts of vengeance rouse,
And the fond bridegroom turns him to his spouse.
At this first birth of light, while morning breaks,
Our spouseless bride, our widow'd wife, awakes;
Awakes, and smiles; nor night's imposture blames;
Her real pomps were little more than dreams;
A short-liv'd blaze, a light'ning quickly o'er,
That died in birth, that shone, and were no more:
She turns her side, and soon resumes a state
Of mind, well suited to her alter'd fate,
Serene, though serious; when dread tidings come
(Ah wretched Guilford!) of her instant doom.
Sun, hide thy beams; in clouds as black as night
Thy face involve; be guiltless of the sight;
Or haste more swiftly to the western main;
Nor let her blood the conscious day-light stain!

Oh! how severe! to fall so new a bride,
Yet blushing from the priest, in youthful pride;
When time had just matur'd each perfect grace,
And open'd all the wonders of her face!
To leave her Guilford dead to all relief,
Fond of his woe, and obstinate in grief.
Unhappy fair! whatever fancy drew,
(Vain promis'd blessings) vanish from her view;
No train of chearful days, endearing nights,
No sweet domestic joys, and chaste delights;
Pleasures that blossom e'en from doubts and fears;
And bliss, and rapture rising out of cares;
No little Guilford, with paternal grace,
Lull'd on her knee, or smiling in her face;

Who, when her dearest father shall return,
 From pouring tears on her untimely urn,
 Might comfort to his silver hairs impart,
 And fill her place in his indulgent heart :
 As where fruits fall, quick-rising blossoms smile,
 And the bless'd Indian of his care beguile.

In vain these various reasons jointly press,
 To blacken death, and heighten her distress;
 She, through th' encircling terrors, darts her sight
 To the bless'd regions of eternal light,
 And fills her soul with peace : to weeping friends
 Her father, and her lord, she recommends;
 Unmov'd herself : her foes her air survey,
 And rage to see their malice thrown away.
 She soars ; now nought on earth detains her care—
 But Guilford ; who still struggles for his share.
 Still will his form importunately rise,
 Clog and retard her transport to the skies ;
 As trembling flames now take a feeble flight,
 Now catch the brand with a returning light,
 Thus her soul onward from the seats above,
 Falls fondly back, and kindles into love :
 At length she conquers in the doubtful field ;
 That heaven she seeks will be her Guilford's shield :
 Now death is welcome ; his approach is slow ;
 'Tis tedious longer to expect the blow.

Oh ! mortals, short of sight, who think the past
 O'erblown misfortune still shall prove the last :
 Alas ! misfortunes travel in a train,
 And oft in life form one perpetual chain ;

Fear buries fear, and ills on ills attend,
'Till life and sorrow meet one common end.

She thinks that she has nought but death to fear,
And death is conquer'd. Worse than death is near;
Her rigid trials are not yet compleat;
The news arrives of her great father's fate.
She sees his hoary head, all white with age,
A victim to th' offended monarch's rage.
How great the mercy, had she breath'd her last,
Ere the dire sentence on her father past!

A fonder parent nature never knew;
And as his age increas'd, his fondness grew.
A parent's love ne'er better was bestow'd;
The pious daughter in her heart o'erflow'd.
And can she from all weakness still refrain?
And still the firmness of her soul maintain?
Impossible! a sigh will force its way;
One patient tear her mortal birth betray;
She sighs and weeps! but so she weeps and sighs,
As silent dews descend, and vapours rise.

Celestial patience! how dost thou defeat
The foe's proud menace, and elude his hate?
While passion takes his part, betrays our peace;
To death and torture swells each slight disgrace;
By not opposing, thou dost ills destroy,
And wear thy conquer'd sorrows into joy.

Now she revolves within her anxious mind,
What woe still lingers in reserve behind.
Griefs rise on griefs, and she can see no bound,
While nature lasts, and can receive a wound.

The sword is drawn ; the queen to rage inclin'd,
By mercy, nor by piety, confin'd.
What mercy can the zealot's heart assuage,
Whose piety itself converts to rage?
She thought, and sigh'd. And now the blood began
To leave her beauteous cheek all cold and wan.
New sorrow dimm'd the lustre of her eye,
And on her cheek the fading roses die.
Alas! should Guilford too—— When now she's brought
To that dire view, that precipice of thought,
While there she trembling stands, nor dares look down,
Nor can recede, till heav'n's decrees are known;
Cure of all ills, till now her lord appears——
But not to cheer her heart, and dry her tears!
Not now, as usual, like the rising day,
To chase the shadows, and the damps away:
But, like a gloomy storm, at once to sweep
And plunge her to the bottom of the deep.
Black were his robes, dejected was his air,
His voice was frozen by his cold despair;
Slow, like a ghost, he mov'd with solemn pace;
A dying paleness sat upon his face.
Back she recoil'd, she smote her lovely breast,
Her eyes the anguish of her heart confess'd;
Struck to the soul, she stagger'd with the wound,
And sunk, a breathless image, to the ground.

Thus the fair lily, when the sky's o'ercast,
At first but shudders in the feeble blast;

But when the winds and weighty rains descend,
The fair and upright stem is forc'd to bend;
Till broke at length, its snowy leaves are shed,
And strew with dying sweets their native bed.

BOOK II.

Hic pietatis honos? sic nos in scepra reponis? VIRG.

HER Guilford clasps her, beautiful in death,
And with a kiss recalls her fleeting breath.
To tapers thus, which by a blast expire,
A lighted taper, touch'd, restores the fire:
She rear'd her swimming eye, and saw the light,
And Guilford too, or she had loath'd the sight:
Her father's death she bore, despis'd her own,
But now she must, she will, have leave to groan:
Ah! Guilford, she began, and would have spoke;
But sobs rush'd in, and ev'ry accent broke:
Reason itself, as gusts of passion blew,
Was ruffled in the tempest, and withdrew.

So the youth lost his image in the well,
When tears upon the yielding surface fell:
The scatter'd features slid into decay,
And spreading circles drove his face away.

To touch the soft affections, and controul
The manly temper of the bravest soul;
What with afflicted beauty can compare,
And drops of love distilling from the fair?
It melts us down; our pains delight bestow;
And we with fondness languish o'er our woe.

This Guilford prov'd; and, with excess of pain,
And pleasure too, did to his bosom strain
The weeping fair, sunk deep in soft desire,
Indulg'd his love, and nurs'd the raging fire:
Then tore himself away; and, standing wide,
As fearing a relapse of fondness, cry'd,
With ill-dissembled grief; ' My life, forbear!
' You wound your Guilford with each cruel tear:
' Did you not chide my grief? repress your own;
' Nor want compassion for yourself alone:
' Have you beheld, how, from the distant main,
' The thronging waves roll on, a num'rous train,
' And foam, and bellow, till they reach the shore;
' There burst their noisy pride, and are no more?
' Thus the successive flows of human race,
' Chas'd by the coming, the preceding chase;
' They sound, and swell, their haughty heads they rear;
' Then fall, and flatten, break, and disappear.
' Life is a forfeit we must shortly pay;
' And where's the mighty lucre of a day?
' Why should you mourn my fate? 'tis most unkind;
' Your own you bore with an unshaken mind:
' And which, can you imagine, was the dart
' That drank most blood, sunk deepest in my heart?

- I cannot live without you; and my doom
- I meet with joy, to share one common tomb.—
- And are again your tears profusely spilt!
- Oh! then, my kindness blackens to my guilt;
- It foils itself, if it recall your pain;—
- Life of my life, I beg you to refrain!
- The load which fate imposes, you increase;
- And help Maria to destroy my peace.'

But, oh! against himself his labour turn'd;
 The more he comforted, the more she mourn'd:
 Compassion swells our grief; words soft and kind
 But sooth our weakness, and dissolve the mind:
 Her sorrow flow'd in streams; nor her's alone,
 While that he blam'd, he yielded to his own.
 Where are the smiles she wore, when she, so late,
 Hail'd him great partner of the regal state;
 When orient gems around her temples blaz'd,
 And bending nations on the glory gaz'd?

'Tis now the queen's command, they both retreat,
 To weep with dignity, and mourn in state:
 She forms the decent misery with joy,
 And loads with pomp the wretch she would destroy.
 A spacious hall is hung with black; all light
 Shut out, and noon day darken'd into night.
 From the mid-roof a lamp depends on high,
 Like a dim crescent in a clouded sky:
 It sheds a quiv'ring melancholy gloom,
 Which only shews the darkness of the room.
 A shining ax is on the table laid;
 A dreadful sight! and glitters through the shade.

In this sad scene the lovers are confin'd;
 A scene of terrors, to a guilty mind!
 A scene, that would have damp'd with rising cares,
 And quite extinguish'd, every love but theirs.
 What can they do? they fix their mournful eyes—
 Then Guilford, thus abruptly; 'I despise
 ' An empire lost; I fling away the crown;
 ' Numbers have laid that bright delusion down;
 ' But where's the Charles, or Dioclesian where,
 ' Could quit the blooming, wedded, weeping fair?
 ' Oh! to dwell ever on thy lip! to stand
 ' In full possession of thy snowy hand!
 ' And, thro' th' unclouded chrystal of thine eye,
 ' The heav'nly treasures of the mind to spy!
 ' Till rapture reason happily destroys,
 ' And my soul wanders through immortal joys!
 ' Give me the world, and ask me, Where's my bliss?
 ' I clasp thee to my breast, and answer, This.
 ' And shall the grave?—He groans, and can no more;
 But all her charms in silence traces o'er;
 Her lip, her cheek, and eye, to wonder wrought;
 And, wond'ring, sees, in sad presaging thought,
 From that fair neck, that world of beauty fall,
 And roll along the dust, a ghastly ball!
 Oh! let those tremble, who are greatly bless'd!
 For who, but Guilford, could be thus distress'd?
 Come hither, all you happy, all you great,
 From flow'ry meadows, and from rooms of state;
 Nor think I call, your pleasures to destroy,
 But to refine, and to exalt your joy:

Weep not ; but, smiling, fix your ardent care
On nobler titles than the Brave or Fair.

Was ever such a mournful, moving, sight ?

See, if you can, by that dull, trembling, light :

Now they embrace ; and, mix'd with bitter woe,

Like Isis and her Thames, one stream they flow :

Now they start wide ; fix'd in benumbing care,

They stiffen into statues of despair :

Now, tenderly severe, and fiercely kind,

They rush at once ; they fling their cares behind,

And clasp, as if to death ; new vows repeat ;

And, quite wrapp'd up in love, forget their fate.

A short delusion ! for the raging pain

Returns ; and their poor hearts must bleed again.

Mean time, the Queen new cruelty decreed ;

But, ill content that they should only bleed,

A priest is sent ; who, with insidious art,

Instills his poison into Suffolk's heart ;

And Guilford drank it : hanging on the breast,

He from his childhood was with Rome possest.

When now the ministers of death draw nigh,

And in her dearest lord she first must die,

The subtle priest, who long had watch'd to find

The most unguarded passes of her mind,

Bespoke her thus : ' Grieve not ; 'tis in your pow'r

' Your lord to rescue from this fatal hour.'

Her bosom pants ; she draws her breath with pain ;

A sudden horror thrills through ev'ry vein ;

Life seems suspended, on his words intent ;

And her soul trembles for the great event.

The priest proceeds: 'Embrace the faith of Rome,
'And ward your own, your lord's, and father's doom.'
Ye blessed spirits! now your charge sustain;
The past was ease; now first she suffers pain.
Must she pronounce her father's death? must she
Bid Guilford bleed?—it must not, cannot, be.
It cannot be! but 'tis the Christian's praise,
Above impossibilités to raise
The weakness of our nature; and deride
Of vain philosophy the boasted pride.
What though our feeble sinews scarce impart
A moment's swiftness to the feather'd dart;
Though tainted air our vigorous youth can break,
And a chill blast the hardy warrior shake,
Yet are we strong: hear the loud tempest roar
From east to west, and call us weak no more;
The light'ning's unresisted force proclaims
Our might; and thunders raise our humble names;
'Tis our Jehovah fills the heav'ns; as long
As he shall reign Almighty, we are strong:
We, by devotion, borrow from his throne;
And almost make omnipotence our own:
We force the gates of heav'n, by fervent pray'r;
And call forth triumph out of man's despair.
Our lovely mourner, kneeling, lifts her eyes
And bleeding heart, in silence, to the skies,
Devoutly sad—then, bright'ning, like the day,
When sudden winds sweep scatter'd clouds away,
Shining in majesty, till now unknown,
And breathing life and spirit scarce her own;

She, rising, speaks: 'If these the terms—'

Here, Guilford, cruel Guilford, (barb'rous man!

Is this thy love?) as swift as light'ning ran;

O'erwhelm'd her with tempestuous sorrow fraught,

And stifled, in its birth, the mighty thought;

Then bursting fresh into a flood of tears,

Fierce, resolute, delirious with his fears;

His fears for her alone: he beat his breast,

And thus the fervour of his soul exprest:

'Oh! let thy thought o'er our past converse rove,

'And shew one moment uninflam'd with love!

'Oh! if thy kindness can no longer last,

'In pity to thyself, forget the past!

'Else wilt thou never, void of shame and fear,

'Pronounce his doom, whom thou hast held so dear:

'I thou who hast took me to thy arms, and swore

'Empires were vile, and fate could give no more;

'That to continue, was its utmost pow'r,

'And make the future like the present hour,

'Now call a ruffian; bid his cruel sword

'Lay wide the bosom of thy worthless lord;

'Transfix his heart (since you its love disclaim),

'And stain his honour with a traitor's name.

'This might perhaps be borne without remorse;

'But sure a father's pangs will have their force!

'Shall his good age, so near its journey's end,

'Through cruel torment to the grave descend?

'His shallow blood all issue at a wound,

'Wash a slave's feet, and smoke upon the ground?

' But he to you has ever been severe;
 ' Then take your vengeance'—Suffolk now drew near;
 Bending beneath the burden of his care;
 His robes neglected, and his head was bare;
 Decrepid winter, in the yearly ring,
 Thus slowly creeps, to meet the blooming spring:
 Downward he cast a melancholy look;
 Thrice turn'd, to hide his grief: then faintly spoke,
 ' Now deep in years, and forward in decay,
 ' That ax can only rob me of a day;
 ' For thee, my soul's desire! I can't refrain;
 ' And shall my tears, my last tears, flow in vain?
 ' When you shall know a mother's tender name,
 ' My heart's distress no longer will you blame.'
 At this, afar his bursting groans were heard;
 The tears ran trickling down his silver beard:
 He snatch'd her hand, which to his lips he prest,
 And bid her plant a dagger in his breast;
 Then, sinking, call'd her piety unjust,
 And soil'd his hoary temples in the dust.

Hard-hearted men! will you no mercy know?
 Has the queen brib'd you to distress her foe?
 O weak deserters to misfortune's part,
 By false affection thus to pierce her heart!
 When she had fear'd, to let your arrows fly,
 And fetch her bleeding from the middle sky?
 And can her virtue, springing from the ground,
 Her flight recover, and disdain the wound,
 When cleaving love, and human interest, bind
 The broken force of her aspiring mind;

As round the gen'rous eagle, which in vain
Exerts her strength, the serpent wreaths his train,
Her struggling wings entangles, curling plies
His pois'nous tail, and stings her as she flies!

While yet the blow's first dreadful weight she feels,
And with its force her resolution reels;
Large doors, unfolding with a mournful sound,
To view discover, weltring on the ground,
Three headless trunks, of those whose arms maintain'd,
And in her wars immortal glory gain'd:
The lifted ax assur'd her ready doom,
And silent mourners sadden'd all the room.
Shall I proceed; or here break off my tale;
Nor truths, to stagger human faith, reveal.

She met this utmost malice of her fate
With Christian dignity, and pious state:
The beating storm's propitious rage she blest,
And all the martyr triumph'd in her breast:
Her lord and father, for a moment's space,
She strictly folded in her soft embrace!
Then thus she spoke, while angels heard on high,
And sudden gladness smil'd along the sky:

' Your over-fondness has not mov'd my hate;
' I am well pleas'd you make my death so great;
' I joy I cannot save you; and have giv'n
' Two lives much dearer than my own, to heav'n,
' If so the queen decrees:—But I have cause
' To hope my blood will satisfy the laws;

* Here she embraces them.

- ' And there is mercy still, for you, in store :
- ' With me the bitterness of death is o'er.
- ' He shot his sting in that farewell-embrace ;
- ' And all, that is to come, is joy and peace.
- ' Then let mistaken sorrow be suppress'd,
- ' Nor seem to envy my approaching rest.'

Then, turning to the ministers of fate,

She, smiling, says, ' My victory complete :

- ' And tell your queen, I thank her for the blow,
- ' And grieve my gratitude I cannot show :
- ' A poor return I leave in England's crown,
- ' For everlasting pleasure, and renown :
- ' Her guilt alone allays this happy hour ;
- ' Her guilt,—the only vengeance in her pow'r.'

Not Rome, untouch'd with sorrow, heard her fate ;
And fierce Maria pity'd her too late.

P R E F A C E.

THESE satires have been favourably received at home and abroad. I am not conscious of the least malevolence to any particular person through all the characters; though some persons may be so selfish, as to engross a general application to themselves. A writer in polite letters should be content with reputation; the private amusement he finds in his compositions; the good influence they have on his severer studies; that admission they give him to his superiors; and the possible good effect they may have on the public; or else he should join to his politeness some more lucrative qualification.

But it is possible, that satire may not do much good: Men may rise in their affections to their follies, as they do to their friends, when they are abused by others: It is much to be feared, that misconduct will never be chased out of the world by satire; all therefore that is to be said for it, is, that misconduct will certainly be never chased out of the world by satire, if no satires are written: nor is that term unapplicable to graver compositions. Ethics, Heathen and Christian, and the Scriptures themselves, are, in a great measure, a satire on the weakness and iniquity of men; and some part of that satire is in verse too: nay, in the first ages, philosophy and poetry were the same thing; wisdom wore no other dress: so that, I hope, these satires will be the more easily pardoned that misfortune by the severe. Nay, historians themselves may be considered as satirists, and Satirists most severe; since such are most human actions, that to relate, is to expose them.

No man can converse much in the world, but, at what he meets with, he must either be insensible, or grieve, or be angry, or smile. Some passion (if we are not impassive) must be moved; for the general conduct of mankind is by no means a thing indifferent to a reasonable and virtuous man. Now to smile at it, and turn it into ridicule, I think most eligible; as it hurts ourselves least, and gives vice and folly the greatest offence: and that for this reason; because what men aim at by them, is, generally, public opinion and esteem; which truth is the subject of the following satires; and joins them together, as several branches from the same root: An unity of design, which has not, I think, in a set of satires, been attempted before.

Laughing at the misconduct of the world, will, in a great measure, ease us of any more disagreeable passion about it. One passion is more effectually driven out by another, than by reason; whatever some may teach: For to reason we owe our passions: Had we not reason, we should not be offended at what we find amiss: And the cause seems not to be the natural cure of any effect.

Moreover, laughing satire bids the fairest for success: The world is too proud to be fond of a serious tutor; and when an author is in a passion, the laugh, generally, as in conversation turns against him. This kind of satire only has any delicacy in it. Of this delicacy Horace is the best master: he appears in good humour while he censures; and therefore his censure has the more weight, as supposed to proceed from judgment, not from passion. Juvenal is ever in a passion: he has little valuable but his eloquence and morality: the last of which I have had in my eye; but rather for emulation, than imitation, through my whole work.

But though I comparatively condemn Juvenal, in part of the sixth satire (where the occasion most required it,) I endeavoured to touch on his manner; but was forced to quit it soon, as disagreeable to the writer, and reader too. Boileau has joined both the Roman satirists with great success; but has too much of Juvenal in his very serious satire on woman, which should have been the gayest of all. An excellent critic of our own commends Boileau's closeness, or, as he calls it, pressness, particularly; whereas, it appears to me, that repetition is his fault, if any fault should be imputed to him.

There are some prose satirists of the greatest delicacy and wit; the last of which can never, or should never succeed, without the former. An author without it, betrays too great a contempt for mankind, and opinion of himself; which are bad advocates for reputation and success. What a difference is there between the merit, if not the wit, of Cervantes and Rabelais? the last has a particular art of throwing a great deal of genius and learning into frolic and jest; but the genius and the scholar is all you can admire; you want the gentleman to converse with in him: he is like a criminal who receives his life for some services; you commend, but you pardon too. Indecency offends our pride, as men; and our unaffected taste, as judges of composition: nature has wisely formed us with an aversion to it; and he that succeeds in spite of it, is, 'aliena venia, quam sua providentia tutior.' *

Such wits, like false oracles of old (which were wits and cheats,) should set up for reputation among the weak, in some Boeotia, which was the land of oracles; for the wise will hold them in contempt. Some wits too, like oracles, deal in ambiguities; but not with equal success: for though ambiguities are the first excellence of an impostor, they are the last of a wit.

Some satirical wits and humourists, like their father Lucian, laugh at every thing indiscriminately; which betrays such a poverty of wit, as cannot afford to part with any thing; and such a want of virtue, as to postpone it to a jest. Such writers encourage vice and folly, which they pretend to combat, by setting them on an equal foot with better things: and while they labour to bring every thing into contempt, how can they expect their own parts should escape? some French writers particularly, are guilty of this in matters of the last consequence; and some of our own. They that are for lessening the true dignity of mankind, are not sure of being successful, but with regard to one individual in it. It is this conduct that justly makes a wit a term of reproach.

Which puts me in mind of Plato's fable of the birth of Love; one of the prettiest fables of all antiquity; which will hold likewise with regard to modern poetry. Love, says he, is the son of the goddess Poverty, and the god of Riches: he has from his father his daring genius; his elevation of thought; his building castles in the air; his prodigality; his neglect of things serious and useful; his vain opinion of his own merit; and his affectation of preference and distinction: from his mother he inherits his indigence, which makes him a constant beggar of favours; that importunity with which he begs; his flattery; his servility; his fear of being despised, which is inseparable from him. This addition may be made; viz. that Poetry, like Love, is a little subject to blindness, which makes her mistake her way to preferments and honours; that she has her satirical quiver; and lastly, that she retains a dutiful admiration of her father's family; but divides her favours, and generally lives with her mother's relations.

However, this is not necessity, but choice: were Wisdom her governess, she might have much more of the father than the mother: especially in such an age as this, which shews a due passion for her charms.

SATIRE I.

TO HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF DORSET.

—Tanto major famae sitis est, quam
Virtutis.

Juv. Sat. 10.

MY verse is Satire; Dorset, lend your ear,
And patronize a muse you cannot fear.
To poets sacred is a Dorset's name:
Their wonted passport through the gates of fame:
It bribes the partial reader into praise,
And throws a glory round the shelter'd lays:
The dazzled judgment fewer faults can see,
And gives applause to B——e, or to me.
But you decline the mistress we pursue;
Others are fond of fame, but fame of you.

Instructive satire, true to virtue's cause!
Thou shining supplement of public laws!
When flatter'd crimes of a licentious age
Reproach our silence, and demand our rage;
When purchas'd follies, from each distant land,
Like arts, improve in Britain's skilful hand;
When the law shews her teeth, but dares not bite,
And South-sea treasures are not brought to light;

When churchmen Scripture for the classics quit,
 Polite apostates from God's grace to wit;
 When men grow great from their revenue spent,
 And fly from bailiffs into parliament;
 When dying sinners to blot out their score,
 Bequeath the church the leavings of a whore;
 To chafe our spleen, when themes like these increase,
 Shall panegyric reign, and censure cease?

Shall poesy, like law, turn wrong to right,
 And dedications wash an Ethiop white,
 Set up each senseless wretch for nature's boast,
 On whom praise shines, as trophies on a post?
 Shall fun'ral eloquence her colours spread,
 And scatter roses on the wealthy dead?
 Shall authors smile on such illustrious days,
 And satirise with nothing—but their praise?

Why slumbers Pope, who leads the tuneful train,
 Nor hears that virtue, which he loves, complain?
 Donne, Dorset, Dryden, Rochester, are dead,
 And guilt's chief foe, in Addison, is fled;
 Congreve, who, crown'd with laurels, fairly won,
 Sits smiling at the goal, while others run,
 He will not write; and (more provoking still!)
 Ye gods! he will not write, and Maevius will.

Doubly distressed, what author shall we find
 Discreetly daring, and severely kind,
 The courtly * Roman's shining path to tread,
 And sharply smile prevailing folly dead?

* Horace.

Will no superior genius snatch the quill,
 And save me, on the brink, from writing ill?
 Tho' vain the strife, I'll strive my voice to raise.
 What will not men attempt for sacred praise?

The love of praise, howe'er conceal'd by art,
 Reigns, more or less, and glows, in ev'ry heart:
 The proud, to gain it, toils on toils endure;
 The modest shun it, but to make it sure.
 O'er globes, and sceptres, now on thrones it swells;
 Now, trims the midnight lamp in college cells:
 'Tis Tory, Whig; it plots, prays, preaches, pleads,
 Harangues in senates, squeaks in masquerades.
 Here, to S——e's humour makes a bold pretence;
 There, bolder, aims at P——y's eloquence.
 It aids the dancer's heel, the writer's head,
 And heaps the plain with mountains of the dead;
 Nor ends with life; but nods in sable plumes,
 Adorns our hearse, and flatters on our tombs.

What is not proud? the pimp is proud to see
 So many like himself in high degree:
 The whore is proud her beauties are the dread
 Of peevish virtue, and the marriage-bed;
 And the brib'd cuckold, like crown'd victims born
 To slaughter, glories in his gilded horn.

Some go to church, proud humbly to repent,
 And come back much more guilty than they went:
 One way they look, another way they steer,
 Pray to the gods, but would have mortals hear;
 And when their sins they set sincerely down,
 They'll find that their religion has been one.

Others with wishful eyes on glory look,
 When they have got their picture tow'rd's a book;
 Or pompous title, like a gaudy sign,
 Meant to betray dull fots to wretched wine.
 If at his title T—— had dropt his quill,
 T—— might have pass'd for a great genius still.
 But T—— alas! (excuse him, if you can)
 Is now a scribbler, who was once a man.
 Imperious some a classic fame demand,
 For heaping up, with a laborious hand,
 A waggon-load of meanings for one word,
 While A's depos'd, and B with pomp restor'd.

Some, for renown, on scraps of learning doat,
 And think they grow immortal as they quote.
 To patch-work learn'd quotations are ally'd;
 Both strive to make our poverty our pride.

On glass how witty is a noble peer?
 Did ever diamond cost a man so dear?

Polite diseases make some ideots vain;
 Which, if unfortunately well, they feign.

Of folly, vice, disease, men proud we see;
 And (stranger still!) of blockhead's flattery;
 Whose praise defames; as if a fool should mean,
 By spitting on your face, to make it clean.

Nor is't enough all hearts are swoln with pride,
 Her pow'r is mighty, as her realm is wide.
 What can she not perform? The Love of Fame
 Made bold Alphonfus his Creator blame:
 Empedocles hurl'd down the burning steep;
 And (stronger still!) made Alexander weep.

Nay, it holds Delia from a second bed,
Tho' her lov'd lord has four half months been dead.

This passion with a pimple have I seen
Retard a cause, and give a judge the spleen.
By this inspir'd (O ne'er to be forgot!)
Some lords have learn'd to spell, and some to knot.
It makes Globose a speaker in the house;
He hems, and is deliver'd of his mouse.
It makes dear self on well bred tongues prevail,
And I the little hero of each tale.

Sick with the love of fame, what throngs pour in,
Unpeople court, and leave the senate thin?
My growing subject seems but just begun,
And, chariot-like, I kindle as I run.
Aid me, great Homer! with thy epic rules,
To take a catalogue of British fools.
Satire! had I thy Dorset's force divine,
A knave or fool should perish in each line;
Tho' for the first all Westminster shou'd plead,
And for the last, all Gresham intercede.

Begin. Who first the catalogue shall grace?
To quality belongs the highest place.
My lord comes forward, forward let him come!
Ye vulgar! at your peril, give him room:
He stands for fame on his forefathers feet,
By heraldry, prov'd valiant or discreet.
With what a decent pride he throws his eyes
Above the man by three descents less wise?
If virtues at his noble hands you crave,
You bid him raise his fathers from the grave.

Nobles look backward, and so lose the race.

Let high birth triumph! what can be more great?
Nothing—but merit in a low estate.

To virtue's humblest son let none prefer
Vice, though descended from the conqueror.
Shall men, like figures, pass for high, or base,
Slight, or important, only by their place?
Titles are marks of honest men, and wise;
The fool, or knave, that wears a title, lies.

They that on glorious ancestors enlarge,
Produce their debt, instead of their discharge.
Dorset, let those who proudly boast their line,
Like thee, in worth hereditary, shine.

Vain as false greatness is, the muse must own
We want not fools to buy that Bristol stone.
Mean sons of earth, who, on a South-sea tide
Of full success, swarm into wealth and pride,
Knock with a purse of gold at Anstis' gate,
And beg to be descended from the great.

When men of infamy to grandeur soar,
They light a torch to shew their shame the more.
Those governments which curb not evils, cause!
And a rich knave's a libel on our laws.

Belus with solid glory will be crown'd;
He buys no phantom, no vain empty sound;
But builds himself a name; and, to be great,
Sinks in a quarry an immense estate!
In cost and grandeur, C—— dos he'll out-do;
And, B---l---ton, thy taste is not so true.

The pile is finish'd; ev'ry toil is past;
 And full perfection is arriv'd at last;
 When, lo! my lord to some small corner runs,
 And leaves state-rooms to strangers and to duns.

The man who builds, and wants wherewith to pay,
 Provides a home from which to run away.
 In Britain, what is many a lordly seat,
 But a discharge in full for an estate?

In smaller compass lies Pygmalion's fame;
 Not domes, but antique statues, are his fame:
 Not F---t---n's self more Parian charms has known;
 Nor is good P---m---ke more in love with stone.
 The bailiffs come (rude men, prophanely bold!)
 And bid him turn his Venus into gold.

* No, sirs, he cries; I'll sooner rot in jail,
 * Shall Grecian arts be truck'd for English bail?"
 Such heads might make their very bustos laugh:
 His daughter starves; but * Cleopatra's safe.

Men, overloaded with a large estate,
 May spill their treasure in a nice conceit:
 The rich may be polite; but, oh! 'tis sad
 To say you're curious, when we swear you're mad.
 By your revenue measure your expence;
 And to your funds and acres join your sense.
 No man is bless'd by accident or guess;
 True wisdom is the price of happiness:
 Yet few without long discipline are sage;
 And our youth only lays up sighs for age.

But how, my muse, can'st thou resist so long
The bright temptation of the courtly throng,
Thy most inviting theme? The court affords
Much food for satire;---it abounds in lords.

• What lords are those saluting with a grin?

One is just out, and one as lately in.

• How comes it then to pass we see preside

• On both their brows an equal share of pride?

Pride, that impartial passion, reigns through all,
Attends our glory, nor deserts our fall.

As in its home it triumphs in high place,
And frowns a haughty exile in disgrace.

Some lords it bids admire their wands so white,
Which bloom, like Aaron's, to their ravish'd sight:

Some lords it bids resign; and turn their wands,
Like Moses', into serpents in their hands.

These sink, as divers, for renown; and boast,
With pride inverted, of their honours lost.

But against reason sure 'tis equal sin,
To boast of merely being out, or in.

What numbers here, through odd ambition strive,
To seem the most transported things alive?

As if by joy, desert was understood;
And all the fortunate were wise and good.

Hence aching bosoms wear a visage gay,
And stifled groans frequent the ball and play.

Completely drest by * Monteuil, and grimace,
They take their birth-day suit, and public face:

* A famous taylor.

H

Their smiles are only part of what they wear,
Put off at night with lady B——'s hair.

What bodily fatigue is half so bad?

With anxious care they labour to be glad.

What numbers, here, would into fame advance,
Conscious of merit, in the coxcomb's dance;
The tavern! park! assembly! mask! and play!
Those dear destroyers of the tedious day!
That wheel of fops! that saunter of the town!
Call it diversion, and the pill goes down.
Fools grin on fools, and stoic-like, support,
Without one sigh, the pleasures of a court.
Courts can give nothing, to the wise and good,
But scorn of pomp, and love of solitude.
High stations tumult, but not bliss, create:
None think the great unhappy, but the great:
Fools gaze, and envy; envy darts a sting,
Which makes a swain as wretched as a king.

I envy none their pageantry and show;

I envy none the gilding of their woe.

Give me, indulgent gods! with mind serene,
And guiltless heart, to range the sylvan scene;

No splendid poverty, no smiling care,

No well-bred hate, or servile grandeur, there:

There pleasing objects useful thoughts suggest;

The sense is ravisht, and the soul is blest;

On ev'ry thorn delightful wisdom grows;

In every rill a sweet instruction flows.

But some, untaught, o'erhear the whisp'ring rill,

In spite of sacred leisure, blockheads still:

Nor shoots up folly to a nobler bloom
In her own native soil, the drawing-room.

The squire is proud to see his courser strain,
Or well breath'd beagles sweep along the plain.
Say, dear Hippolitus (whose drink is ale,
Whose erudition is a Christmas-tale,
Whose mistress is saluted with a smack,
And friend receiv'd with thumps upon the back)
When thy sleek gelding nimbly leaps the mound,
And Ringwood opens on the tainted ground,
Is that thy praise? let Ringwood's fame alone;
Just Ringwood leaves each animal his own;
Nor envies, when a gypsy you commit,
And shake the clumsy bench with country wit;
When you the dullest of dull things have said,
And then ask pardon for the jest you made.

Here breath, my muse! and then thy task renew:
Ten thousand fools unsung are still in view.
Fewer lay-atheists made by church-debates;
Fewer great beggars fam'd for large estates;
Ladies, whose love is constant as the wind;
Cits, who prefer a guinea to mankind;
Fewer grave lords, to Se---pe discreetly bend;
And fewer shocks a statesman gives his friend.

Is there a man of an eternal vein,
Who lulls the town in winter with his strain,
At Bath, in summer, chants the reigning lass,
And sweetly whistles, as the waters pass?
Is there a tongue, like Delia's o'er her cup,
That runs for ages without winding up?

Is there, whom his tenth epic mounts to fame?
 Such, and such only, might exhaust my theme:
 Nor would these heroes of the task be glad;
 For who can write so fast as men run mad?

MY muse, proceed, and reach thy destin'd end;
 Though toils and danger the bold task attend.
 Heroes and Gods make other poems fine;
 Plain satire calls for sense in ev'ry line:
 Then, to what swarms thy faults I dare expose?
 All friends to vice and folly are thy foes.
 When such the foe, a war eternal wage;
 'Tis most ill-nature to repress thy rage:
 And if these strains some nobler muse excite,
 I'll glory in the verse I did not write.

So weak are human-kind by nature made,
 Or to such weakness by their vice betray'd,
 Almighty vanity! to thee they owe
 Their zest of pleasure, and their balm of woe.
 Thou, like the sun, all colours dost contain,
 Varying, like rays of light, on drops of rain.
 For every soul finds reasons to be proud,
 Tho' hiss'd and whooted by the pointing crowd.

Warm in pursuit of foxes, and renown,
 * Hippolitus demands the sylvan crown;
 But Florio's fame, the product of a shower,
 Grows in his garden, an illustrious flower!

* This refers to the first Satire.

Why teems the earth? why melt the vernal skies?
 Why shines the sun? to make * Paul Diack rise.
 From morn to night has Florio gazing stood,
 And wonder'd how the gods could be so good;
 What shape? what hue? was ever nymph so fair?
 He doats! he dies! he too is rooted there.
 O solid bliss! which nothing can destroy,
 Except a cat, bird, snail, or idle boy.
 In fame's full bloom lies Florio down at night,
 And wakes next day a most inglorious wight;
 The tulip's dead! see thy fair sister's fate,
 O C——! and be kind ere 'tis too late.

Nor are those enemies I mention'd, all;
 Beware, O florist, thy ambition's fall.
 A friend of mine indulg'd this noble flame;
 A quaker serv'd him, Adam was his name;
 To one lov'd tulip oft the master went,
 Hung o'er it, and whole days in rapture spent;
 But came, and mist it one ill-fated hour:
 He rag'd! he roar'd! 'What demon cropt my flow'r?'
 Serene quoth Adam, 'Lo! 'twas crush'd by me;
 'Fall'n is the Baal to which thou bew'dst thy knee.'

But all men want amusement; and what crime
 In such a paradise to fool their time?
 None: but why proud of this? to fame they soar;
 We grant they're idle, if they'll ask no more.

We smile at florists, we despise their joy,
 And think their hearts enamour'd of a toy:

* The name of a tulip.

But are those wiser whom we most admire,
 Survey with envy, and pursue with fire?
 What's he who fights for wealth, or fame, or pow'r?
 Another Florio doating on a flower;
 A short-liv'd flower; and which has often sprung
 From fordid arts, as Florio's out of dung.

With what, O Codrus! is thy fancy smit?
 The flower of learning, and the bloom of wit.
 Thy gaudy shelves with crimson bindings glow,
 And Epictetus is a perfect beau.
 How fit for thee, bound up in crimson too,
 Gilt, and, like them, devoted to the view?
 Thy books are furniture. Methinks 'tis hard
 That science should be purchas'd by the yard;
 And T——n, turn'd upholsterer, send home
 The gilded leather to fit up thy room.

If not to some peculiar end design'd,
 Study's the specious trifling of the mind;
 Or is at best a secondary aim,
 A chace for sport alone, and not for game.
 If so, sure they who the mere volume prize,
 But love the thicket where the quarry lies.

On buying books Lorenzo long was bent,
 But found at length that it reduc'd his rent;
 His farms were srown; when, lo! a sale comes on,
 A choice collection! what is to be done?
 He sells his last; for he the whole will buy;
 Sells ev'n his house; nay, wants whereon to lie:
 So high the generous ardour of the man
 For Romans, Greeks, and Orientals ran.

When terms were drawn, and brought him by the clerk,
 Lorenzo sign'd the bargain---with his mark.
 Unlearned men of books assume the care,
 As eunuchs are the guardians of the fair.

Not in his authors liveries alone
 Is Codrus' erudite ambition shown :
 Editions various, at high prices bought,
 Inform the world what Codrus would be thought ;
 And to this cost another must succeed
 To pay a sage, who says that he can read ;
 Who titles knows, and indexes has seen ;
 But leaves to --- what lies between ;
 Of pompous books who shuns the proud expence,
 And humbly is contented with their sense.

O ---, whose accomplishments make good
 The promise of a long-illustrious blood,
 In arts, and manners eminently grac'd,
 The strictest honour ! and the finest taste !
 Accept this verse ; if satire can agree
 With so consummate an humanity.

By your example would Hilario mend ;
 How would it grace the talents of my friend,
 Who, with the charms of his own genius smit,
 Conceives all virtues are compriz'd in wit !
 But time his fervent petulance may cool ;
 For though he is a wit, he is no fool.
 In time he'll learn to use, not waste, his sense ;
 Nor make a frailty of an excellence.
 He spares nor friend, nor foe ; but calls to mind,
 Like doom's-day, all the faults of all mankind.

What though wit tickles? tickling is unsafe,
 If still 'tis painful while it makes us laugh.
 Who, for the poor renown of being smart,
 Would leave a sting within a brother's heart?

Parts may be prais'd, good-nature is ador'd;
 Then draw your wit as seldom as your sword;
 And never on the weak; or you'll appear
 As there no hero, no great genius here.
 As in smooth oil the razor best is whet,
 So wit is by politeness sharpest set:
 Their want of edge from their offence is seen;
 Both pain us least when exquisitely keen,
 The same men give us for the joy they find;
 Dull is the jester, when the joke's unkind.

Since Marcus, doubtless, thinks himself a wit,
 To pay my compliment, what place so fit?
 His most facetious * letters came to hand,
 Which my first satire sweetly reprimand:
 If that a just offence to Marcus gave,
 Say, Marcus, which art thou, a fool or knave?
 For all but such with caution I forebore;
 That thou wast either, I ne'er knew before:
 I know thee now, both what thou art, and who;
 No mask so good, but Marcus must shine through:
 False names are vain, thy lines their author tell;
 Thy best concealment had been writing well:
 But thou a brave neglect of fame hast shown,
 Of others' fame, great genius! and thy own.

* Letters sent to the author, signed Marcus.

Write on unheeded; and this maxim know,
The man who pardons, disappoints his foe.

In malice to proud wits, some proudly lull
Their peevish reason; vain of being dull;
When some home joke has stung their solemn souls,
In vengeance they determine—to be fools;
Through spleen, that little nature gave, make less,
Quite zealous in the way of heaviness;
To lumps inanimate a fondness take;
And disinheret sons that are awake.

These, when their utmost venom they would spit,
Most barbarously tell you—'He's a wit.'
Poor negroes, thus, to shew their burning spite
To cacodemons, say, they're dev'lish white.

Lampridius, from the bottom of his breast,
Sighs o'er one child; but triumphs in the rest.
How just his grief? one carries in his head
A less proportion of the father's lead;
And is in danger, without special grace,
To rise above a justice of the peace.
The dunghill-breed of men a diamond scorn,
And feel a passion for a grain of corn;
Some stupid, plodding, money loving wight,
Who wins their hearts by knowing black from white,
Who with much pains, exerting all his sense,
Can range aright his shillings, pounds, and pence.

The booby father craves a booby son;
And by heav'n's blessing thinks himself undone.

Wants of all kinds are made to fame a plea;
One learns to lisp; another, not to see:

Mifs D——, tottering, catches at your hand :
 Was ever thing so pretty born to stand ?
 Whilst these, what nature gave, disown, through pride,
 Others affect what nature has deny'd ;
 What nature has deny'd, fools will pursue :
 As apes are ever walking upon two.

Crassus, a grateful sage, our awe and sport !
 Supports grave forms ; for forms the sage support.
 He hems ; and cries, with an important air,
 ' If yonder clouds withdraw it will be fair :'
 Then quotes the Stagyrte to prove it true ;
 And adds, ' The learn'd delight in something new.'
 Is't not enough the blockhead scarce can read,
 But must he wisely look, and gravely plead ?
 As far a formalist from wisdom sits,
 In judging eyes, as libertines from wits.

These subtle wights (so blind are mortal men,
 Though satire couch them with her keenest pen)
 For ever will hang out a solemn face,
 To put off nonsense with a better grace :
 As pedlars with some hero's head make bold,
 Illustrious mark ! where pins are to be sold.
 What's the bent brow, or neck in thought reclin'd ?
 The body's wisdom to conceal the mind.
 A man of sense can artifice disdain ;
 As men of wealth may venture to go plain ;
 And be this truth eternal ne'er forgot,
 Solemnity's a cover for a sot.
 I find the fool, when I behold the skreen ;
 For 'tis the wise man's interest to be seen.

Hence,——, that openneſs of heart,
 And juſt diſdain for that poor mimic art;
 Hence (manly praiſe!) that manner nobly free,
 Which all admire, and I commend, in thee.

With generous ſcorn how oft haſt thou ſurvey'd
 Of court and town the noontide maſquerade;
 Where ſwarms of knaves the vizor quite diſgrace,
 And hide ſecure behind a naked face?
 Where nature's end of language is declin'd,
 And men talk only to conceal the mind;
 Where gen'rous hearts the greateſt hazard run,
 And he who truſts a brother, is undone?

Theſe all their care expend on outward ſhow
 For wealth and fame; for fame alone, the beau.
 Of late at White's was young Florello ſeen!
 How blank his look? how diſcompos'd his mien?
 So hard it proves in grief ſincere to feign!
 Sunk were his ſpirits; for his coat was plain.

Next day his breaſt regain'd its wonted peace;
 His health was mended with a ſilver lace.
 A curious artiſt, long inur'd to toils
 Of gentler fort, with combs and fragrant oils,
 Whether by chance, or by ſome god inspir'd,
 So touch'd his curls, his mighty ſoul was fir'd.
 The well-ſwolln ties an equal homage claim,
 And either ſhoulder has its ſhare of fame;
 His ſumptuous watch-caſe tho' conceal'd it lies,
 Like a good conſcience, ſolid joy ſupplies.
 He only thinks himſelf (ſo far from vain!)
 St——pe in wit, in breeding D—l—e.

Whene'er, by seeming chance, he throws his eye
 On mirrors that reflect his Tyrian dye,
 With how sublime a transport leaps his heart?
 But fate ordains that dearest friends must part.
 In active measures, brought from France, he wheels,
 And triumphs, conscious of his learned heels.

So have I seen, on some bright summer's day,
 A calf of genius, debonnair and gay,
 Dance on the bank, as if inspir'd by fame,
 Fond of the pretty fellow in the stream.

Morose is sunk with shame, whene'er surpriz'd
 In linen clean, or peruke undisguis'd.
 No sublunary chance his vestments fear;
 Valu'd, like leopards, as their spots appear.
 A fam'd furtout he wears, which once was blue,
 And his foot swims in a capacious shoe;
 One day his wife (for who can wives reclaim?)
 Levell'd her barb'rous needle at his fame:
 But open force was vain; by night she went,
 And, while he slept, surpriz'd the darling rent:
 Where yawn'd the freeze is now become a doubt;
 "And glory, at one entrance, quite shut out."*

He scorns Florello, and Florello him;
 This hates the filthy creature; that, the prim:
 Thus, in each other, both these fools despise
 Their own dear selves, with undiscerning eyes;
 Their methods various, but alike their aim;
 The sloven and the fopling are the same.

Ye Whigs and Tories! thus it fares with you,
 When party-rage too warmly you pursue;

* Milton.

Then both club nonsense, and impetuous pride,
 And folly joins whom sentiments divide.
 You vent your spleen, as monkeys, when they pass,
 Scratch at the mimic monkey in the glass;
 While both are one: and henceforth be it known,
 Fools of both sides shall stand for fools alone.

‘But who art thou?’ methinks Florello cries:
 ‘Of all thy species art thou only wise?’
 Since smallest things can give our sins a twitch,
 As crossing straws retard a passing witch,
 Florello, thou my monitor shalt be;
 I’ll conjure thus some profit out of thee.
 O thou myself! abroad our counsels roam,
 And, like ill husbands, take no care at home:
 Thou too art wounded with the common dart,
 And love of fame lies throbbing at thy heart;
 And what wise means to gain it hast thou chose?
 Know, fame and fortune both are made of prose.
 Is thy ambition sweating for a rhyme,
 Thou unambitious fool, at this late time?
 While I a moment name, a moment’s past;
 I’m nearer death in this verse, than the last:
 What then is to be done? Be wise with speed;
 A fool at forty is a fool indeed.

And what so foolish as the chase of fame?
 How vain the prize? how impotent our aim?
 For what are men who grasp at praise sublime,
 But bubbles on the rapid stream of time,
 That rise, and fall, that swell, and are no more,
 Born, and forgot, ten thousand in an hour?

S A T I R E III.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE

Mr. DODINGTON.

LONG, Dodington, in debt, I long have sought
 To ease the burthen of my grateful thought;
 And now a poet's gratitude you see;
 Grant him two favours, and he'll ask for three:
 For whose the present glory, or the gain?
 You give protection, I a worthless strain.
 You love and feel the poet's sacred flame,
 And know the basis of a solid fame;
 Tho' prone to like; yet cautious to commend,
 You read with all the malice of a friend;
 Nor favour my attempts that way alone,
 But, more to raise my verse, conceal your own.
 An ill-tim'd modesty! turn ages o'er,
 When wanted Britain bright examples more?
 Her learning, and her genius too, decays,
 And dark and cold are her declining days;

As if men now were of another cast,
 They meanly live on alms of ages past.
 Men still are men; and they who boldly dare,
 Shall triumph o'er the sons of cold despair;
 Or, if they fail, they justly still take place
 Of such who run in debt for their disgrace;
 Who borrow much, then fairly make it known,
 And damn it with improvements of their own.
 We bring some new materials, and what's old
 New cast with care, and in no borrow'd mould;
 Late times the verse may read, if these refuse;
 And from four critics vindicate the muse.

'Your work is long,' the critics cry. 'Tis true,
 And lengthens still, to take in fools like you:
 Shorten my labour, if its length you blame;
 For, grow but wise, you rob me of my game;
 As hunted hags, who, while the dogs pursue,
 Renounce their four legs, and start up on two.

Like the bold bird upon the banks of Nile,
 That picks the teeth of the dire crocodile,
 Will I enjoy (dread feast!) the critic's rage,
 And with the fell destroyer feed my page.
 For what ambitious fools are more to blame,
 Than those who thunder in the critic's name?
 Good authors damn'd, have their revenge in this,
 To see what wretches gain the praise they miss.

Balbutius, muffled in his sable cloak,
 Like an old Druid from his hollow oak,
 As ravens solemn, and as boding, cries,
 'Ten thousand worlds for the three unities!

Ye doctors sage, who thro' Parnassus teach,
Or quit the tub, or practise what you preach.

One judges as the weather dictates; right
The poem is at noon, and wrong at night:
Another judges by a surer gage.

An author's principles, or parentage;
Since his great ancestors in Flanders sell,

The poem doubtless must be written well.

Another judges by the writer's look;

Another judges, for he bought the book;

Some judge, their knack of judging wrong to keep;

Some judge, because it is too soon to sleep.

Thus all will judge, and with one single aim,

To gain themselves, not give the writer, fame.

The very best ambitiously advise,

Half to serve you, and half to pass for wise.

Critics on verse, as squibs on triumphs wait,

Proclaim the glory, and augment the state;

Hot, envious, noisy, proud, the scribbling fry

Burn, hiss, and bounce, waste paper, stink, and die.

Rail on, my friends! what more my verse can crown

Than Compton's smile, and your obliging frown?

Not all on books their criticism waste:

The genius of a dish some justly taste,

And eat their way to fame; with anxious thought

The salmon is refus'd, the turbot bought.

Impatient art rebukes the sun's delay,

And bids December yield the fruits of May;

Their various cares in one great point combine

The business of their lives, that is—to dine.

Half of their precious day they give the feast;
And to a kind digestion spare the rest.
Apicius, here, the taster of the town,
Feeds twice a week, to fettle their renown.

These worthies of the palate guard with care
The sacred annals of their bills of fare;
In those choice books their panegyrics read,
And scorn the creatures that for hunger feed.
If man by feeding well commences great,
Much more the worm to whom that man is meat.

To glory some advance a lying claim,
Thieves of renown, and pilferers of fame:
Their front supplies what their ambition lacks;
They know a thousand lords, behind their backs.
Cottil is apt to wink upon a peer,
When turn'd away, with a familiar leer;
And H——y's eyes, unmercifully keen,
Have murder'd fops, by whom she ne'er was seen.
Niger adopts stray libels; wisely prone
To covet shame still greater than his own.
Bathyllus, in the winter of threescore,
Belyes his innocence, and keeps a whore.
Absence of mind, Brabantio turns to fame,
Learns to mistake, nor knows his brother's name;
Has words and thoughts in nice disorder set,
And takes a memorandum to forget.
Thus vain, not knowing what adorns, or blots,
Men forge the patents, that create them fops.
As love of pleasure into pain betrays,
So most grow infamous thro' love of praise.

But whence for praise can such an ardor rise,
 When those, who bring that incense, we despise?
 For such the vanity of great and small,
 Contempt goes round, and all men laugh at all.

Nor can ev'n satire blame them; for, 'tis true,
 They have most ample cause for what they do.
 O fruitful Britain! doubtless thou wast meant
 A nurse of fools, to stock the continent.
 Tho' Phoebus and the nine for ever mow,
 Rank folly underneath the scythe will grow.
 The plenteous harvest calls me forward still,
 'Till I surpass in length my lawyer's bill;
 A Welch descent, which well-paid heralds damn;
 Or, longer still, a Dutchman's epigram.
 When, cloy'd, in fury I throw down my pen,
 In comes a coxcomb, and I write again.

See Cityrus, with merriment possess'd,
 Is burst with laughter, ere he hears the jest:
 What need he stay? for when the joke is o'er,
 His teeth will be no whiter than before.
 Is there of these, ye fair! so great a dearth,
 That you need purchase monkeys for your mirth?

Some, vain of paintings, bid the world admire;
 Of houses some; nay, houses that they hire:
 Some (perfect wisdom!) of a beauteous wife;
 And boast, like Cordeliers, a scourge for life.

Sometimes, thro' pride, the sexes change their airs;
 My lord has vapours, and my lady swears;
 Then, stranger still! on turning of the wind,
 My lord wears breeches, and my lady's kind.

To shew the strength, and infamy of pride,
 By all 'tis follow'd, and by all deny'd.
 What numbers are there, which at once pursue
 Praise, and the glory to condemn it, too?
 Vincenna knows self-praise betrays to shame,
 And therefore lays a stratagem for fame;
 Makes his approach in modesty's disguise,
 To win applause; and takes it by surprize.
 'To err,' says he, 'in small things is my fate.'
 You know your answer, he's exact in great.
 'My style,' says he, 'is rude, and full of faults.'
 But oh! what sense! what energy of thoughts!
 That he wants algebra, he must confess;
 But not a soul to give our arms success.
 'Ah; that's an hit indeed,' Vincenna cries;
 'But who in heat of blood was ever wise?'
 'I own 'twas wrong, when thousands call'd me back,
 To make that hopeless, ill advis'd, attack;
 All say, 'twas madness; nor dare I deny;
 Sure never fool so well deserv'd to die.'
 Could this deceive in others, to be free,
 It ne'er, Vincenna, could deceive in thee;
 Whose conduct is a comment to thy tongue,
 So clear, the dullest cannot take thee wrong.
 Thou on one sleeve wilt thy revenues wear;
 And haunt the court, without a prospect there.
 Are these expedients for renown? Confess
 Thy little self, that I may scorn the less.
 Be wise, Vincenna, and the court forsake;
 Our fortunes there, nor thou, nor I, shall make.

Ev'n men of merit, ere their point they gain,
 In hardy service make a long campaign;
 Most manfully besiege their patron's gate,
 And oft repuls'd, as oft attack the great
 With painful art, and application warm,
 And take, at last, some little place by storm;
 Enough to keep two shoes on Sunday clean,
 And starve upon discreetly, in Sheer Lane.
 Already this thy fortune can afford;
 Then starve without the favour of my lord.
 'Tis true, great fortunes some great men confer;
 But often, ev'n in doing right, they err:
 From caprice, not from choice, their favours come;
 They give, but think it toil to know to whom:
 The man that's nearest, yawning, they advance:
 'Tis inhumanity to bless by chance.
 If merit sues, and greatness is so loth
 To break its downy trance, I pity both.

I grant at court, Philander, at his need,
 (Thanks to his lovely wife) finds friends indeed.
 Of every charm and virtue she's possess:
 Philander! thou art exquisitely blest;
 The public envy! Now then, 'tis allow'd,
 The man is found, who may be justly proud:
 But, see! how sickly is ambition's taste?
 Ambition feeds on trash, and loaths a feast;
 For, lo! Philander, of reproach afraid,
 In secret loves his wife, but keeps her maid.

Some nymphs sell reputation; others buy;
 And love a market where the rates run high:

Italian music's sweet, because 'tis dear;
 Their vanity is tickled, not their ear:
 Their tastes would lessen, if the prices fell,
 And Shakespear's wretched stuff do quite as well;
 Away the disenchanted fair would throng,
 And own, that English is their mother tongue.

To shew how much our northern tastes refine,
 Imported nymphs our peeresses outshine;
 While tradesmen starve, these Philomels are gay;
 For generous lords had rather give than pay.

Behold the masquerade's fantastic scene!
 The legislature join'd with Drury-lane!
 When Britain calls, th' embroider'd patriots run,
 And serve their country——if the dance is done.

'Are we not then allow'd to be polite?'
 Yes, doubtless; but first set your notions right.
 Worth, of politeness is the needful ground;
 Where that is wanting, this can ne'er be found.
 Triflers not ev'n in trifles can excel;
 'Tis solid bodies only polish well.

Great, chosen prophet! for these latter days,
 To turn a willing world from righteous ways:
 Well, H——r, dost thou thy master serve;
 Well has he seen his servant should not starve.
 Thou to his name hast splendid temples rais'd;
 In various forms of worship seen him prais'd,
 Gaudy devotion, like a Roman, shown,
 And sung sweet anthems in a tongue unknown.
 Inferior off'rings to thy god of vice
 Are duly paid, in fiddles, cards, and dice;

Thy sacrifice supreme, an hundred maids!
 That solemn rite of midnight masquerades!
 If maids the quite exhausted town denies,
 An hundred heads of cuckolds may suffice.
 Thou smil'st, well pleas'd with the converted land,
 To see the fifty churches at a stand.
 And that thy minister may never fail,
 But what thy hand has planted still prevail,
 Of minor prophets a succession sure
 The propagation of thy zeal secure.

See commons, peers, and ministers of state,
 In solemn council met, and deep debate!
 What godlike enterprize is taking birth?
 What wonder opens on th' expecting earth?
 'Tis done! with loud applause the council rings!
 Fix'd is the fate of whores and fiddle-strings! [these,

Tho' bold these truths, thou, Muse, with truths like
 Wilt none offend, whom 'tis a praise to please:
 Let others flatter to be flatter'd, thou,
 Like just tribunals, bend an awful brow.
 How terrible it were to common sense,
 To write a satire, which gave none offence?
 And, since from life I take the draughts you see,
 If men dislike them, do they censure me?
 The fool, and knave, 'tis glorious to offend,
 And godlike an attempt the world to mend;
 The world, where lucky throws to blockheads fall,
 Knaves know the game, and honest men pay all.

How hard for real worth to gain its price?
 A man shall make his fortune in a trice,

If blest with pliant, tho' but slender, sense,
Feign'd modesty, and real impudence:
A supple knee, smooth tongue, an easy grace,
A curse within, a smile upon his face;
A beauteous sister, or convenient wife,
Are prizes in the lottery of life;
Genius and virtue they will soon defeat,
And lodge you in the bosom of the great.
To merit, is but to provide a pain
From men's refusing what you ought to gain.

May, Dodington, this maxim fail in you,
Whom my presaging thoughts already view
By Walpole's conduct fir'd, and friendship grac'd,
Still higher in your prince's favour plac'd;
And lending, here, those awful councils aid,
Which you, abroad, with such success obey'd:
Bear this from one, who holds your friendship dear;
What most we wish, with ease we fancy near.

S A T I R E IV.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE

SIR SPENCER COMPTON.

Round some fair tree th' ambitious woodbine grows,
And breathes her sweets on the supporting boughs:
So sweet the verse, th' ambitious verse, should be,
(O! pardon mine) that hopes support from thee;
Thee, Compton, born o'er senates to preside,
Their dignity to raise, their councils guide;
Deep to discern, and widely to survey,
And kingdoms fates, without ambition, weigh;
Of distant virtues nice extremes to blend,
The crown's asserter, and the people's friend:
Nor dost thou scorn, amid sublimer views,
To listen to the labours of the muse;
Thy smiles protect her, while thy talents fire,
And 'tis but half thy glory to inspire.
Vex'd at a public fame, so justly won,
The jealous Chremes is with spleen undone;

Chremes, for airy pensions of renown,
 Devotes his service to the state and crown ;
 All schemes he knows, and, knowing, all improves,
 Tho' Britain's thankless, still this patriot loves :
 But patriots differ ; some may shed their blood,
 He drinks his coffee, for the public good ;
 Consults the sacred steam, and there foresees
 What storms, or sun-shine, Providence decrees ;
 Knows, for each day, the weather of our fate ;
 A quid nunc is an almanack of state.

You smile, and think this statesman void of use ;
 'Why may not time his secret worth produce ?
 Since apes can roast the choice Castanian nut,
 Since steeds of genius are expert at put ;
 Since half the senate 'not content' can say,
 Geese nations save, and puppies plots betray.

What makes him model realms, and counsel kings ?
 An incapacity for smaller things :
 Poor Chremes can't conduct his own estate,
 And thence has undertaken Europe's fate.

Gehenno leaves the realm to Chremes' skill,
 And boldly claims a province higher still :
 To raise a name, th' ambitious boy has got,
 At once, a bible, and a shoulder-knot ;
 Deep in the secret, he looks through the whole,
 And pities the dull rogue that saves his soul ;
 To talk with rev'rence you must take good heed,
 Nor shock his tender reason with the creed :
 Howe'er well bred, in public he complies,
 Obliging friends alone with blasphemies.

Peerage is poison, good estates are bad
 For this disease ; poor rogues run seldom mad.
 Have not attainders brought unhop'd relief,
 And falling stocks quite cur'd an unbelief ?
 While the sun shines, Blunt talks with wond'rous force ;
 But thunder mars small beer, and weak discourse.
 Such useful instruments the weather show,
 Just as their mercury is high or low :
 Health chiefly keeps an atheist in the dark ;
 A fever argues better than a Clarke :
 Let but the logic in his pulse decay,
 The Grecian he'll renounce, and learn to pray ;
 While C—— mourns, with an unfeigned zeal,
 Th' apostate youth, who reason'd once so well.

C——, who makes so merry with the creed,
 He almost thinks he disbelieves indeed ;
 But only thinks so ; to give both their due,
 Satan, and he, believe, and tremble too.
 Of some for glory such the boundless rage,
 That they're the blackest scandal of their age.

Narcissus the Tartarian club disclaims ;
 Nay, a free mason, with some terror, names ;
 Omits no duty ; nor can envy say,
 He miss'd, these many years, the church, or play :
 He makes no noise in parliament, 'tis true ;
 But pays his debts, and visit, when 'tis due ;
 His character and gloves are ever clean,
 And then, he can out-bow the bowing dean ;
 A smile eternal on his lip he wears,
 Which equally the wise and worthless shares.

In gay fatigues, this most undaunted chief,
 Patient of idleness beyond belief,
 Most charitably lends the town his face,
 For ornament, in ev'ry public place;
 As sure as cards, he to th' assembly comes,
 And is the furniture of drawing-rooms:
 When Ombre calls, his hand and heart are free,
 And, join'd to two, he fails not—to make three:
 Narcissus is the glory of his race;
 For who does nothing with a better grace?

To deck my list, by nature were design'd
 Such shining expletives of human kind,
 Who want, while through blank life they dream along,
 Sense to be right, and passion to be wrong.

To counterpoise this hero of the mode,
 Some for renown are singular and odd;
 What other men dislike, is sure to please,
 Of all mankind, these dear antipodes;
 Thro' pride, not malice, they run counter still,
 And birth-days are their days of dressing ill.
 Arb—t is a fool, and F—— a sage,
 S—ly will fright you, E—— engage;
 By nature streams run backward, flame descends,
 Stones mount, and S—x is the worst of friends;
 They take their rest by day, and wake by night,
 And blush, if you surprize them in the right;
 If they by chance blurt out, ere well aware,
 A swan is white, or Q——y is fair.

Nothing exceeds in ridicule, no doubt,
 A fool in fashion, but a fool that's out,

His passion for absurdity's so strong,
 He cannot bear a rival in the wrong;
 Tho' wrong the mode, comply ; more sense is shewn
 In wearing others follies, than your own.
 If what is out of fashion most you prize,
 Methinks you should endeavour to be wise.
 But what in oddness can be more sublime
 Than S—— the foremost toyman of his time?
 His nice ambition lies in curious fancies,
 His daughter's portion a rich shell inhances,
 And Ashmole's baby-house, is, in his view,
 Britannia's golden mine, a rich Peru !
 How his eyes languish? how his thoughts adore
 That painted coat, which Joseph never wore?
 He shews, on holidays, a sacred pin,
 That touch'd the ruff, that touch'd Queen Bess's chin.

' Since that great dearth our chronicles deplore,
 ' Since that great plague that swept as many more,
 ' Was ever year unblest as this?' he'll cry,
 ' It has not brought us one new butterfly !'
 In times that suffer such learn'd men as these,
 Unhappy I——y! how came you to please?

Not gaudy butterflies are Lico's game ;
 But, in effect, his chace is much the same :
 Warm in pursuit, he levées all the great,
 Stanch to the foot of title and estate :
 Where-e'er their lordships go, they never find
 Or Lico, or their shadows, lag behind ;
 He sets them sure, where-e'er their lordships run,
 Close at their elbows, as a morning-dun ;

As if their grandeur, by contagion, wrought;
 And fame was, like a fever, to be caught :
 But after seven years dance, from place to place,
 The * Dane is more familiar with his Grace.

Who'd be a crutch to prop a rotten peer ;
 Or living pendant dangling at his ear,
 For ever whisp'ring secrets, which were blown
 For months before, by trumpets, through the town ?
 Who'd be a glass, with flattering grimace,
 Still to reflect the temper of his face ;
 Or happy pin to stick upon his sleeve,
 When my lord's gracious, and vouchsafes it leave ;
 Or cushion, when his heaviness shall please
 To loll, or thump it, for his better ease ;
 Or a vile butt, for noon, or night, bespoke,
 When the peer rashly swears he'll club his joke ?
 Who'd shake with laughter, tho' he cou'd not find
 His lordship's jest ; or, if his nose broke wind,
 For blessings to the gods profoundly bow,
 That can cry, ' Chimney sweep,' or drive a plough ?
 With terms like these, how mean the tribe that close ?
 Scarce meaner they, who terms like these, impose.

But what's the tribe most likely to comply ?
 The men of ink, or antient authors, lye ;
 The writing tribe, who shameless auctions hold
 Of praise, by inch of candle to be sold :
 All men they flatter, but themselves the most,
 With deathless fame, their everlasting boast :

* A Danish dog of the duke of Argyle.

For fame no cully makes so much her jest,
 As her old constant spark, the bard profess.
 • B---le shines in council, M---t in the fight,
 • P---l---m's magnificent; but I can write,
 • And what to my great soul like glory dear?
 'Till some god whispers in his tingling ear,
 That fame's unwholsome taken without meat,
 And life is best sustain'd by what is eat:
 Grow lean, and wise, he curses what he writ,
 And wishes all his wants were in his wit.

Ah! what avails it, when his dinner's lost,
 That his triumphant name adorns a post?
 Or that his shining page (provoking fate!)
 Defends sirloins, which sons of dulness eat?

What foe to verse without compassion bears,
 What cruel prose-man can refrain from tears,
 When the poor muse, for less than half a crown,
 A prostitute on ev'ry bulk in town,
 With other whores undone, tho' not in print,
 Clubs credit for Geneva in the mint?

Ye bards! why will you sing, tho' uninspir'd?
 Ye bards! why will you starve, to be admir'd?
 Defunct by Phoebus' laws, beyond redress,
 Why will your spectres haunt the frightened press?
 Bad metre, that excrescence of the head,
 Like hair, will sprout, altho' the poet's dead.

All other trades demand, verse-makers beg;
 A dedication is a wooden leg;
 A barren Labeo, the true mumper's fashion,
 Exposes borrow'd brats to move compassion.

Tho' such myself, vile bards I discommend;
 Nay more, tho' gentle Damon is my friend.
 'Is't then a crime to write?'—If talent rare
 Proclaim the god, the crime is to forbear:
 For some; tho' few, there are large-minded men,
 Who watch unseen the labours of the pen;
 Who know the muse's worth, and therefore court,
 Their deeds her theme, their bounty her support;
 Who serve, unask'd, the least pretence to wit;
 My sole excuse, alas! for having writ.
 A——le true wit is studious to restore;
 And D——t smiles, if Phoebus smil'd before;
 P——ke in years the long-lov'd arts admires,
 And Henrietta like a muse inspires.

But, ah! not inspiration can obtain
 That fame, which poets languish for in vain.
 How mad their aim, who thirst for glory, strive
 To grasp, what no man can possess alive?
 Fame's a reversion in which men take place
 (O late reversion!) at their own decease.
 This truth sagacious Lintot knows so well,
 He starves his authors, that their works may sell.

That fame is wealth, fantastic poets cry;
 That wealth is fame, another clan reply;
 Who know no guilt, no scandal, but in rags;
 And swell in just proportion to their bags.
 Nor only the low-born, deform'd, and old,
 Think glory nothing but the beams of gold;

 No rival can prevail,—but half a crown.

He glories to late times to be convey'd,
 Not for the poor he has reliev'd, but made:
 Not such ambition his great fathers fir'd,
 When Harry conquer'd, and half France expir'd:
 He'd be a slave, a pimp, a dog, for gain:
 Nay, a dull sheriff for his golden chain.

'Who'd be a slave?' the gallant colonel cries,
 While love of glory sparkles from his eyes:
 To deathless fame he loudly pleads his right,—
 Just is his title,—for he will not fight:
 All soldiers valour, all divines have grace,
 As maids of honour beauty,—by their place:
 But, when indulging on the last campaign,
 His lofty terms climb o'er the hills of slain;
 He gives the foes he slew, at each vain word,
 A sweet revenge, and half absolves his sword.

Of boasting more than of a bomb afraid,
 A soldier should be modest as a maid:
 Fame is a bubble the reserv'd enjoy;
 Who strive to grasp it, as they touch, destroy:

'Tis the world's debt to deeds of high degree;
But if you pay yourself, the world is free.

Were there no tongue to speak them but his own,
Augustus' deeds in arms had ne'er been known.
Augustus' deeds! if that ambiguous name
Confounds my reader, and misguides his aim,
Such is the Prince's worth, of whom I speak;
The Roman would not blush at the mistake.

O fairest of creation ! last and best
Of all God's works ! creature, in whom excell'd
What ever can to fight, or thought, be form'd
Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet !
How art thou lost ! _____ MILTON.

NOR reigns ambition in bold man alone ;
Soft female hearts the rude invader own :
But there, indeed, it deals in nicer things,
Than routing armies, and dethroning kings :
Attend, and you discern it in the fair
Conduct a finger, or reclaim a hair ;
Or roll the lucid orbit of an eye ;
Or, in full joy, elaborate a sigh.

The sex we honour, tho' their faults we blame ;
Nay, thank their faults for such a fruitful theme :
A theme, fair—— ! doubly kind to me,
Since satyrizing those is praising thee ;
Who wouldst not bear, too modestly refin'd,
A panegyric of a grosser kind.

Britannia's daughters, much more fair than nice,
 Too fond of admiration, lose their price;
 Worn in the public eye, give cheap delight
 To throngs, and tarnish to the sated sight:
 As unreserv'd, and beauteous, as the sun,
 Through every sign of vanity they run;
 Assemblies, parks, coarse feasts in city-halls,
 Lectures, and trials, plays, committees, balls,
 Wells, bedlams, executions, Smithfield scenes,
 And fortune-tellers caves, and lions dens,
 Taverns, exchanges, bridewells, drawing-rooms,
 Installments, pillories, coronations, tombs,
 Tumblers, and fun'rals, puppet-shows, reviews,
 Sales, races, rabbits, (and still stranger!) pews,

Clarinda's bosom burns, but burns for fame;
 And love lies vanquish'd in a nobler flame;
 Warm gleams of hope she, now, dispenses; then,
 Like April suns, dives into clouds agen:
 With all her lustre, now, her lover warms;
 Then, out of ostentation, hides her charms.
 'Tis, next, her pleasure sweetly to complain,
 And to be taken with a sudden pain;
 Then, she starts up, all ecstasy and bliss,
 And is, sweet soul! just as sincere in this:
 O how she rolls her charming eyes in spight!
 And looks delightfully with all her might!
 But, like our heroes, much more brave than wise,
 She conquers for the triumph, not the prize.

Zara resembles Etna crown'd with snows;
 Without she freezes, and within she glows:

Twice ere the sun descends, with zeal inspir'd,
 From the vain converse of the world retir'd,
 She reads the psalms and chapters for the day,
 In—Cleopatra, or the last new play.
 Thus gloomy Zara, with a solemn grace,
 Deceives mankind, and hides behind her face.

Not far beneath her in renown, is she,
 Who, thro' good breeding, is ill company;
 Whose manners will not let her larum cease,
 Who thinks you are unhappy, when at peace;
 To find you news, who racks her subtle head,
 And vows—that her great grandfather is dead.

A dearth of words a woman need not fear;
 But 'tis a task indeed to learn—to hear:
 In that the skill of conversation lies;
 That shews, or makes, you both polite and wise.

Xantippe cries, ' Let nymphs, who nought can say,
 ' Be lost in silence, and resign the day;
 ' And let the guilty wife her guilt confess,
 ' By tame behaviour, and a soft address;
 Through virtue, she refuses to comply
 With all the dictates of humanity;
 Through wisdom, she refuses to submit
 To wisdom's rules, and raves to prove her wit;
 Then, her unblemish'd honour to maintain,
 Rejects her husband's kindness with disdain:
 But if, by chance, an ill adapted word
 Drops from the lip of her unwary lord,
 Her darling china, in a whirlwind sent,
 Just intimates the lady's discontent.

Wine may indeed excite the meekest dame;
 But keen Xantippē, scorning borrow'd flame,
 Can vent her thunders, and her lightnings play,
 O'er cooling gruel, and composing tea:
 Nor rests by night, but, more sincere than nice,
 She shakes the curtains with her kind advice:
 Doubly, like echo, sound is her delight,
 And the last word is her eternal right.
 Is't not enough plagues, wars, and famines, rise
 To lash our crimes, but must our wives be wise?

Famine, plague, war, and an unnumber'd throng
 Of guilt avenging ills, to man belong:
 What black, what ceaseless cares besiege our state?
 What strokes we feel from fancy, and from fate?
 If fate forbears us, fancy strikes the blow;
 We make misfortunes; suicides in woe.
 Superfluous aid! unnecessary skill!
 Is nature backward to torment, or kill?
 How oft the noon, how oft the midnight, bell,
 (That iron-tongue of death!) with solemn knell,
 On folly's errands, as we vainly roam, [home?
 Knocks at our hearts, and finds our thoughts from
 Men drop so fast, ere life's mid-stage we tread,
 Few know so many friends alive, as dead.
 Yet, as immortal, in our up-hill chace
 We press coy fortune with unslacken'd pace;
 Our ardent labours for the toys we seek,
 Join night to day, and Sunday to the week:
 Our very joys are anxious, and expire
 Between satiety and fierce desire.

Now what reward for all this grief and toil?

But one; a female friend's endearing smile;

A tender smile, our sorrows' only balm;

And, in life's tempest, the sad sailor's calm.

How have I seen a gentle nymph draw nigh,

Peace in her air, persuasion in her eye;

Victorious tenderness! it all o'ercame,

Husbands look'd mild, and savages grew tame.

The sylvan race our active nymphs pursue;

Man is not all the game they have in view:

In woods and fields their glory they complete;

There master Betty leaps a five barr'd gate;

While fair miss Charles to toilets is confin'd,

Nor rashly tempts the barb'rous fun and wind.

Some nymphs affect a more heroic breed;

And volt from hunters to the manag'd steed;

Command his prancings with a martial air,

And Fobert has the forming of the fair.

More than one steed must Delia's empire feel;

Who sits triumphant o'er the flying wheel;

And as she guides it thro' th' admiring throng,

With what an air she smacks the silken thong?

Graceful as John, she moderates the reins,

And whistles sweet her diuretic strains:

Sesostris like, such charioteers as these

May drive six harness'd monarchs, if they please:

They drive, row, run, with love of glory smit,

Leap, swim, shoot flying, and pronounce on wit.

O'er the belle-lettre lovely Daphne reigns;

Again the god Apollo wears her chains:

With legs toss'd high, on her sophee she sits,
 Vouchsafing audience to contending wits;
 Of each performance she's the final test;
 One act read o'er, she prophesies the rest;
 And then, pronouncing with decisive air,
 Fully convinces all the town—she's fair.
 Had lovely Daphne Hecate's face,
 How would her elegance of taste decrease?
 Some ladies judgment in their features lies,
 And all their genius sparkles from their eyes.

But hold, she cries, lampooner! have a care;
 Must I want common sense, because I'm fair?
 O no: See Stella; her eyes shine as bright,
 As if her tongue was never in the right;
 And yet what real learning, judgment, fire!
 She seems inspir'd, and can herself inspire:
 How then (if malice rul'd not all the fair)
 Could Daphne publish, and could she forbear?
 We grant that beauty is no bar to sense,
 Nor is't a sanction for impertinence.

Sempronia lik'd her man; and well she might;
 The youth in person, and in parts, was bright;
 Possess'd of ev'ry virtue, grace, and art,
 That claims just empire o'er the female heart:
 He met her passion, all her sighs return'd,
 And, in full rage of youthful ardour, burn'd:
 Large his possessions, and beyond her own;
 Their bliss the theme, and envy of the town:
 The day was fix'd, when, with one acre more;
 In stepp'd deform'd, debauch'd, diseas'd, threescore.

The fatal sequel I, through shame, forbear:
Of pride, and av'rice, who can cure the fair?

Man's rich with little, were his judgment true;
Nature is frugal, and her wants are few;
Those few wants answer'd, bring sincere delights;
But fools create themselves new appetites:
Fancy, and pride, seek things at vast expence,
Which relish not to reason, nor to sense.
When surfeit, or unthankfulness, destroys,
In nature's narrow sphere, our solid joys,
In fancy's airy land of noise and show,
Where nought but dreams, no real pleasures, grow;
Like cats in air-pumps, to subsist we strive
On joys too thin to keep the soul alive.
Lemira's sick; make haste; the doctor call:
He comes; but where's his patient? At the ball.
The doctor stares; her woman curtsies low,
And cries, ' My lady, sir, is always so:
' Diversions put her maladies to flight;
' True, she can't stand, but she can dance all night:
' I've known my lady (for she loves a tune)
' For fevers take an opera in June:
' And, tho' perhaps you'll think the practice bold,
' A midnight park is sov'reign for a cold:
' With cholics, breakfasts of green fruit agree;
' With indigestions, supper just at three.'
A strange alternative, replies Sir Hans,
Must women have a doctor, or a dance?
Though sick to death, abroad they safely roam,
But droop and die, in perfect health, at home:

For want—but not of health, are ladies ill ;
And tickets cure beyond the doctor's bill.

Alas, my heart ! how languishingly fair
Yon lady lolls ? With what a tender air ?
Pale as a young dramatic author, when,
O'er darling lines, fell Cibber waves his pen.
Is her lord angry, or has * Veny chid ?
Dead is her father, or the mask forbid ?

' Late sitting up has turn'd her roses white.'
Why went she not to bed ? ' Because 'twas night.'
Did she then dance, or play ? ' Nor this, nor that.'
Well-night soon steals away in pleasing chat.

' No, all alone, her prayers she rather chose ;
' Than be that wretch to sleep till morning rose.'
Then lady Cynthia, mistress of the shade,
Goes, with the fashionable owls, to bed :
This her pride covets, this her health denies ;
Her soul is silly, but her body's wise.

Others, with curious arts, dim charms revive,
And triumph in the bloom of fifty-five.
You, in the morning, a fair nymph invite ;
To keep her word, a brown one comes at night :
Next day she shines in glossy black ; and then
Revolves into her native red agen :
Like a dove's neck, she shifts her transient charms,
And is her own dear rival in your arms.

But one admirer has the painted lass ;
Nor finds that one, but in her looking-glass :

* Lap-dog.

Yet Laura's beautiful to such excess,
That all her art scarce makes her please us less.
To deck the female cheek, HE only knows,
Who paints less fair the lily, and the rose.

How gay they smile? Such blessings nature pours,
O'er-stock'd mankind enjoy but half her stores:
In distant wilds, by human eyes unseen,
She rears her flow'rs, and spreads her velvet green:
Pure gurgling rills the lonely desert trace,
And waste their music on the savage race.
Is nature then a niggard of her bliss?
Repine we guiltless in a world like this?
But our lewd tastes her lawful charms refuse,
And painted art's deprav'd allurements chuse.
Such Fulvia's passion for the town; fresh air
(An odd effect!) gives vapours to the fair;
Green fields, and shady groves, and chrystal springs,
And larks, and nightingales are odious things;
But smoke, and dust, and noise, and crowds, delight;
And to be press'd to death, transports her quite:
Where silver riv'lets play thro' flow'ry meads,
And woodbines give their sweets, and limes their shades,
Black kennels absent odours she regrets,
And stops her nose at beds of violets.

Is stormy life preferr'd to the serene?
Or is the public to the private scene?
Retir'd, we tread a smooth and open way;
Through briars and brambles in the world we stray;
Stiff opposition, and perplex'd debate,
And thorny care, and rank and stinging hate,

Which choak our passage, our career controul,
 And wound the firmest temper of our soul.
 O sacred solitude! divine retreat!
 Choice of the prudent! envy of the great!
 By thy pure stream, or in thy waving shade,
 We court fair wisdom, that celestial maid:
 The genuine offspring of her lov'd embrace,
 (Strangers on earth!) are innocence and peace:
 There, from the ways of men laid safe ashore,
 We smile to hear the distant tempest roar;
 There, bless'd with health, with business unperplex'd,
 This life we relish, and ensure the next;
 There too the muses sport; these numbers free,
 Pierian Eastbury! I owe to thee.

There sport the muses; but not there alone:
 Their sacred force Amelia feels in town.
 Nought but a genius can a genius fit;
 A wit herself, Amelia weds a wit:
 Both wits! though miracles are said to cease,
 Three days, three wond'rous days! they liv'd in peace;
 With the fourth sun a warm dispute arose,
 On Durfey's poesy, and Bunyan's prose;
 The learned war both wage with equal force,
 And the fifth morn concluded the divorce.

Phoebe, though she possesses nothing less,
 Is proud of being rich in happiness:
 Laboriously pursues delusive toys,
 Content with pains, since they're reputed joys.
 With what well-acted transport will she say,
 ' Well, sure, we were so happy yesterday!

• And then that charming party for to-morrow!
 Though, well she knows, 'twill languish into sorrow:
 But she dares never boast the present hour;
 So gross that cheat, it is beyond her power:
 For such is, or our weakness, or our curse,
 Or rather such our crime, which still is worse,
 The present moment, like a wife, we shun,
 And ne'er enjoy, because it is our own.

Pleasures are few, and fewer we enjoy;
 Pleasure, like quicksilver, is bright, and coy;
 We strive to grasp it with our utmost skill,
 Still it eludes us, and it glitters still:
 If seiz'd at last, compute your mighty gains;
 What is it, but rank poison in your veins?

As Flavia in her glass an angel spies,
 Pride whispers in her ear pernicious lyes;
 Tells her, while she surveys a face so fine,
 There's no satiety of charms divine:
 Hence, if her lover yawns, all chang'd appears
 Her temper, and she melts (sweet soul!) in tears:
 She, fond and young, last week, her wish enjoy'd;
 In soft amusement all the night employ'd;
 The morning came, when Strephon, waking, found
 (Surprising sight!) his bride in sorrow drown'd.

• What miracle, says Strephon, makes thee weep?
 • Ah, barb'rous man, she cries, how could you—sleep?"

Men love a mistress, as they love a feast;
 How grateful one to touch, and one to taste?
 Yet sure there is a certain time of day,
 We wish our mistress, and our meat, away:

But soon the sated appetites return,
 Again our stomachs crave, our bosoms burn:
 Eternal love let man, then, never swear;
 Let women never triumph, nor despair;
 Nor praise, nor blame, too much, the warm, or chill;
 Hunger and love are foreign to the will.
 There is indeed a passion more refin'd,
 For those few nymphs whose charms are of the mind:
 But not of that unfashionable set
 Is Phyllis; Phyllis and her Damon met,
 Eternal love exactly hits her taste;
 Phyllis demands eternal love at least.
 Embracing Phyllis with soft-smiling eyes,
 Eternal love I vow, the swain replies:
 But say, my all, my mistress, and my friend!
 What day next week th' eternity shall end?

Some nymphs prefer astronomy to love;
 Elope from mortal man, and range above:
 The fair philosopher to Rowley flies,
 Where, in a box, the whole creation lies:
 She sees the planets in their turns advance,
 And scorns, Poitiet, thy sublunary dance:
 Of Desagulier she bespeaks fresh air;
 And Whiston has engagements with the fair:
 What vain experiments Sophronia tries!
 'Tis not in air-pumps the gay colonel dies.
 But though to day this rage of science reigns,
 (O fickle sex!) soon end her learned pains.
 Lo! Pug from Jupiter her heart has got,
 Turns out the stars, and Newton is a sot.

To ——— turn; she never took the height
 Of Saturn, yet is ever in the right.
 She strikes each point with native force of mind;
 While puzzled learning blunders far behind,
 Graceful to sight, and elegant to thought,
 The great are vaquish'd, and the wise are taught.
 Her breeding finish'd, and her temper sweet,
 When serious, easy; and when gay, discreet;
 In glitt'ring scenes, o'er her own heart, sincere;
 In crouds, collected; and in courts, severe;
 Sincere, and warm, with zeal well-understood,
 She takes a noble pride in doing good;
 Yet not superior to her sex's cares,
 The mode she fixes by the gown she wears;
 Of silks and china she's the last appeal;
 In these great points she leads the commonweal;
 And if disputes of empire rise between
 Mechlin the queen of lace, and Colberteen,
 'Tis doubt! 'tis darkness! till suspended fate
 Assumes her nod, to close the grand debate.
 When such her mind, why will the fair express
 Their emulation only in their dress?

But, oh! the nymph that mounts above the skies,
 And, gratis, clears religious mysteries,
 Resolv'd the church's welfare to ensure,
 And make her family a sine-cure:
 The theme divine at cards she'll not forget,
 But takes in texts of scripture at picquet;
 In those licentious meetings acts the prude,
 And thanks her Maker that her cards are good.

What angels would those be, who thus excel
 In theologies, could they sew as well!
 Yet why should not the fair her text pursue?
 Can she more decently the doctor woo?
 'Tis hard, too, she who makes no use but chat
 Of her religion, should be barr'd in that.

Isaac, a brother of the canting strain,
 When he has knock'd at his own skull in vain,
 To beauteous Marcia often will repair
 With a dark text, to light it at the fair.
 O how his pious soul exults to find
 Such love for holy men in woman-kind?
 Charm'd with her learning, with what rapture he
 Hangs on her bloom, like an industrious bee;
 Hums round about her, and with all his power
 Extracts sweet wisdom from so fair a flower?

The young and gay declining. Appia flies
 At nobler game, the mighty and the wise:
 By nature more an eagle than a dove,
 She impiously prefers the world to love.

Can wealth give happiness? look round, and see
 What gay distress! what splendid misery!
 Whatever fortune lavishly can pour,
 The mind annihilates, and calls for more.
 Wealth is a cheat; believe not what it says;
 Like any lord it promises—and pays.
 How will the miser startle, to be told
 Of such a wonder, as insolvent gold?
 What nature wants has an intrinsic weight;

Which, for one moment, charms the fickle view;
 It charms us now; anon we cast anew;
 To some fresh birth of fancy more inclin'd:
 Then wed not acres, but a noble mind.

Mistaken lovers, who make worth their care,
 And think accomplishments will win the fair:
 The fair, 'tis true, by genius should be won,
 As flow'rs unfold their beauties to the sun;
 And yet in female scales a fop out-weighs,
 And wit must wear the willow and the bays.
 Nought shines so bright in vain Liberia's eye
 As riot, impudence, and perfidy;
 The youth of fire, that has drunk deep, and play'd,
 And kill'd his man, and triumph'd o'er his maid;
 For him, as yet unhang'd, she spreads her charms,
 Snatches the dear destroyer to her arms;
 And amply gives (though treated long amiss)
 The man of merit his revenge in this.
 If you resent, and wish a woman ill,
 But turn her o'er one moment to her will.

The languid lady next appears in state,
 Who was not born to carry her own weight;
 She lolls, reels, staggers, till some foreign aid
 To her own stature lifts the feeble maid.
 Then, if ordain'd to so severe a doom,
 She, by just stages, journeys round the room:
 But, knowing her own weakness, she despairs
 To scale the Alps—that is, ascend the stairs.
 My fan! let others say, who laugh at toil;
 Fan! hood! glove! scarf! is her laconic stile;

And that is spoke with such a dying fall,
 That Betty rather sees, than hears the call:
 The motion of her lips, and meaning eye,
 Piece out th' idea her faint words deny.
 O listen with attention most profound!
 Her voice is but the shadow of a sound.
 And help! oh help! her spirits are so dead,
 One hand scarce lifts the other to her head.
 If, there, a stubborn pin it triumphs o'er,
 She pants! she sinks away! and is no more.
 Let the robust, and the gigantic carve,
 Life is not worth so much, she'd rather starve:
 But chew she must herself; ah cruel fate!
 That Rosalinda can't by proxy eat.

An antidote in female caprice lies
 (Kind heav'n!) against the poison of their eyes.

Thalestris triumphs in a manly mien;
 Loud is her accent, and her phrase obscene.
 In fair and open dealing where's the shame?
 What nature dares to give, she dares to name.
 This honest fellow is sincere and plain,
 And justly gives the jealous husband pain.
 (Vain is the task to petticoats assign'd,
 If wanton language shews a naked mind.)
 And now and then, to grace her eloquence,
 An oath supplies the vacancies of sense.
 Hark! the shrill notes transpierce the yielding air,
 And teach the neighb'ring echoes how to swear.
 By Jove, is faint, and for the simple swain;
 She, on the Christian system, is prophane.

But though the volley rattles in your ear,
 Believe her drefs, ſhe's not a grenadier.
 If thunder's awful, how much more our dread,
 When Jove deputes a lady in his ſtead?
 A lady, pardon my miſtaken pen,
 A ſhameleſs woman is the worſt of men.

Few to good-breeding make a juſt pretence;
 Good-breeding is the bloſſom of good-ſenſe;
 The laſt reſult of an accompliſh'd mind,
 With outward grace, the body's virtue, join'd.
 A violated-decency now reigns;
 And nymphs for failings take peculiar pains.
 With Chineſe painters modern toaſts agree,
 The point they aim at is deformity:
 They throw their perſons with a hoyden air
 Acroſs the room, and toſs into the chair.
 So far their commerce with mankind is gone,
 They, for our manners, have exchange'd their own.
 The modeſt look, the caſtigated grace,
 The gentle movement, and ſlow-measur'd pace,
 For which her lovers dy'd, her parents pray'd,
 Are indecorums with the modern maid.
 Stiff forms are bad; but let not worſe intrude,
 Nor conquer art and nature, to be rude.
 Modern good-breeding carry to its height,
 And lady D——'s ſelf will be polite.

Ye riſing fair! ye bloom of Britain's iſle!
 When high-born Anna, with a ſofter'd ſmile,
 Leads on your train, and ſparkles at your head,
 What ſeems moſt hard, is, not to be well-bred.

Her bright example with success pursue,
And all, but adoration, is your due.

But adoration ! give me something more,
Cries Lyce, on the borders of threescore :
Nought treads so silent as the foot of time ;
Hence we mistake our autumn for our prime ;
'Tis greatly wise to know, before we're told,
The melancholy news, that we grow old.

Autumnal Lyce carries in her face
Memento mori to each public place.

O how your beating breast a mistress warms,
Who looks through spectacles to see your charms !

While rival undertakers hover round,

And with his spade the sexton marks the ground,

Intent not on her own, but others doom,

She plans new conquests, and defrauds the tomb.

In vain the cock has summon'd sprites away,

She walks at noon, and blasts the bloom of day.

Gay rainbow silks her mellow charms infold,

And nought of Lyce but herself is old.

Her grissled locks assume a smirking grace,

And art has levell'd her deep-furrow'd face.

Her strange demand no mortal can approve,

We'll ask her blessing, but can't ask her love.

She grants, indeed, a lady may decline

(All ladies but herself) at ninety-nine.

O how unlike her was the sacred age

Of prudent Portia ? her grey hairs engage ;

Whose thoughts are suited to her life's decline :

Virtue's the paint that can with wrinkles shine.

That, and that only, can old age sustain;
 Which yet all wish, nor know they wish for pain.
 Not numerous are our joys, when life is new;
 And yearly some are falling of the few;
 But when we conquer life's meridian stage,
 And downward tend into the vale of age,
 They drop apace; by nature some decay,
 And some the blasts of fortune sweep away;
 'Till naked quite of happiness, aloud
 We call for death, and shelter in a shroud.

Where's Portia now?—But Portia left behind
 Two lovely copies of her form and mind.
 What heart untouch'd their early grief can view,
 Like blushing rose-buds dipp'd in morning dew?
 Who into shelter takes their tender bloom,
 And forms their minds to flee from ills to come?
 The mind, when turn'd adrift, no rules to guide,
 Drives at the mercy of the wind and tide;
 Fancy and passion toss it to and fro;
 A-while torment, and then quite sink in woe.
 Ye beauteous orphans, since in silent dust
 Your best example lies, my precepts trust.
 Life swarms with ills; the boldest are afraid;
 Where then is safety for a tender maid?
 Unfit for conflict, round beset with woes,
 And man, whom least she fears, her worst of foes!
 When kind, most cruel; when oblig'd the most,
 The least obliging; and by favours lost.
 Cruel by nature, they for kindness hate;
 And scorn you for those ills themselves create.

If on your fame our sex a blot has thrown,
'Twill ever stick, through malice of your own.
Most hard! in pleasing your chief glory lies;
And yet from pleasing your chief dangers rise:
Then please the best; and know, for men of sense,
Your strongest charms are native innocence.
Art on the mind, like paint upon the face,
Fright him, that's worth your love, from your embrace.
In simple manners all the secret lies;
Be kind and virtuous, you'll be blest and wise.
Vain shew and noise intoxicate the brain,
Begin with giddiness, and end in pain.
Affect not empty fame, and idle praise,
Which, all those wretches I describe, betrays.
Your sex's glory 'tis, to shine unknown;
Of all applause, be fondest of your own.
Beware the fever of the mind! that thirst
With which the age is eminently curst:
To drink of pleasure, but inflames desire;
And abstinence alone can quench the fire;
Take pain from life, and terror from the tomb;
Give peace in hand; and promise bliss to come.

Inscribed to the RIGHT HONOURABLE the LADY ELIZABETH GERMAIN.

Interdum tamen et tollit comoedia vocem. H. A.

I Sought a patroness, but fought in vain,
 Apollo whisper'd in my ear——' Germain.'——
 I know her not.——' Your reason's somewhat odd;
 ' Who knows his patron, now?' reply'd the god.
 ' Men write, to me, and to the world, unknown;
 ' Then steal great names, to shield them from the town.
 ' Detected worth, like beauty disarray'd,
 ' To covert flies, of praise itself afraid:
 ' Should she refuse to patronize your lays,
 ' In vengeance write a volume in her praise.

' Nor think it hard so great a length to run;
' When such the theme, 'twill easily be done.'

Ye fair! to draw your excellence at length,
Exceeds the narrow bounds of human strength;
You, here, in miniature your picture see;
Nor hope from Zincks more justice than from me,
My portraits grace your mind, as his your side;
His portraits will inflame, mine quench, your pride:
He's dear, you frugal; choose my cheaper lay;
And be your reformation all my pay.

Lavinia is polite, but not prophane;
To church as constant as to Drury-lane.
She decently, in form, pays heaven its due;
And makes a civil visit to her pew.
Her lifted fan, to give a solemn air,
Conceals her face, which passes for a prayer:
Curtseys to curtseys, then, with grace, succeed;
Not one the fair omits, but at the creed.
Or if she joins the service, 'tis to speak;
Thro' dreadful silence the pent heart might break;
Untaught to bear it, women talk away
To God himself, and fondly think they pray.
But sweet their accent, and their air refin'd;
For they're before their Maker---and mankind;
When ladies once are proud of praying well,
Satan himself will toll the parish bell.

Acquainted with the world, and quite well-bred,
Drusa receives her visitants in bed;

When from the sheets her lovely form she lifts,
She begs you just would turn you, while she shifts.

Those charms are greatest which decline the sight,
That makes the banquet poignant and polite.
There is no woman, where there's no reserve;

And 'tis on plenty your poor lovers starve.

But with a modern fair, meridian merit,

Is a fierce thing, they call a nymph of spirit.

Mark well the rollings of her flaming eye;

And tread on tiptoe, if you dare draw nigh.

' Or if you take a lion by the beard *,

' Or dare defy the fell Hyrcanian pard,

' Or arm'd rhinoceros, or rough Russian bear,

First make your will, and then converse with her.

This lady glories in profuse expence;

And thinks distraction is magnificence.

To beggar her gallant, is some delight;

To be more fatal still, is exquisite;

Had ever nymph such reason to be glad?

In duel fell two lovers; one run mad.

Her foes their honest execrations pour;

Her lovers only should detest her more.

Flavia is constant to her old gallant,

And generously supports him in his want.

But marriage is a fetter, is a snare,

A hell, no lady so polite can bear.

She's faithful, she's observant, and with pains

Her angel-brood of bastards she maintains.

* SHAKESPEARE.

Nor least advantage has the fair to plead,
But that of guilt, above the marriage-bed.

Amasia hates a prude, and scorns restraint;
Whate'er she is, she'll not appear a faint:
Her soul superior flies formality;
So gay her air, her conduct is so free,
Some might suspect the nymph not over-good—
Nor would they be mistaken, if they should.

Unmarried Abra puts on formal airs;
Her cushion's thread-bare with her constant prayers.
Her only grief is, that she cannot be
At once engag'd in prayer and charity.
And this, to do her justice, must be said,
Who would not think that Abra was a maid?

Some ladies are too beauteous to be wed;
But where's the man that's worthy of their bed?
If no disease reduce her pride before,
Lavinia will be ravish'd at threescore.
Then she submits to venture in the dark;
And nothing now is wanting—but her spark.

Lucia thinks happiness consists in state;
She weds an idiot, but she eats in plate.

The goods of fortune, which her soul possesses,
Are but the ground of unmade happiness;
The rude material: wisdom add to this,
Wisdom, the sole artificer of bliss;
She from herself, if so compell'd by need,
Of thin content can draw the subtle thread;
But (no detraction to her sacred skill)
If she can work in gold, 'tis better still.

If Tullia had been blest with half her sense,
 None could too much admire her excellence:
 But since she can make error shine so bright,
 She thinks it vulgar to defend the right.
 With understanding she is quite o'er-run;
 And by too great accomplishments undone:
 With skill she vibrates her eternal tongue,
 For ever most divinely in the wrong.

Naked in nothing should a woman be;
 But veil her very wit with modesty:
 Let man discover, let not her display,
 But yield her charms of mind with sweet delay.

For pleasure form'd, perversely some believe,
 To make themselves important, men must grieve.
 Lesbia the fair, to fire her jealous lord,
 Pretends, the fop she laughs at, is ador'd.
 In vain she's proud of secret innocence;
 The fact she feigns were scarce a worse offence.

Mira, endow'd with every charm to bless,
 Has no design, but on her husband's peace:
 He lov'd her much; and greatly was he mov'd
 At small inquietudes in her he lov'd.
 'How charming this?'—the pleasure lasted long;
 Now every day the fits come thick and strong:
 At last he found the charmer only feign'd;
 And was diverted when he should be pain'd.
 What greater vengeance have the gods in store?
 How tedious life, now she can plague no more?
 She tries a thousand arts; but none succeed:
 She's forc'd a fever to procure indeed:

Thus strictly prov'd this virtuous, loving wife,
Her husband's pain was dearer than her life.

Anxious Melania rises to my view,
Who never thinks her lover pays his due:
Visit, present, treat, flatter, and adore;
Her majesty, to-morrow, calls for more.
His wounded ears complaints eternal fill,
As unoil'd hinges, querulously shrill.
' You went last night with Celia to the ball.'
You prove it false. ' Not go! that's worst of all.'
Nothing can please her, nothing not inflame;
And arrant contradictions are the same.
Her lover must be sad, to please her spleen;
His mirth is an inexpiable sin:
For of all rivals that can pain her breast,
There's one, that wounds far deeper than the rest;
To wreck her quiet, the most dreadful self
Is if her lover dares enjoy himself.

And this, because she's exquisitely fair:
Should I dispute her beauty, how she'd stare?
How would Melania be surpriz'd to hear
She's quite deform'd? and yet the case is clear;
What's female beauty, but an air divine,
Thro' which the mind's all-gentle graces shine?
They, like the sun, irradiate all between;
The body charms because the soul is seen.
Hence, men are often captives of a face,
They know not why, of no peculiar grace:
Some forms, tho' bright, no mortal man can bear;
Some, none resist tho' not exceeding fair,

Aspasia's highly born, and nicely bred,
 Of taste refin'd, in life and manners read;
 Yet reaps no fruit from her superior sense,
 But to be teaz'd by her own excellence.
 ' Folks are so awkward! things so unpolite!
 She's elegantly pain'd from morn till night.
 Her delicacy's shock'd where-e'er she goes;
 Each creature's imperfections are her woes.
 Heav'n by its favour has the fair distress'd,
 And pour'd such blessings---that she can't be blest.

Ah! why so vain, though blooming in thy spring,
 Thou shining, frail, ador'd, and wretched thing?
 Old-age will come; disease may come before;
 Fifteen is full as mortal as threescore.
 Thy fortune, and thy charms, may soon decay:
 But grant these fugitives prolong their stay,
 Their basis totters; their foundation shakes;
 Life, that supports them, in a moment breaks;
 Then wrought into the soul let virtues shine;
 The ground eternal, as the work divine.

Julia's a manager; she's born for rule;
 And knows her wiser husband is a fool;
 Assemblies holds, and spins the subtle thread
 That guides the lover to his fair-one's bed:
 For difficult amours can smooth the way,
 And tender letters dictate, or convey.
 But if depriv'd of such important cares,
 Her wisdom condescends to less affairs.
 For her own breakfast she'll project a scheme,
 Nor take her tea without a stratagem;

Presides o'er trifles with a serious face;
Important, by the virtue of grimace.

Ladies supreme among amusements reign;
By nature born to sooth, and entertain.
Their prudence in a share of folly lies:
Why will they be so weak, as to be wise?

Syrena is for ever in extremes,
And with a vengeance she commends, or blames,
Conscious of her discernment, which is good,
She strains too much to make it understood.
Her judgment just, her sentence is too strong;
Because she's right, she's ever in the wrong.

Brunetta's wife in actions great, and rare;
But scorns on trifles to bestow her care.
Thus ev'ry hour Brunetta is to blame,
Because th' occasion is beneath their aim.
Think nought a trifle, though it small appear;
Small sands the mountain, moments make the year,
And trifles life. Your care to trifles give,
Or you may die, before you truly live.

Go breakfast with Alicia, there you'll see,
Simplex munditiis, to the last degree:
Unlac'd her stays, her night gown is unt'y'd,
And what she has of head-dress is aside.
She draws her words, and waddles in her pace;
Unwash'd her hands, and much besnuff'd her face.
A nail uncut, and head uncomb'd, she loves;
And would draw on jack-boots, as soon as gloves.
Gloves by queen Bess's maidens might be mist;
Her blessed eyes ne'er saw a female fist.

Lovers, beware! to wound how can she fail
 With scarlet finger, and long jetty nail?
 For H—y the first wit she cannot be,
 Nor, cruel R—d, the first toast, for thee.
 Since full each other station of renown,
 Who would not be the greatest trapes in town?
 Women were made to give our eyes delight;
 A female sloven is an odious sight.

Fair Isabella is so fond of fame,
 That her dear self is her eternal theme;
 Through hopes of contradiction, oft she'll say,
 'Methinks I look so wretchedly to day!
 When most the world applauds you, most beware;
 'Tis often less a blessing than a snare.
 Distrust mankind; with your own heart confer;
 And dread even there to find a flatterer.
 The breath of others raises our renown;
 Our own as surely blows the pageant down.
 Take up no more than you by worth can claim,
 Lest soon you prove a bankrupt in your fame.

But own I must, in this perverted age,
 Who most deserve, can't always most engage.
 So far is worth from making glory sure,
 It often hinders what it should procure.
 Whom praise we most? the virtuous, brave, and wise?
 No; wretches, whom, in secret, we despise.
 And who so blind, as not to see the cause?
 No rivals rais'd by such discreet applause;
 And yet, of credit it lays in a store,
 By which our spleen may wound true worth the more.

Ladies there are who think one crime is all;
 Can women, then, no way but backward fall?
 So sweet is that one crime they don't pursue,
 To pay its less, they think all others few.
 Who hold that crime so dear, must never claim
 Of injur'd modesty the sacred name.

But Clio thus: 'What! railing without end?
 'Mean task! how much more gen'rous to commend?'
 Yes, to commend as you are wont to do,
 My kind instructor, and example too.
 'Daphnis,' says Clio, 'has a charming eye:
 'What pity 'tis her shoulder is awry!
 'Aspasia's shape indeed---but then her air---
 'The man has parts who finds destruction there.'
 'Almeria's wit has something that's divine;
 'And wit's enough---how few in all things shine.
 'Selina serves her friends, relieves the poor---
 'Who was it said Selina's near threescore?
 'At Lucia's match I from my soul rejoice;
 'The world congratulates so wise a choice;
 'His lordship's rent-roll is exceeding great---
 'But mortgages will sap the best estate.
 'In Sherley's form might cherubims appear;
 'But then---she has a freckle on her ear.'

Without a but, Hortensia she commends,
 The first of women, and the best of friends;
 Owns her in person, wit, fame, virtue, bright:
 But how comes this to pass?---she dy'd last night.

Thus nymphs commend, who yet at satire rail:
 Indeed that's needless, if such praise prevail.

And whence such praise? our virulence is thrown
On other's fame, thro' fondness for our own.

Of rank and riches proud, Cleora frowns;
For are not coronets akin to crowns?
Her greedy eye, and her sublime address,
The height of avarice and pride confess.
You seek perfections worthy of her rank;
Go, seek for her perfections at the Bank.
By wealth unquench'd, by reason uncontroul'd,
For ever burns her sacred thirst of gold.
As fond of five-pence, as the veriest cit;
And quite as much detested as a wit.

Can gold calm passion, or make reason shine?
Can we dig peace, or wisdom, from the mine?
Wisdom to gold prefer; for 'tis much less
To make our fortune, than our happiness.
That happiness which great ones often see,
With rage and wonder, in a low degree;
Themselves unblest. The poor are only poor;
But what are they who droop amid their store?
Nothing is meaner than a wretch of state;
The happy only are the truly great.
Peasants enjoy like appetites with kings;
And those best satisfied with cheapest things,
Could both our Indies buy but one new sense,
Our envy would be due to large expence.
Since not, those pomps which to the great belong,
Are but poor arts to mark them from the throng.
See how they beg an alms of flattery?
They languish! oh support them with a lye!

A decent competence we fully taste;
 It strikes our sense, and gives a constant feast:
 More, we perceive by dint of thought alone;
 The rich must labour to possess their own,
 To feel their great abundance; and request
 Their humble friends to help them to be blest;
 To see their treasures, hear their glory told,
 And aid the wretched impotence of gold. [divine,

But some, great souls! and touch'd with warmth
 Give gold a price, and teach its beams to shine.
 All hoarded treasures they repute a load;
 Nor think their wealth their own, till well bestow'd.
 Grand reservoirs of public happiness,
 Thro' secret streams diffusively they bless;
 And, while their bounties glide conceal'd from view,
 Relieve our wants, and spare our blushes too.
 But satire's my task; and these destroy
 Her gloomy province, and malignant joy.
 Help me, ye misers! help me to complain,
 And blast our common enemy, G——n:
 But our invectives must despair success;
 For next to praise, she values nothing less.

What picture's yonder, loosen'd from its frame?
 Or is't Astoria? that affected dame.
 The brightest forms, thro' affectation, fade
 To strange new things, which nature never made.
 Frown not, ye fair! so much your sex we prize,
 We hate those arts that take you from our eyes.
 In Albucinda's native grace is seen
 What you, who labour at perfection, mean.

Short is the rule, and to be learnt with ease,
 Retain your gentle selves, and you must please.
 Here might I sing of Memmia's mincing mien,
 And all the movements of the soft machine:
 How two red lips affected zephyrs blow,
 To cool the bohea, and inflame the beau:
 While one white finger, and a thumb, conspire
 To lift the cup, and make the world admire.

Tea! how I tremble at thy fatal stream!
 As Lethe, dreadful to the love of fame.
 What devastations on thy banks are seen!
 What shades of mighty names which once have been:
 An hecatomb of characters supplies
 Thy painted altars daily sacrifice.
 H——, P——, B——, asperst by thee, decay,
 As grains of finest sugars melt away,
 And recommend thee more to mortal taste:
 Scandal's the sweetner of a female feast.

But this inhuman triumph shall decline,
 And thy revolting naiads call for wine;
 Spirits no longer shall serve under thee;
 But reign in thy own cup, exploded tea!
 Citronia's nose declares thy ruin nigh,
 And who dares give Citronia's nose the lie?

The ladies long at men of drink exclaim'd,
 And what impair'd both health and virtue, 'blam'd';
 At length, to rescue man, the generous lass
 Stole from her consort the pernicious glass.

*—— Solemi quis dicere falsum
 Audeat?

VIRG.

As glorious as the British queen renown'd,
Who suck'd the poison from her husband's wound;

Nor to the glass alone are nymphs inclin'd,
But every bolder vice of bold mankind.

O Juvenal! for thy severer rage!
To lash the ranker follies of our age.

Are there, among the females of our isle,
Such faults, at which it is a fault to smile?

There are. Vice, once by modest nature chain'd,
And legal ties, expatiates unrestrain'd;

Without thin decency held up to view,
Naked she stalks o'er law and gospel too.

Our matrons lead such exemplary lives,
Men sigh in vain for none, but for their wives;

Who marry to be free, to range the more,
And wed one man, to wanton with a score.

Abroad too kind, at home 'tis stedfast hate,
And one eternal tempest of debate.

What foul eruptions, from a look most meek!
What thunders bursting, from a dimpled cheek!

Their passions bear it with a lofty hand!
But then, their reason is at due command.

Is there whom you detest, and seek his life?
Trust no soul with the secret—but his wife.

Wives wonder that their conduct I condemn,
And ask, what kindred is a spouse to them?

What swarms of am'rous grandmothers I see?
And misses, antient in iniquity!

What blasting whispers, and what loud declaiming!
What lying, drinking, bawding, swearing, gaming!

Friendship so cold, such warm incontinence;
 Such griping av'rice, such profuse expence;
 Such dead devotion, such a zeal for crimes;
 Such licenc'd ill, such masquerading times;
 Such venal faith, such misapply'd applause;
 Such flatter'd guilt, and such inverted laws;
 Such dissolution through the whole I find,
 'Tis not a world, but chaos of mankind.

Since Sundays have no balls, the well-dress'd belle Shines in the pew, but smiles to hear of hell;
 And casts an eye of sweet disdain on all,
 Who listens less to C——ns, than St. Paul.
 Atheists have been but rare; since nature's birth,
 Till now, She-atheists ne'er appear'd on earth.
 Ye men of deep researches, say, whence springs
 This daring character, in timorous things?
 Who start at feathers, from an insect fly,
 A match for nothing—but the Deity.

But, not to wrong the fair, the muse must own
 In this pursuit they court not fame alone;
 But join to that a more substantial view,
 ' From thinking free, to be free agents too.' [down,

They strive with their own hearts, and keep them
 In complaisance to all the fools in town.
 O how they tremble at the name of prude!
 And die with shame at thought of being good!
 For what will Artimis, the rich and gay,
 What will the wits, that is, the coxcombs say?
 They heav'n defy, to earth's vile dregs a slave;
 Thro' cowardice, most execrably brave.

With our own judgments durst we to comply,
 In virtue should we live, in glory die.
 Rise then, my muse, in honest fury rise;
 They dread a satire, who defy the skies.

Atheists are few: most nymphs a Godhead own;
 And nothing but his attributes dethrone,
 From atheists far, they stedfastly believe
 God is, and is almighty—to forgive.
 His other excellence they'll not dispute;
 But mercy, sure, is his chief attribute.
 Shall pleasures of a short duration chain,
 A lady's soul in everlasting pain?
 Will the great Author us poor worms destroy,
 For now and then a sip of transient joy?
 No, he's for ever in a smiling mood;
 He's like themselves; or how could he be good?
 And they blaspheme, who blacker schemes suppose.
 Devoutly, thus, Jehovah they depose,
 The pure! the just! and set up, in his stead,
 A deity, that's perfectly well-bred.

‘ Dear T—l—n! besure the best of men;
 ‘ Nor thought he more, than thought great Origen.
 ‘ Though once upon a time he misbehav'd;
 ‘ Poor Satan! doubtless, he'll at length be sav'd.
 ‘ Let priests do something for their one in ten;
 ‘ It is their trade; so far they're honest men.
 ‘ Let them cant on, since they have got the knack,
 ‘ And dress their notions, like themselves, in black;
 ‘ Fright us with terrors of a world unknown,
 ‘ From joys of this, to keep them all their own.

Of earth's fair fruits, indeed they claim a fee;
But then they leave our unty'd virtue free:
Virtue's a pretty thing to make a show:

Did ever mortal write like Rochefocault?
Thus pleads the devil's fair apologist,
And, pleading, safely enters on his list.

Let angel-forms angelic truths maintain;
Nature disjoins the beauteous and prophane.

For what's true beauty, but fair virtue's face?

Virtue made visible in outward grace?

She, then, that's haunted with an impious mind,

The more she charms, the more she shocks mankind.

But charms decline: the fair long vigils keep:

They sleep no more! * Quadrille has murder'd sleep.

Poor K——p! cries Livia; I have not been there

These two nights; the poor creature will despair.

I hate a croud——but to do good, you know——

And people of condition should bestow:

Convinc'd, o'ercome, to K——p's grave matron's run;

Now set a daughter, and now stake a son;

Let health, fame, temper, beauty, fortune, fly;

And beggar half their race——thro' charity.

Immortal were we, or else mortal quite,

I less should blame this criminal delight:

But since the gay assembly's gayest room

Is but an upper story to some tomb,

Methinks, we need not our short beings shun,

And, thought to fly, contend to be undone.

* Shakespear.

We need not buy our ruin with our crime,
And give eternity to murder time.

The love of gaming is the worst of ills;
With ceaseless storms the blacken'd soul it fills;
Inveighs at heav'n, neglects the ties of blood;
Destroys the pow'r and will of doing good;
Kills health, pawns honour, plunges in disgrace,
And, what is still more dreadful——spoils your face.

See yonder set of thieves that live on spoil,
The scandal, and the ruin of our isle!
And see, (strange sight !) amid that ruffian band,
A form divine high wave her snowy hand;
That rattles loud a small enchanted box,
Which, loud as thunder, on the board she knocks.
And as fierce storms, which earth's foundation shook,
From Æolus's cave impetuous broke,
From this small cavern a mix'd tempest flies,
Fear, rage, convulsion, tears, oaths, blasphemies!
For men, I mean,——the fair discharges none;
She (guiltless creature!) swears to heav'n alone.

See her eyes start! cheeks glow! and muscles swell
Like the mad maid in the Cumean cell,
Thus that divine one her soft nights employs!
Thus tunes her soul to tender nuptial joys!
And when the cruel morning calls to bed,
And on her pillow lays her aking head,
With the dear images her dreams are crown'd,
The die spins lovely, or the cards go round;
Imaginary ruin charms her still;
Her happy lord is cuckold'd by spadil:

And if she's brought to bed, 'tis ten to one,
He marks the forehead of her darling son.

O scene of horror, and of wild despair,
Why is the rich Atrides' splendid heir,
Constrain'd to quit his ancient lordly seat,
And hide his glories in a mean retreat?
Why that drawn sword? And whence that dismal cry?
Why pale distraction thro' the family?

See my lord threaten, and my lady weep,
And trembling servants from the tempest creep.
Why that gay son to distant regions sent?
What fiends that daughter's destin'd match prevent?
Why the whole house in sudden ruin laid?
O nothing, but last night—my lady play'd.

But wanders not my satire from her theme?
Is this too owing to the love of fame?
Though now your hearts on lucre are bestow'd,
'Twas first a vain-devotion to the mode;
Nor cease we here, since 'tis a vice so strong;
The torrent sweeps all womankind along.
This may be said, in honour of our times,
That none now stand distinguish'd by their crimes.

If sin you must, take nature for your guide:
Love has some soft excuse to sooth your pride:
Ye fair apostates from love's antient pow'r!
Can nothing ravish, but a golden shower?
Can cards alone your glowing fancy seize;
Must Cupid learn to punt, ere he can please?
When you're enamour'd of a list or cast,
What can the preacher more, to make us chaste?

Why must strong youths unmarried pine away?
 They find no woman disengag'd—from play.
 Why pine the marry'd?—O severer fate!
 They find from play no disengag'd—estate.
 Flavia, at lovers false, untouch'd, and hard,
 Turns pale, and trembles at a cruel card.
 Nor Arria's Bible can secure her age;
 Her threescore years are shuffling with her page.
 While death stands by, but till the game is done,
 To sweep that stake, in justice, long his own;
 Like old cards ting'd with sulphur, she takes fire;
 Or, like snuffs sunk in sockets, blazes higher.
 Ye gods! with new delights inspire the fair;
 Or give us sons, and save us from despair.

Sons, brothers, fathers, husbands, tradesmen, close
 In my complaint, and brand your sins in prose:
 Yet I believe, as firmly as my creed,
 In spite of all our wisdom, you'll proceed:
 Our pride so great, our passion is so strong,
 Advice to right confirms us in the wrong.
 I hear you cry, 'This fellow's very odd.'
 When you chastise, who would not kiss the rod?
 But I've a charm your anger shall controul,
 And turn your eyes with coldness on the vole.

The charm begins! To yonder flood of light,
 That bursts o'er gloomy Britain, turn your sight.
 What guardian pow'r o'erwhelms your souls with awe?
 Her deeds are precepts, her example law;
 'Midst empire's charms, how Carolina's heart
 Glows with the love of virtue, and of art?

Her favour is diffus'd to that degree,
 Excess of goodness! it has dawn'd on me:
 When in my page, to balance numerous faults,
 Or godlike deeds were shown, or gen'rous thoughts,
 She smil'd, industrious to be pleas'd, nor knew
 From whom my pen the borrow'd lustre drew.

* Thus the majestic mother of mankind,
 To her own charms most amiably blind,
 On the green margin innocently stood,
 And gaz'd indulgent on the ehrystal flood;
 Survey'd the stranger in the painted wave,
 And, smiling, prais'd the beauties which she gave;

* Milton.

SATIRE VII.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE

SIR ROBERT WALPOLE.

Carmina tum melius, cum venerit ipse, canemus.

VIRG.

ON this last labour, this my closing strain,
 Smile, Walpole, or the nine inspire in vain:
 To thee 'tis due; that verse how justly thine,
 Where Brunswick's glory crowns the whole design?
 That glory, which thy counsels make so bright;
 That glory, which on thee reflects a light.
 Illustrious commerce, and but rarely known!
 To give, and take, a lustre from the throne.

Nor think that thou art foreign to my theme;
 The fountain is not foreign to the stream.
 How all mankind will be surpriz'd, to see
 This flood of British folly charg'd on thee!
 Say, Britain! whence this caprice of thy sons,
 'Which thro' their various ranks with fury runs?

The cause is plain, a cause which we must bless;
 For caprice is the daughter of success,
 (A bad effect, but from a pleasing cause !)
 And gives our rulers undesign'd applause;
 Tells how their conduct bids our wealth increase,
 And lulls us in the downy lap of peace.

While I survey the blessings of our isle,
 Her arts triumphant in the royal smile,
 Her public wounds bound up, her credit high,
 Her commerce spreading sails in every sky,
 The pleasing scene recalls my theme again,
 And shews the madness of ambitious men,
 Who, fond of bloodshed, draw the murd'ring sword,
 And burn to give mankind a single lord.

The follies past are of a private kind;
 Their sphere is small; their mischief is confin'd:
 But daring men there are (Awake, my muse,
 And raise thy verse !) who bolder frenzy chuse;
 Who stung by glory, rave, and bound away;
 The world their field, and humankind their prey.

The Grecian chief, th' enthusiast of his pride,
 With rage and terror stalking by his side,
 Raves round the globe; he soars into a god!
 Stand fast, Olympus! and sustain his nod.
 The pest divine in horrid grandeur reigns,
 And thrives on mankind's miseries and pains.
 What slaughter'd hosts! what cities in a blaze!
 What wasted countries! and what crimson seas!
 With orphans tears his impious bowl o'erflows,
 And cries of kingdoms lull him to repose.

And cannot thrice ten hundred years unpraise
 The boist'rous boy, and blast his guilty bays?
 Why want we then encomiums on the storm,
 Or famine, or volcano? They perform
 Their mighty deeds; they, hero-like, can slay,
 And spread their ample desarts in a day.

O great alliance! O divine renown!
 With dearth, and pestilence, to share the crown.
 When men extol a wild destroyer's name,
 Earth's Builder and Preserver they blaspheme.

One to destroy, is murder by the law;
 And gibbets keep the lifted hand in awe;
 To murder thousands, takes a specious name,
 War's glorious art, and gives immortal fame.

When, after battle, I the field have seen
 Spread o'er with ghastly shapes, which once were men;
 A nation crush'd, a nation of the brave!
 A realm of death! and on this side the grave!
 Are there, said I, who from this sad survey,
 This human chaos, carry smiles away?
 How did my heart with indignation rise!
 How honest nature swell'd into my eyes!
 How was I shock'd to think the hero's trade
 Of such materials, fame and triumph made!

How guilty these? Yet not less guilty they,
 Who reach false glory by a smoother way:
 Who wrap destruction up in gentle words,
 And bows, and smiles, more fatal than their swords;
 Who stifle nature, and subsist on art;
 Who coin the face, and petrify the heart;

All real kindness for the shew discard,
 As marble polish'd, and as marble hard;
 Who do for gold what Christians do thro' grace,
 * With open arms their enemies embrace;
 Who give a nod when broken hearts repine;
 * The thinnest food on which a wretch can dine:
 Or, if they serve you, serve you disinclin'd,
 And, in their height of kindness, are unkind.
 Such courtiers were, and such again may be,
 Walpole, when men forget to copy thee.

Here cease my muse! the catalogue is writ;
 Nor one more candidate for fame admit,
 Tho' disappointed thousands justly blame
 Thy partial pen, and boast an equal claim:
 Be this their comfort, fools, omitted here,
 May furnish laughter for another year.
 Then let Crispino, who was ne'er refus'd
 The justice yet of being well abus'd,
 With patience wait; and be content to reign
 The pink of puppies in some future strain.

Some future strain, in which the muse shall tell
 How science dwindles, and how volumes swell.

How commentators each dark passage shun,
 And hold their farthing candle to the sun.

How tortur'd texts to speak our sense are made,
 And every vice is to the Scripture laid.

How misers squeeze a young voluptuous peer;
 His sins to Lucifer not half so dear.

How Verres is less qualify'd to steal
 With sword and pistol, than with wax and seal.

How lawyers' fees to such excess are run,
That clients are redress'd till they're undone.

How one man's anguish is another's sport;
And ev'n denials cost us dear at court.

How man eternally false judgments makes,
And all his joys and sorrows are mistakes.

This swarm of themes that settles on my pen,
Which I, like summer flies, shake off again,
Let others sing; to whom my weak essay
But sounds a prelude, and points out their prey:
That duty done, I hasten to complete
My own design; for Tonsen's at the gate.

The love of fame in its effect survey'd,
The muse has sung; be now the cause display'd:
Since so diffusive, and so wide its sway,
What is this power, whom all mankind obey?

Shot from above, by heav'n's indulgence, came
This generous ardor, this unconquer'd flame,
To warm, to raise, to deify, mankind,
Still burning brightest in the noblest mind.
By large-soul'd men, for thirst of fame renown'd,
Wise laws were fram'd, and sacred arts were found;
Desire of praise first broke the patriot's rest;
And made a bulwark of the warrior's breast;
It bids Argyle in fields and senates shine.

What more can prove its origin divine?

But, oh! this passion planted in the soul,
On eagle's wings to mount her to the pole,
The flaming minister of virtue meant,
Set up false gods, and wrong'd her high descent.

Ambition, hence, exerts a doubtful force;
 Of blots, and beauties, an alternate source;
 Hence Gildon rails, that raven of the pit,
 Who thrives upon the carcasses of wit;
 And in art-loving Scarborough is seen
 How kind a patron Pollio might have been.
 Pursuit of fame with pedants fills our schools,
 And into coxcombs burnishes our fools;
 Pursuit of fame makes solid learning bright,
 And Newton lifts above a mortal height;
 That key of nature, by whose wit she clears
 Her long, long secrets of five thousand years.

Would you then fully comprehend the whole,
 Why, and in what degrees, pride sways the soul?
 (For tho' in all, not equally, she reigns)
 Awake to knowledge, and attend my strains.

Ye doctors! hear the doctrine I disclose,
 As true, as if 'twere writ in dullest prose;
 As if a letter'd dunce had said, 'Tis right,
 And imprimatur usher'd it to light.

Ambition, in the truly noble mind,
 With sister-virtue is for ever join'd;
 As in fam'd Lucrece, who, with equal dread,
 From guilt, and shame, by her last conduct, fled:
 Her virtue long rebell'd in firm disdain,
 And the sword pointed at her heart in vain;
 But, when the slave was threaten'd to be laid
 Dead by her side, her love of fame obey'd.

In meaner minds ambition works alone;
 But with such art, puts virtue's aspect on,

That not more like in feature and in mien,

* The god and mortal in the comic scene.

False Julius, ambush'd in this fair disguise,

Soon made the Roman liberties his prize.

No mask in basest minds ambition wears,

But in full light pricks up her ass's ears :

All I have sung are instances of this,

And prove my theme unfolded not amiss.

Ye vain ! desist from your erroneous strife ;

Be wise, and quit the false sublime of life.

The true ambition there alone resides,

Where justice vindicates, and wisdom guides ;

Where inward dignity joins outward state ;

Our purpose good, as our atchievement great ;

Where public blessings public praise attend ;

Where glory is our motive, not our end.

Wouldst thou be fam'd ? have those high deeds in view

Brave men would act, though scandal should ensue.

Behold a prince ! whom no sworn thoughts inflame ;

No pride of thrones, no fever after fame,

But when the welfare of mankind inspires,

And death in view to dear-bought glory fires,

Proud conquests then, then regal pomps delight ;

Then crowns, then triumphs, sparkle in his sight ;

Tumult and noise are dear, which with them bring

His people's blessings to their ardent king :

But, when those great heroic motives cease,

His swelling soul subsides to native peace ;

* AMPHITRYON.

From tedious grandeur's faded charms withdraws,
A sudden foe to splendor and applause;
Greatly deferring his arrears of fame,
Till men and angels jointly shout his name.
O pride celestial! which can pride disdain;
O blest ambition! which can ne'er be vain.

From one fam'd Alpine hill, which props the sky,
In whose deep womb unfathom'd waters lie,
Here burst the Rhone and sounding Po; there shine,
In infant rills, the Danube and the Rhine;
From the rich store one fruitful urn supplies,
Whole kingdoms smile, a thousand harvests rise.

In Brunswick such a source the muse adores,
Which public blessings thro' half Europe pours.
When his heart burns with such a god-like aim,
Angels and George are rivals for the fame;
George, who in foes can soft affections raise,
And charm envenom'd satire into praise.

* Nor human rage alone his pow'r perceives,
But the mad winds, and the tumultuous waves.
Ev'n storms (death's fiercest ministers!) forbear,
And, in their own wild empire, learn to spare.
Thus, nature's self, supporting man's decree,
Stiles Britain's sovereign, sovereign of the sea.

While sea and air, great Brunswick! shook our state,
And sported with a king's and kingdom's fate,
Depriv'd of what she lov'd, and press'd with fear,
Of ever losing what she held most dear,

* The king in danger by sea.

How did Britannia, like * Achilles, weep,
 And tell her sorrows to the kindred deep?
 Hang o'er the floods, and, in devotion warm,
 Strive, for thee, with the furge, and fight the storm?

What felt thy Walpole, pilot of the realm?

Our Palinurus † slept not at the helm;
 His eye ne'er clos'd; long since enur'd to wake,
 And out-watch every star for Brunswick's sake:
 By thwarting passions toss'd, by cares oppress'd,
 He found the tempest pictur'd in his breast:
 But, now, what joys that gloom of heart dispel,
 No pow'rs of language--- but his own, can tell;
 His own, which nature and the graces form,
 At will, to raise, or hush, the civil storm.

O D E S,

OCCASIONED BY

HIS MAJESTY'S

ROYAL ENCOURAGEMENT

OF THE

SEA SERVICE.

†

I THINK myself obliged to recommend to you a consideration of the greatest importance; and I should look upon it as a great happiness, if, at the beginning of my reign, I could see the foundation laid of so great and necessary a work, as the encrease and encouragement of our seamen in general; that they may be invited, rather than compelled by force and violence, to enter into the service of their country, as oft as occasion shall require it: a consideration worthy the representatives of a people great and flourishing in trade and navigation. This leads me to mention to you the case of Greenwich Hospital, that care may be taken, by some addition to that fund, to render comfortable and effectual that charitable provision, for the support and maintenance of our seamen, worn out, and become decrepit by age and infirmities, in the service of their country. [SPEECH, Jan. 27, 1727-8.]

TO THE K I N G.

M.DCC.XXVIII.

I.

OLD Ocean's praise
Demands my lays;
A truly British theme I sing;
A theme so great,
I dare complete,
And join with Ocean, Ocean's king.

II.

The Roman ode
Majestic flow'd;
Its stream divinely clear, and strong;
In sense, and sound,
Thebes roll'd profound;
The torrent roar'd, and foam'd along.

III.

Let Thebes, nor Rome,
So fam'd, presume
To triumph o'er a northern isle;
Late time shall know
The north can glow,
If dread Augustus deign to smile.

IV.

The naval crown
Is all his own!
Our fleet, if war, or commerce, call,
His will performs
Through waves and storms,
And rides in triumph round the ball.

V.

No former race,
With strong embrace,
This theme to ravish durst aspire;
With virgin charms
My soul it warms,
And melts melodious on my lyre.

VI.

My lays I file,
With cautious toil;
Ye graces! turn the glowing lines;
On anvils neat
Your strokes repeat;
At every stroke the work refines!

VII.

How music charms?
How metre warms?
Parent of actions, good and brave?
How vice it tames?
And worth inflames?
And holds proud empire o'er the grave?

VIII.

Jove mark'd for man a scanty span,
 A scanty span,
 But lent him wings to fly his doom;
 Wit scorns the grave;
 To wit he gave
 The life of gods! immortal bloom!

IX.

Since years will fly,
 And pleasures die,
 Day after day, as years advance;
 Since, while life lasts,
 Joy suffers blasts
 From frowning fate, and fickle chance;

X.

Nor life is long;
 But soon we throng,
 Like autumn leaves, death's pallid shore;
 We make, at least,
 Of bad the best,
 If in life's fantom, fame, we soar.

XI.

Our strains divide
 The laurel's pride;
 With those we lift to life, to live;
 By fame enroll'd
 With heroes bold,
 And share the blessings which we give.

XII.

What hero's praise
Can fire my lays,
Like his, with whom my lay begun?
• Justice sincere,
• And courage clear,
• Rise the two columns of his throne.

XIII.

• How form'd for sway?
• Who look, obey;
• They read the monarch in his port:
• Their love and awe,
• Supply the law;
• And his own lustre makes the court:

XIV.

On yonder height,
What golden light
Triumphant shines? and shines alone
Unrivall'd blaze!
The nations gaze!
Tis not the sun; 'tis Britain's throne.

XV.

Our monarch, there,
Rear'd high in air,
Should tempests rise, disdains to bend;
Like British oak,
Derides the stroke;
His blooming honours far extend!

XVI.

Beneath them lies,
With lifted eyes,
Fair Albion, like an amorous maid;
While interest wings
Bold foreign kings
To fly, like eagles, to his shade.

XVII.

At his proud foot
The sea, pour'd out,
Immortal nourishment supplies;
Thence wealth and state,
And power and fate,
Which Europe reads in George's eyes.

XVIII.

From what we view,
We take the clue,
Which leads from great to greater things:
Men doubt no more,
But gods adore,
When such resemblance shines in kings.

1992

To fly, like eagles, to his throne,
Bold foreign kings, whose power
While I myself winged with
Kiss Alston, like a storm, will
With lifted eyes, and a will
Beneath their flag, to lead

1175

Which Europe reads in George's strain
And power and fate, and all that's Thence wealth and luxury
Immortal necessities supply;
The last pour'd out, and all that's
At his prophetic feet

4172

When such resemblance there is king, we all
But gods above, and ministers of Men doubt no more, but certain are
Which leads from great to greater things;
We take the clouds, and riding them
From what we view, we learn to fly.

M R. P O P E.

WHILST you at Twick'nam plan the future wood,
Or turn the volumes of the wise and good,
Our senate meets; at parties, parties bawl,
And pamphlets stun the streets, and load the stall:
So rushing tides bring things obscene to light,
Foul wrecks emerge, and dead dogs swim in sight;
The civil torrent foams, the tumult reigns,
And Codrus' prose works up, and Lico's strains.
Lo! what from cellars rise, what rush from high,
Where speculation roosted near the sky;
Letters, essays, sock, buskin, satire, song,
And all the garret thunders on the throng!

O Pope! I burst; nor can, nor will, refrain;
I'll write; let others, in their turn, complain:
Truce, truce, ye Vandals! my tormented ear
Lest dreads a pillory than pamphleteer;
I've heard myself to death; and, plagu'd each hour,
Shan't I return the vengeance in my pow'r?
For who can write the true absurd like me?—
Thy pardon, Codrus! who, I mean, but thee?

EPISTLE I.

Like mine, or Codrus', were thy style,
 Had of vipers had not stain'd thy file;
 Less solid, less despite had bred;
 They had not bit, and then they had not bled.
 Fame is a public mistress, none enjoys,
 But, more or less, his rival's peace destroys;
 With fame, in just proportion, envy grows;
 The man that makes a character, makes foes:
 Slight, peevish insects round a genius rise,
 As a bright day awakes the world of flies;
 With hearty malice, but with feeble wing,
 (To shew they live) they flutter, and they sting:
 But as by depredations wasps proclaim
 The fairest fruit, so these the fairest fame.

Shall we not censure all the motly train,
 Whether with ale irriguous, or champaign?
 Whether they tread the vale of prose, or climb,
 And what their appetites on cliffs of rhyme;
 The college sloven, or embroider'd spark;
 The purple prelate, or the parish clerk;
 The quiet quidnunc, or demanding prig;
 The plaintiff tory, or defendant whig;
 Rich, poor, male, female, young, old, gay, or sad;
 Whether extremely witty, or quite mad;
 Profoundly dull, or shallowly polite;
 Men that read well, or men that only write;
 Whether peers, porters, taylors, tune the reeds,
 And measuring words to measuring shapes succeeds;
 For bankrupts write, when ruin'd shops are shut,
 As maggots crawl from out a perish'd nut.

His hammer this, and that his trowel quits;
 And, wanting sense for tradesmen, serve for wits;
 By thriving men subsists each other trade;
 Of every broken craft a writer's made:
 Thus his material, paper, takes its birth
 From tatter'd rags of all the stuff on earth.

Hail, fruitful isle! to thee alone belong
 Millions of wits, and brokers in old song;
 Thee well a land of liberty we name,
 Where all are free to scandal and to shame;
 Thy sons, by print, may set their hearts at ease,
 And be mankind's contempt, whene'er they please;
 Like trodden silk, their vile and abject sense
 Is unperceiv'd, but when it gives offence:
 This heavy prose our injur'd reason tires;
 Their verse immoral kindles loose desires:
 Our age they puzzle, and corrupt our prime,
 Our sport and pity, punishment and crime.

What glorious motives urge our authors on,
 Thus to undo, and thus to be undone?
 One loses his estate, and down he sits,
 To shew (in vain!) he still retains his wits:
 Another marries, and his dear proves keen;
 He writes as an hypnotic for the spleen:
 Some write, confin'd by physic; some, by debt;
 Some, for 'tis Sunday; some, because 'tis wet;
 Through private pique some do the public right,
 And love their king and country out of spite:
 Another writes because his father writ,
 And proves himself a bastard by his wit.

Has Lico learning, humour, thought profound?
 Neither: why write then? he wants twenty pound:
 His belly, not his brains, this impulse give;
 He'll grow immortal; for he cannot live:
 He rubs his awful front, and takes his ream,
 With no provision made, but of his theme;
 Perhaps a title has his fancy smit,
 Or a quaint motto, which he thinks has wit:
 He writes, in inspiration puts his trust,
 Tho' wrong his thoughts, the gods will make them just;
 Genius directly from the gods descends,
 And who by labour would distrust his friends?
 Thus having reason'd with consummate skill,
 In immortality he dips his quill;
 And, since blank paper is deny'd the press,
 He mingles the whole alphabet by guess:
 In various sets, which various words compose,
 Of which, he hopes, mankind the meaning knows.

So sounds spontaneous from the Sibyl broke,
 Dark to herself the wonders which she spoke;
 The priests found out the meaning, if they cou'd;
 And nations star'd at what none understood.

Clodio dress'd, danc'd, drank, visited; (the whole
 And great concern of an immortal soul!)
 Oft have I said, 'Awake! exist! and strive
 ' For birth! nor think to loiter is to live!'
 As oft I overheard the daemon say,
 Who daily met the loit'rer in his way,
 ' I'll meet thee, youth, at White's: ' the youth replies
 ' I'll meet thee there, ' and falls his sacrifice;

His fortune squander'd, leaves his virtue bare
 To ev'ry bribe, and blind to ev'ry snare :
 Clodio for bread his indolence must quit,
 Or turn a soldier, or commence a wit.
 Such heroes have we ! all, but life, they stake ;
 How must Spain tremble, and the German shake ?
 Such writers have we ! all, but sense, they print ;
 Ev'n George's praise is dated from the mint.
 In arms contemptible, in arts prophane,
 Such swords, such pens, disgrace a monarch's reign.
 Reform your lives before you thus aspire,
 And steal (for you can steal) celestial fire.

O ! the just contrast ! O the beauteous strife !
 'Twixt their cool writings, and pindaric life :
 They write with phlegm, but then they live with fire ;
 They cheat the lender, and their works the buyer.

I reverence misfortune, not deride ;
 I pity poverty, but laugh at pride :
 For who so sad, but must some mirth confess
 At gay Castruchio's miscellaneous dress ?
 Though there's but one of the dull works he wrote,
 There's ten editions of his old lac'd coat.

These, nature's commoners, who want a home,
 Claim the wide world for their majestic dome ;
 They make a private study of the street ;
 And looking full on every man they meet,
 Run fouse against his chaps ; who stands amaz'd
 To find they did not see, but only gaz'd.
 How must these bards be rapt into the skies ?
 You need not read, you feel their ecstasies.

Will they persist? 'tis madness; Lintot, run,
 See them confin'd——' O that's already done.'
 Most, as by leaves, by the works they print,
 Have took, for life, possession of the mint.
 If you mistake, and pity these poor men,
Eft Ulabris, they cry, and write again.

Such wits their nuisance manfully expose,
 And then pronounce just judges learning's foes;
 O frail conclusion; the reverse is true;
 If foes to learning, they'd be friends to you:
 Treat them, ye judges! with an honest scorn,
 And weed the cockle from the generous corn:
 There's true good-nature in your disrespect;
 In justice to the good, the bad neglect:
 For immortality, if hardships plead,
 It is not theirs who write, but ours who read.

But, O! what wisdom can convince a fool,
 But that 'tis dulness to conceive him dull?
 'Tis sad experience takes the censor's part,
 Conviction, not from reason, but from smart.

A virgin-author, recent from the press,
 The sheets yet wet, applauds his great success;
 Surveys them, reads them, takes their charms to bed,
 Those in his hand, and glory in his head;
 'Tis joy too great; a fever of delight!
 His heart beats thick, nor close his eyes all night:
 But rising the next morn to clasp his fame,
 He finds that without sleeping he could dream:
 So sparks, they say, take goddesses to bed,
 And find next day the devil in their stead.

In vain advertisements the town o'erspread;
 They're epitaphs, and say the work is dead.
 Who press for fame, but small recruits will raise;
 'Tis volunteers alone can give the bays.

A famous author visits a great man,
 Of his immortal work displays the plan,
 And says, ' Sir, I'm your friend ; all fear dismiss ;
 ' Your glory, and my own, shall live by this ;
 ' Your pow'r is fixt, your fame thro' time convey'd,
 ' And Britain Europe's queen—if I am paid.'

A statesman has his answer in a trice ;
 ' Sir, such a genius is beyond all price ;
 ' What man can pay for this ?'—away he turns ;

His work is folded, and his bosom burns :

His patron he will patronize no more ;

But rushes like a tempest out of door.

Lost is the patriot, and extinct his name !

Out comes the piece, another, and the same ;

For A, his magic pen evokes an O,

And turns the tide of Europe on the foe :

He rams his quill with scandal, and with scoff ;

But 'tis so very foul, it won't go off :

Dreadful his thunders, while unprinted, roar ;

But when once publish'd, they are heard no more.

Thus distant bogbears fright, but, nearer draw,

The block's a block, and turns to mirth your awe.

Can those oblige, whose heads and hearts are such ?

No ; every party's tainted by their touch.

Infected persons fly each public place ;

And none, or enemies alone, embrace :

To the foul fiend their every passion's sold:
 They love, and hate, extempore, for gold:
 What image of their fury can we form?
 Dulness and rage, a puddle in a storm.
 Rest they in peace? if you are pleas'd to buy.
 To swell your sails, like Lapland winds, they fly:
 Write they with rage? the tempest quickly flags;
 A state-Ulysses tames 'em with his bags;
 Let him be what he will, Turk, Pagan, Jew:
 For Christian ministers of state are few.

Behind the curtain lurks the fountain head,
 That pours his politics through pipes of lead,
 Which far and near ejaculate, and spout
 O'er tea and coffee, poison to the rout:
 But when they have bespatter'd all they may,
 The statesman throws his filthy squirts away!

With golden forceps, these, another takes,
 And state elixirs of the vipers makes.

The richest statesman wants wherewith to pay,
 A servile sycophant, if well they weigh
 How much it costs the wretch to be so base;
 Nor can the greatest pow'rs enough disgrace,
 Enough chastise, such prostitute applause,
 If well they weigh how much it stains their cause.

But are our writers ever in the wrong?
 Does virtue ne'er seduce the venal tongue?
 Yes; if well-brib'd, for virtue-self they fight;
 Still in the wrong, tho' champions for the right:
 Whoe'er their crimes for interest-only quit,
 Sin on in virtue, and good deeds commit.

Nought but inconstancy Britannia meets,
And broken faith in their abandon'd sheets;
From the same hand how various is the page?
What civil war their brother pamphlets wage;
Tracts battle tracts, self-contradictions glare;
Say, is this lunacy?—I wish it were.
If such our writers, startled at the sight,
Felons may bless their stars they cannot write!

How justly Proteus' transmigrations fit
The monstrous changes of a modern wit?
Now, such a gentle stream of eloquence
As seldom rises to the verge of sense;
Now, by mad rage, transform'd into a flame,
Which yet fit engines, well apply'd, can tame;
Now, on immodest trash, the swine-obscene,
Invites the town to sup at Drury-lane;
A dreadful lion, now he roars at pow'r,
Which sends him to his brothers at the Tow'r;
He's now a serpent, and his double tongue,
Salutes, nay licks, the feet of those he stung;
What knot can bind him, his evasion such?
One knot he well deserves, which might do much.

The flood, flame, swine, the lion, and the snake,
Those five-fold monsters, modern authors make:
The snake reigns most; snakes, Pliny says, are bred,
When the brain's perish'd in a human head.
Ye grov'ling, trodden, whipt, stript, turncoat, things
Made up of venom, volumes, stains, and stings!
Thrown from the tree of knowlege, like you, curst
To scribble in the dust, was snake the first.

What if the figure should in fact prove true?
 It did in Elkenah, why not in you?
 Poor Elkenah, all other changes past,
 For bread in Smithfield dragons hift at last,
 Spit streams of fire to make the butchers gape,
 And found his manners suited to his shape:
 Such is the fate of talents misapply'd;
 So liv'd your prototype; and so he dy'd.

Th' abandon'd manners of our writing train
 May tempt mankind to think religion vain;
 But in their fate, their habit, and their mien,
 That gods there are is eminently seen:
 Heav'n stands absolv'd by vengeance on their pen,
 And marks the murderers of fame from men:
 Through meagre jaws they draw their venal breath,
 As ghastly as their brothers in Macbeth:
 Their feet through faithless leather meet the dirt,
 And oftener chang'd their principles than shirt.
 The transient vestment of these frugal men,
 Hasten to paper for our mirth agen:
 Too soon (O merry-melancholy fate!)
 They beg in rhyme, and warble through a grate:
 The man lampoon'd forgets it at the sight;
 The friend through pity gives, the foe through spite;
 And though full conscious of his injur'd purse,
 Lintot relents, nor Curll can wish them worse.
 So fare the men, who writers dare commence
 Without their patent, probity, and sense.

From these, their politics our quidnuncs seek;
 And Saturday's the learning of the week:

These labouring wits, like paviours, mend our ways,
With heavy, huge, repeated, flat, essays;
Ram their coarse nonsense down, though ne'er so dull;
And hem at every thump upon your skull:
These staunch-bred writing hounds begin the cry,
And honest folly echoes to the lye.
O how I laugh, when I a blockhead see,
Thanking a villain for his probity.
Who stretches out a most respectful ear,
With snares for woodcocks in his holy leer:
It tickles through my soul to hear the cock's
Sincere encomium on his friend the fox,
Sole patron of his liberties and rights!
While graceless Reynard listens——till he bites.

As when the trumpet sounds, th' o'erloaded state
Discharges all her poor and profligate;
Crimes of all kinds dishonour'd weapons wield;
And prisons pour their filth into the field;
Thus nature's refuse, and the dregs of men,
Compose the black militia of the pen.

ALL write at London; shall the rage abate
 Here, where it most should shine, the muses seat?
 Where, mortal or immortal, as they please,
 The learn'd may chuse eternity, or ease?
 Has not a * Royal Patron wisely strove
 To woo the muse in her Athenian grove?
 Added new strings to her harmonious shell,
 And giv'n new tongues to those who spoke so well?
 Let these instruct, with truth's illustrious ray,
 Awake the world, and scare our owls away.

Mean while, O friend! indulge me, if I give
 Some needful precepts how to write, and live;
 Serious should be an author's final views;
 Who write for pure amusement, ne'er amuse.

An author! 'tis a venerable name!
 How few deserve it, and what numbers claim?
 Unblest with sense above their peers refin'd,
 Who shall stand up, dictators to mankind?

Nay, who dare shine, if not in virtue's cause?

That sole proprietor of just applause.

Ye restless men, who pant for letter'd praise,

With whom would you consult to gain the bays?—

With those great authors whose fam'd works you read?

'Tis well, go, then, consult the laurell'd shade.

What answer will the laurell'd shade return?

Hear it, and tremble! he commands you burn

The noblest works his envy'd genius writ,

That boast of nought more excellent than wit.

If this be true, as 'tis a truth most dread,

Woe to the page which has not that to plead!

Fontaine and Chaucer, dying, with'd unwrote

The sprightliest efforts of their wanton thought:

Sidney and Waller, brightest sons of fame,

Condemn the charm of ages to the flame:

And in one point is all true wisdom cast,

To think that early we must think at last.

Immortal wits, ev'n dead, break nature's laws,

Injurious still to virtue's sacred cause;

And their guilt growing, as their bodies rot,

(Revers'd ambition!) pant to be forgot.

Thus ends your courted fame: does lucre then,

The sacred thirst of gold, betray your pen?

In prose 'tis blameable, in verse 'tis worse,

Provokes the muse, extorts Apollo's curse;

His sacred influence never should be sold;

'Tis arrant Simony to sing for gold:

'Tis immortality should fire your mind;

Scorn a less paymaster than all mankind.

If bribes you seek, know this, ye writing tribe!
 Who writes for virtue has the largest bribe:
 All's on the party of the virtuous man;
 The good will surely serve him, if they can;
 The bad, when interest, or ambition guide,
 And 'tis at once their interest and their pride:
 But should both fail to take him to their care,
 He boasts a greater friend, and both may spare.

Letters to man uncommon light dispense;
 And what is virtue, but superior sense?
 In parts and learning you who place your pride,
 Your faults are crimes, your crimes are double-dy'd.
 What is a scandal of the first renown,
 But letter'd knaves, and atheists in a gown?

'Tis harder far to please than give offence;
 The least misconduct damns the brightest sense;
 Each shallow pate that cannot read your name,
 Can read your life, and will be proud to blame,
 Flagitious manners make impressions deep
 On those, that o'er a page of Milton sleep:
 Nor in their dulness think to save your shame,
 True, these are fools; but wise men say the same.

Wits are a despicable race of men,
 If they confine their talents to the pen;
 While the man shocks us, while the writer shines,
 Our scorn in life, our envy in his lines.
 Yet, proud of parts, with prudence some dispense,
 And play the fool, because they're men of sense.
 What instances bleed recent in each thought,
 Of men to ruin by their genius brought?

Against their wills what numbers ruin thun,
Purely through want of wit to be undone?
Nature has shewn, by making it so rare,
That wit's a jewel which we need not wear.
Of plain sound sense life's current coin is made;
With that we drive the most substantial trade.

Prudence protects and guides us; wit betrays;
A splendid source of ill ten thousand ways;
A certain snare to miseries immense;
A gay prerogative from common sense;
Unless strong judgment that wild thing can tame,
And break to paths of virtue and of fame.

But grant your judgment equal to the best,
Sense fills your head, and genius fires your breast;
Yet still forbear: your wit (consider well)
'Tis great to shew, but greater to conceal;
As it is great to seize the golden prize
Of place or power; but greater to despise.

If still you languish for an author's name,
Think private merit less than public fame,
And fancy not to write is not to live;
Deserve, and take, the great prerogative.
But ponder what it is; how dear 'twill cost,
To write one page which you may justly boast.

Sense may be good, yet not deserve the press;
Who write, an awful character profess;
The world as pupil of their wisdom claim,
And for their stipend an immortal fame:
Nothing but what is solid or refin'd,
Should dare ask public audience of mankind.

Severely weigh your learning and your wit:
 Keep down your pride by what is nobly writ:
 No writer, fam'd in your own way, pass o'er;
 Much trust example, but reflexion more;
 More had the ancients writ, they more had taught;
 Which shews some work is left for modern thought.

This weigh'd, perfection know; and, known, adore;
 Toil, burn for that; but do not aim at more;
 Above, beneath it, the just limits fix;
 And zealously prefer four lines to six.

Write, and re-write, blot out, and write again;
 And for its swiftness ne'er applaud your pen.
 Leave to the jockeys that Newmarket praise,
 Slow runs the Pegasus that wins the bays.
 Much time for immortality to pay,
 Is just and wise; for less is thrown away.
 Time only can mature the labouring brain;
 Time is the father, and the midwife pain:
 The same good sense that makes a man excel,
 Still makes him doubt he ne'er has written well.
 Downright impossibilities they seek;
 What man can be immortal in a week?

Excuse no fault; though beautiful, 'twill harm;
 One fault shocks more than twenty beauties charm.
 Our age demands correctness; Addison says
 And you this commendable hurt have done.
 Now writers find, as once Achilles found,
 The whole is mortal, if a part's unsound.

He that strikes out, and strikes not out the best,
 Pours lustre in, and dignifies the rest;

Give e'er so little, if what's right be there,
We praise for what you burn, and what you spare :
The part you burn, smells sweet before the shrine,
And is as incense to the part-divine.

Nor frequent write, though you can do it well;
Men may too oft, though not too much, excel.
A few good works gain fame; more sink their price;
Mankind are fickle, and hate paying twice:
They granted you writ well, what can they more,
Unless you let them praise for giving o'er?

Do boldly what you do, and let your page
Smile, if it smiles, and if it rages, rage.
So faintly Lucius censures, and commends,
That Lucius has no foes, except his friends.

Let satire less engage you than applause;
It shews a gen'rous mind to wink at flaws:
Is genius yours? be yours a glorious end,
Be your king's, country's, truth's, religion's friend;
The public glory by your own beget;
Run nations, run posterity, in debt.
And since the fam'd alone make others live,
First have that glory you presume to give.

If satire charms, strike faults, but spare the man;
'Tis dull to be as witty as you can.
Satire recoils whenever charg'd too high;
Round your own fame the fatal splinters fly.
As the soft plume gives swiftness to the dart,
Good-breeding sends the satire to the heart.

Painters and surgeons may the structure scan;
Genius and morals be with you the man:

Defaults in those alone should give offence?
 Who strikes the person, pleads his innocence:
 My narrow-minded satire can't extend
 To Codrus' form; I'm not so much his friend:
 Himself should publish that (the world agree)
 Before his works, or in the pillory.
 Let him be black, fair, tall, short, thin, or fat;
 Dirty or clean, I find no theme in that.
 Is that call'd humour? It has this pretence,
 'Tis neither virtue, breeding, wit, or sense.
 Unless you boast the genius of a Swift,
 Beware of humour, the dull rogue's last shift.

Can others write like you? Your task give o'er,
 'I is printing what was publish'd long before.
 If nought peculiar through your labours run,
 They're duplicates, and twenty are but one.
 Think frequently, think close, read nature, turn
 Men's manners o'er, and half your volumes burn;
 To nurse with quick reflexion be your strife;
 Thoughts born from present objects, warm from life:
 When most unsought, such inspirations rise,
 Slighted by fools, and cherish'd by the wise:
 Expect peculiar fame from these alone;
 These make an author, these are all your own.

Life, like their Bibles, coolly men turn o'er;
 Hence unexperienc'd children of threescore.
 True, all men think of course, as all men dream;
 And if they slightly think, 'tis much the same.

Letters admit not of a half-renown;
 They give you nothing, or they give a crown.

No work e'er gain'd true fame, or ever can;
But what did honour to the name of man.

Weighty the subject, cogent the discourse,
Clear be the style, the very sound of force;
Easy the conduct, simple the design,
Striking the moral, and the soul divine:
Let nature art, and judgment wit, exceed;
O'er learning reason reign; o'er that, your creed:
Thus virtue's seeds, at once, and laurel's, grow;
Do thus, and rise a Pope, or a Despreaux:
And when your genius exquisitely shines,
Live up to the full lustre of your lines:
Parts but expose those men who virtue quit;
A fallen angel is a fallen wit;
And they plead Lucifer's detested cause,
Who for bare talents challenge our applause.
Would you restore just honours to the pen?
From able writers rise to worthy men.

' Who's this with nonsense, nonsense would restrain?
' Who's this (they cry) so vainly schools the vain?
' Who damns our trash, with so much trash replete?
' As, three ells round, huge Cheyne rails at meat?'

Shall I with Bavius then my voice exalt,
And challenge all mankind to find one fault?
With huge examens overwhelm my page,
And darken reason with dogmatic rage?
As if, one tedious volume writ in rhyme,
In prose a duller could excuse the crime?
Sure, next to writing, the most idle thing
Is gravely to harangue on what we sing.

At that tribunal stands the writing tribe,
Which nothing can intimidate or bribe:
Time is the judge; Time has no friend nor foe;
False fame must wither, and the true will grow.
Arm'd with this truth, all critics I defy;
For if I fall, by my own pen I die;
While snarlers strive with proud but fruitless pain,
To wound immortals, or to slay the slain.

Sore prest with danger, and in awful dread
Of twenty pamphlets levell'd at my head,
Thus have I forg'd a buckler in my brain,
Of recent form, to serve me this campaign;
And safely hope to quit the dreadful field
Delug'd with ink, and sleep behind my shield;
Unless dire Codrus rouses to the fray
In all his might, and damns me—for a day.

As turns a flock of geese, and, on the green,
Poke out their foolish necks in aukward spleen,
(Ridiculous in rage!) to hiss, not bite,
So war their quills, when sons of dulness write.

Psal. xxviii.

I.

SWEET rural scene!

Of flocks and green!

At careless ease my limbs are spread;

All nature still,

But yonder rill;

And list'ning pines nod o'er my head:

II.

In prospect wide,

The boundless tide!

Waves cease to foam, and winds to roar;

Without a breeze,

The curling seas

Dance on, in measure to the shore.

III.

Who sings the source
Of wealth and force?
Vast field of commerce, and big war,
Where wonders dwell!
Where terrors swell!
And Neptune thunders from his car?

IV.

Where? where, are they,
Whom Paean's ray
Has touch'd, and bid divinely rave?
What! none aspire?
I snatch the lyre,
And plunge into the foaming wave.

V.

The wave resounds!
The rock rebounds!
The Nereids to my song reply!
I lead the choir,
And they conspire,
With voice and shell, to lift it high.

VI.

They spread in air
Their bosoms fair,
Their verdant tresses pour behind:
The billows beat
With nimble feet,
With notes triumphant swell the wind.

VII.

Who love the shore,
 Let those adore
 The god Apollo, and his nine,
 Parnassus' hill,
 And Orpheus' skill;
 But let Arion's harp be mine.

VIII.

The main ! the main !
 Is Britain's reign ;
 Her strength, her glory, is her fleet :
 The main ! the main !
 Be Britain's strain ;
 As Tritons strong, as Syrens sweet.

IX.

Thro' nature wide
 Is nought descry'd
 So rich in pleasure or surprize ;
 When all-serene,
 How sweet the scene ?
 How dreadful, when the billows rise ;

X.

And storms deface
 The fluid glass,
 In which ere-while Britannia fair
 Look'd down with pride,
 Like ocean's bride,
 Adjusting her majestic air ?

XI.

When tempests cease,
 And hush'd in peace,
 The flatten'd surges smoothly spread,
 Deep silence keep,
 And seem to sleep
 Recumbent on their oozy bed;

XII.

With what a trance,
 The level glance,
 Unbroken, shoots along the seas?
 Which tempt from shore
 The painted oar;
 And every canvas courts the breeze!

XIII.

When rushes forth
 The frowning north
 On black'ning billows, with what dread
 My shuddering soul
 Beholds them roll,
 And hears their roarings o'er my head?

XIV.

With terror, mark
 Yon flying bark!
 Now center-deep descend the brave,
 Now, toss'd on high,
 It takes the sky,
 A feather on the tow'ring wave!

XV.

Now spins around
 In whirls profound :
 Now whelm'd ; now pendant near the clouds ;
 Now stunn'd, it reels
 Midst thunders peals :
 And now fierce lightning fires the thronds.

XVI.

All ether burns !
 Chaos returns !
 And blends, once more, the seas and skies :
 No space between
 Thy bosom green,
 O deep ! and the blue concave, lies.

XVII.

The northern blast,
 The shatter'd mast,
 The syrt, the whirlpool, and the rock,
 The breaking spout,
 The stars gone out,
 The boiling streight, the monsters shock,

XVIII.

Let others fear ;
 To Britain dear
 Whate'er promotes her daring claim ;
 Those terrors charm,
 Which keep her warm
 In chase of honest gain, or fame.

XIX.

The stars are bright,
 To cheer the night,
 And shed, thro' shadows, temper'd fire;
 And Phoebus flames,
 With burnish'd beams,
 Which some adore, and all admire.

XX.

Are then the seas
 Outshone by these?
 Bright Thetis! thou art not outshone;
 With kinder beams,
 And softer gleams,
 Thy bosom wears them as thy own.

XXI.

There, set in green,
 Gold-stars are seen,
 A mantle rich! thy charms to wrap;
 And when the sun
 His race has run,
 He falls enamour'd in thy lap.

XXII.

Those clouds, whose dyes
 Adorn the skies,
 That silver snow, that pearly rain,
 Has Phoebus stole
 To grace the pole,
 The plunder of th' invaded main!

XXIII.

The gaudy bow,
 Whose colours glow,
 Whose arch with so much skill is bent;
 To Phoebus ray,
 Which paints so gay,
 By thee the wat'ry woof was lent.

XXIV.

In chambers deep,
 Where waters sleep,
 What unknown treasures pave the floor?
 The pearl, in rows,
 Pale lustre throws;
 The wealth immense, which storms devour.

XXV.

From Indian mines,
 With proud designs,
 The merchant, swoln, digs golden ore;
 The tempests rise,
 And seize the prize,
 And toss him breathless on the shore.

XXVI.

His son complains
 In pious strains,
 'Ah cruel thirst of gold!! he cries';
 Then ploughs the main,
 In zeal for gain,
 The tears yet swelling in his eyes.

XXVII.

Thou watry vast!
 What mounds are cast
 To bar thy dreadful flowings o'er?
 Thy proudest foam
 Must know its home;
 But rage of gold disdains a shore.

XXVIII.

Gold pleasure buys;
 But pleasure dies,
 Too soon the gross fruition cloy;
 Tho' raptures court,
 The sense is short;
 But virtue kindles living joys;

XXIX.

Joys felt alone!
 Joys ask'd of none!
 Which time's and fortune's arrows miss:
 Joys that subside,
 Tho' fates resist,
 An unprecious, endless bliss!

XXX.

The soul refin'd
 Is most inclin'd
 To every moral excellence;
 All vice is dull,
 A knave's a fool;
 And virtue is the child of sense.

MY muse, a bird of passage, flies
From frozen climes to milder skies;
From chilling blasts she seeks thy chearing beam,
A beam of favour, here deny'd;
Conscious of faults, her blushing pride
Hopes an asylum in so great a name.

The warriors ardent deeds to raise,
And monarchs aggrandize;—the glory, thine;
Thine is the drama, how renown'd?
Thine, epic's loftier trump to sound;—

But where's his dolphin? know'st thou, where?
 May that be found in thee, Voltaire!
 Save thou from harm my plunge into the wave:
 How will thy name illustrious raise
 My sinking song? mere mortal lays,
 So patroniz'd, are rescu'd from the grave.

IV.

' Tell me, say'st thou, who courts my smile?
 ' What stranger stray'd from yonder isle?'—
 No stranger, Sir! though born in foreign climes;
 On Dorset downs, when Milton's page,
 With Sin and Death, provok'd thy rage,
 Thy rage provok'd, who sooth'd with gentle rhymes?

V.

Who kindly couch'd thy censure's eye,
 And gave thee clearly to descry
 Sound judgment giving law to fancy strong?
 Who half inclin'd thee to confess,
 Nor could thy modesty do less,
 That Milton's blindness lay not in his song?

VI.

But such debates long since are flown;
 For ever set the suns that shone
 On airy pastimes, ere our brows were grey:
 How shortly shall we both forget,
 To thee my patron, I my debt,
 And thou to thine, for Prussia's golden key.

VII.

The present, in oblivion cast,
 Full soon shall sleep, as sleeps the past;
 Full soon the wide distinction die between
 The frowns, and favours of the great;
 High-flush'd success, and pale defeat;
 The Gallic gaiety, and British spleen.

VIII.

Ye wing'd, ye rapid moments! stay:—
 Oh friend! as deaf, as rapid, they;
 Life's little drama done, the curtain falls!—
 Dost thou not hear it? I can hear,
 Though nothing strikes the listening ear;
 Time groans his last! ETERNAL loudly calls!

IX.

Nor calls in vain; the call inspires
 Far other counsels, and desires,
 Than once prevail'd; we stand on higher ground;
 What scenes we see?—Exalted aim!
 With ardors new, our spirits flame;
 Ambition blest! with more than laurels crown'd.

SEA-PIECE.

ODE THE FIRST.

The BRITISH SAILOR'S Exultation.

I.

IN lofty sounds let those delight,
Who brave the foe, but fear the fight;
And bold in word, of arms decline the stroke;
'Tis mean to boast; but great to lend
To foes the counsel of a friend,
And warn them of the vengeance they provoke.

II.

From whence arise these loud alarms?
Why gleams the south with brandish'd arms?
War, bath'd in blood, from curst ambition springs:
Ambition, mean! ignoble pride!
Perhaps their ardors may subside,
When weigh'd the wonders Britain's sailor sings.

III.

Hear, and revere.—At Britain's nod,
 From each enchanted grove and wood,
 Hastes the huge oak, or shadeless forest leaves;
 The mountain pines assume new forms,
 Spread canvas-wings, and fly through storms,
 And ride o'er rocks, and dance on foaming waves.

IV.

She nods again : the labouring earth
 Discloses a tremendous birth ;
 In smoking rivers runs her molten ore ;
 Thence, monsters of enormous size,
 And hideous aspect, threat'ning rise,
 Flame from the deck, from trembling bastions roar.

V.

These ministers of fate fulfil,
 On empires wide, an island's will,
 When thrones unjust wake vengeance : know, ye pow'rs!
 In sudden night, and ponderous balls,
 And floods of flame, the tempest falls,
 When brav'd Britannia's awful senate lows.

VI.

In her * grand council she surveys,
 In patriot picture, what may raise,
 Of insolent attempts, a warm disdain ;
 From hope's triumphant summit thrown,
 Like darted light'ning, swiftly down
 The wealth of Ind, and confidence of Spain.

* House of Lords.

VII.

Britannia sheaths her courage keen,
 And spares her nitrous magazine;
 Her cannon slumber, till the proud aspire,
 And leave all law below them; then they blaze!
 They thunder from resounding seas,
 Touch'd by their injur'd master's soul of fire.

VIII.

Then furies rise! the battle raves!
 And rends the skies! and warms the waves!
 And calls a tempest from the peaceful deep,
 In spite of nature, spite of Jove,
 While all-serene, and hush'd above,
 Tumultuous winds in azure chambers sleep.

IX.

A thousand deaths the bursting bomb
 Hurls from her disembowel'd womb;
 Chain'd, glowing globes, in dread alliance, join'd,
 Red-wing'd by strong, sulphureous blasts,
 Sweep, in black whirlwinds, men, and masts;
 And leave sing'd, naked, blood-drown'd, decks behind.

X.

Dwarf laurels rise in tented fields;
 The wreath immortal, ocean yields;
 There war's whole sting is shot, whole fire is spent,
 Whole glory blooms: how pale, how tame,
 How lambent is Bellona's flame;
 How her storms languish on the continent?

XI.

From the dread front of ancient war
Lest terror frown'd ; her scythed car,
Her castled elephant, and batt'ring beam,
Stoop to those engines which deny
Superior terrors to the sky,
And boast their clouds, their thunder, and their flame.

XII.

The flame, the thunder, and the cloud,
The night by day, the sea of blood,
Hosts whirl'd in air, the yell of sinking throngs,
The graveless dead, an ocean warm'd,
A firmament by mortals storm'd,
To patient Britain's angry brow belongs.

XIII.

Or do I dream ? or do I rave ?
Or see I Vulcan's sooty cave,
Where Jove's red bolts the giant brothers frame ?
Those swarthy gods of toil and heat,
Loud peals on mountain anvils beat,
And panting tempests rouse the roaring flame.

XIV.

Ye sons of Ætna ! hear my call ;
Unfinish'd let those baubles fall,
Yon shield of Mars, Minerva's helmet blue :
Your strokes suspend, ye brawny throng !
Charm'd by the magic of my song,
Drop the feign'd thunder, and attempt the true.

XV.

Begin : * and, first, take rapid flight,
 Fierce flame, and clouds of thickest night,
 And ghastly terror, paler than the dead ;
 Then, borrow from the north his roar,
 Mix groans, and deaths; one phial pour
 Of wrong'd Britannia's wrath; and it is made;
 Gaul starts, and trembles,——at your dreadful trade.

* Alluding to Virgil's description of thunder.

ODE THE SECOND.

IN WHICH IS

The Sailor's Prayer before Engagement.

I.

SO form'd the bolt, ordain'd to break
Gaul's haughty plan, and Bourbon shake;
If Britain's crimes support not Britain's foes,
And edge their swords: O Pow'r Divine!
If blest by thee the bold design,
Embattled hosts a single arm o'erthrows.

II.

Ye warlike dead, who fell of old
In Britain's cause, by fame enroll'd
In deathless annal! deathless deeds inspire;
From oozy beds, for Britain's sake,
Awake, illustrious chiefs! awake;
And kindle in your sons paternal fire.

III.

The day commissioned from above,
Our worth to weigh, our hearts to prove,
If war's full shock too feeble to sustain;
Or firm to stand its final blow,
When vital streams of blood shall flow,
And turn to crimson the discolour'd main;

IV.

That day's arriv'd, that fatal hour!——

- ‘ Hear us, O hear, Almighty Pow’r!
- ‘ Our guide in counsel, and our strength in fight!
- ‘ Now war’s important die is thrown,
- ‘ If left the day to man alone,
- ‘ How blind is wisdom, and how weak is might?

V.

- ‘ Let prostrate hearts, and awful fear,
- ‘ And deep remorse, and sighs sincere
- ‘ For Britain’s guilt, the wrath divine appease;
- ‘ A wrath, more formidable far
- ‘ Than angry nature’s wasteful war,
- ‘ The whirl of tempests, and the roar of seas.

VI.

- ‘ From out the deep, to thee we cry,
- ‘ To thee, at nature’s helm on high!
- ‘ Steer thou our conduct, dread Omnipotence!
- ‘ To thee for succour we resort;
- ‘ Thy favour is our only port;
- ‘ Our only rock of safety, thy defence.

VII.

- ‘ O thou, to whom the lions roar,
- ‘ And, not unheard, thy boon implore!
- ‘ Thy throne our bursts of cannon loud invoke:
- ‘ Thou canst arrest the flying ball;
- ‘ Or send it back, and bid it fall
- ‘ On those, from whose proud deck the thunder broke.

VIII.

- Britain, in vain, extends her care
- To climes * remote, for aids in war;
- Still farther must it stretch to crush the foe;
- There's one alliance, one alone,
- Can crown her arms, or fix her throne;
- And that alliance is not found below.

IX.

- Ally Supreme! we turn to thee;
- We learn obedience from the sea;
- With seas, and winds, henceforth, thy laws fulfil;
- 'Tis thine our blood to freeze, or warm;
- To rouse, or hush, the martial storm;
- And turn the tide of conquest, at thy will.

X.

- 'Tis thine to beam sublime renown,
- Or quench the glories of a crown;
- 'Tis thine to doom, 'tis thine from death to free;
- To turn aside his levell'd dart,
- Or pluck it from the bleeding heart:—
- There we cast anchor, we confide in Thee.

XI.

- THOU, who hast taught the north to roar,
- And streaming † lights nocturnal pour
- Of frightful aspect! when proud foes invade,
- Their blasted pride with dread to seize,
- Bid Britain's flags, as meteors, blaze;
- And George depute to thunder in thy stead.

* Russia.

† Aurora Borealis.

XII.

- The right alone is bold, and strong;
- Black, hovering clouds appall the wrong
- With dread of vengeance: nature's awful Sire!
- Less than one moment shouldst thou frown,
- Where is puissance, and renown?
- Thrones tremble, empires sink, or worlds expire.

XIII.

- Let George the just chastise the vain:
- Thou, who dost curb the rebel main,
- To mount the shore when boiling billows rave!
- Bid George repel a bolder tide,
- The boundless swell of Gallic pride;
- And check ambition's overwhelming wave.

XIV.

- And when (all milder means withstood)
- Ambition, tam'd by loss of blood,
- Regains her reason; then, on angels wings,
- Let peace descend, and shouting greet,
- With peals of joy, Britannia's fleet,
- How richly freighted? it, triumphant, brings
- The poise of kingdoms, and the fate of kings.

*Ther let great George sit long upon the throne
As long as Britain seems like Rome*
